PRIVACY ACT ISSUANCES, 1989 COMPILATION

This multivolume biennial compilation contains:

—descriptions of systems of records maintained on individuals by Federal agencies which were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER as required by the Privacy Act of 1974;

—rules of each agency which set out the procedures that agencies will follow in helping individuals who request information about their records.

AUTHORITY

This compilation of Privacy Act Issuances is published by the Office of the Federal Register in compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a).

CUTOFF DATES

This compilation reflects rules and notices of systems of records in effect as of December 31, 1989.

TITLE AND FORM OF CITATION

The official title of this publication is "Privacy Act Issuances, 1989 Compilation". To cite a system of records or rule in this publication, the form of citation would be:

Privacy Act Issuances, 1989 Comp., Volume ..., p....

HOW TO USE THIS COMPILATION

Identify the system you think may contain information about you and the agency that maintains those records.

Read the agency's regulations following its systems of records to determine the procedures you must follow to obtain information from that agency.

INFORMATION YOU CANNOT GET

There are limitations to the kind of information you can get. The agency may refuse to let you see information that—

—Relates to national security;

—Could reveal a confidential source; or —Could be used to give people an unfair advantage on a government examination.

Generally, an agency's system notices (description of its systems of records) and its regulations will describe that agency's limitations on release of information.

SOME GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

How To Make a Request

In most cases you can inquire in person or by mail. It will be easier for the agency to help you, and your request will be handled more quickly, if you follow these procedures:

1. Give your full name and address, and sign your request.

2. Specify the system(s) of records you believe contain information about you.

3. Provide the relevant information required by the system you are interested in. For example, if you are inquiring about any contract you have had with the Government (loan application, contract, grant application, etc.), give the date and subject matter, and any identifying numbers that appear on documents you received.

4. Address your request to the official or person and address given in the system entry.

5. Print the words "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST" on the front of the envelope.

Proof of Identity

The agency will need some proof of your identity such as—

1. A document with your full name and address:

2. A document that has your signature and/or your photograph such as a passport, medicare card, or unemployment insurance book.

3. Any other identification specified in the system entry or regulations. If your request is by mail, you should include copies of whatever documents the agency requires to prove your identity. There is a penalty for making false statements.

Fees

The agency may charge you a fee for a copy of your records, but they may not charge you for the time and expense of locating them. The agency's rules usually state how much the fee is.

GENERAL INQUIRIES

This volume was edited by Gladys Queen Ramey under the direction of Richard L. Claypoole.

For further information concerning the technical aspects of this volume, call 202-523-3187. Written comments or suggestions should be addressed to the Director, Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Administration, Washington, D.C. 20408.

INTERIOR/OIG-1

System name: Management Information—Interior, Office of Inspector General-1.

System location: (1) Office of Inspector General, U.S. Department of the Interior, 18th and C Streets, NW, Washington, D.C. 20240; (2) Office of Inspector General Regional Offices and Regional Suboffices (A current listing of such offices and their locations can be obtained from the System Manager).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Past, present and prospective departmental employees, contractors, subcontractors, grantees, subgrantees, lessees, licensees, and other persons doing business with the Department, or having contact with the Department or geographical areas under its jurisdiction.

Categories of records in the system: (a) OIG Employee Resources file will contain information regarding OIG employee assignments, distribution of time, training completed and performance; (b) Audit Status file will contain status information on all audits from point of request or annual planning through follow-up and eventual closure; (c) Investigation Status file will contain status information on all investigations from point of receipt or acceptance of a case through closure; (d) Audit and Investigations History file will contain the findings, recommendations and actions on all audits and investigations; (e) Audit Inventory file will contain a record of each auditable entity of the Department, including its contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, organizations, programs and functions; and (f) Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act file will contain information relating to requests for access to OIG records and other kinds of requests under those Acts, and OIG action on such requests.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Inspector General Act of 1978, 5 U.S.C.A. app. I, sections 1-12.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The primary uses of the records are: (a) Personnel information will be used by staff managers to determine training needs, quality of performance, and promotional eligibility; (b) assignment information and workload status information will be used by managers to control audits and investigations, and to maximize effectiveness of staff resources; (c) the Audit Status file will be used to track all audits from point of request or actual planning through follow-up and eventual closure; (d) the Investigation Status file will be used to track all investigations from point of receipt or acceptance through closure; (e) the Audit and Investigation History file will record the findings, recommendations, and actions on all audits and investigations and will serve to archive pertinent history of audits and investigation; (f) to conduct and report investigations of serious misconduct or irregularities, mismanagement, gross waste of funds, abuse of authority, danger to public health and safety, or violation of law, to ensure compliance by Departmental employees, contractors, subcontractors, grantees, subgrantees, lessees, licensees and other persons doing business with the Department with federal statutes, regulations, policies, and procedures; (g) to develop audit reports which bring to the attention of management officials, the Congress, contractors, and grantees, etc., existing deficiencies and recommendations for correcting those deficiencies; (h) the Audit Inventory file will be used to forecast budget requirements for auditing each entity, review of contracts and grants for compliance and detections or prevention of fraud, waste and abuse, and to conduct trend analysis and review of expenditures; (i) the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act file will improve efficiency in responding to requests under those Acts; and (j) to prevent and detect fraud and abuse and to promote economy, efficiency, and effectiveness in the program and operations of the Department of the Interior.

Disclosures outside of the department may be made: (1) To the U.S. Department of Justice when related to litigation or anticipated litigation; (2) to a Member of Congress from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry made at the request of that individual; (3) to a federal, state, tribal, territorial or local government agency which has funds involved to alert that agency to the deficiencies so that the agency may take corrective action; (4) to another federal, state, tribal, territorial or local government agency having partial or complete jurisdiction over the auditee or subject matter of the audit; (5) to appropriate federal, state, tribal, territorial, local, or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation of, or for enforcing, implementing, or administering a statute, rule, regulations, order, program, facility, lease, license, contract, grant, or other agreement; (6) to a federal, state, tribal, territorial, local, or foreign agency, or an organization, or an individual when reasonably necessary to obtain information or assistance relating to an audit, investigation, trial, hearing, preparation for trial or hearing, or any other authorized activity of the Office of Inspector General; (7) to federal, state, tribal, territorial, local, or foreign agencies where necessary to obtain information or assistance relating to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant, or other benefit; (8) to a federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant, or other benefit; (9) to an actual or potential party or his or her attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matter as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (10) to a foreign government pursuant to an international treaty, convention, or executive agreement entered into by the United States; (11) to complainants for the purpose of notifying them of the progress and disposition of their complaints.

Storage: Password files on an automated data processing system.

Retrievability: Most files in the system are accessed by case number or report title (which may incorporate the name of an individual), but the Employee Resources Personnel file is accessed by social security account number; the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act file is accessed also by name of requester or submitter.

Safeguards: Manual files are in locked rooms. Electronic files are protected by passwords accessible only to authorized persons. Computerized files will be safeguarded in accordance with 43 CFR 2.51(c).

Retention and disposal: General personnel information is destroyed when no longer needed for administrative use; the continuous update files are closed at the end of an audit or investigation and transferred to the Audit and Investigation History files for retention; the Audit Inventory, Audit and Investigation History, and Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act files will be destroyed when no longer needed for agency use.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Inspector General for Administration, Office of Inspector General, U.S. Department of the Interior, 18th and C Sts., NW, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Notification procedure: Inquiries may be addressed to the System Manager as indicated above. (See 43 CFR 2.60 for details on inquiries.)

Record access procedures: A request for access may be addressed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures: A petition for amendment shall be addressed to the System Manager and must meet the requirements of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories: Departmental employees, departmental employment records, reports and notices, present and prospective contractors, subcontractors, grantees, subgrantees, lessees, licensees, and other persons doing official business with the Department, or having contact with the Department or geographical areas under its jurisdiction.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary use of the system of records is for the investigation and resolution of complaints of discrimination and for the compilation of statistical information on complaints of discrimination in violation of the aforementioned legislation cited under "Authority for Maintenance of the System". Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made: (1) To other Federal agencies charged with the enforcement of equal employment opportunity laws, orders and regulations, on a need-to-know basis to assist these agencies in their enforcement activities; (2) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the disclosure is deemed by the Department of the Interior to be relevant or necessary to the litigation, and (c) the Department of the Interior determines that disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (3) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute, regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (4) to a Member of Congress from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are stored in file folders and in automated records systems.

Retrievability:

Files maintained in manual systems may be retrieved by: (1) Name, (2) docket control number; (3) bureau; (4) political jurisdiction; or (5) any combination of those identifiers.

Additionally, within the automated system of records, information is retrieved by: (1) Bureau, (2) docket control number, (3) name, or (4) any combination of those identifiers.

Safeguards:

Records are maintained with safeguards meeting the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended (5 U.S.C. 552a) and the Departmental Regulations (43 CFR Part 2, Subpart D). Standards for the maintenance of records subject to the Privacy Act are described in the Departmental regulations (43 CFR 2.48) and involve the content of the records, data collection practices, and the use, safeguarding, and disposal of personal information in the records.

Records system areas are posted with warnings to include access limitation, standards of conduct for employees in handling Privacy Act records (383 DM 9), and possible criminal penalties for violation. Access to hard-copy records is restricted by containing records in a locked metal file cabinet or locked room. Keys to rooms containing system of records are off-master.

Records subject to the Act that are maintained in automated data processing form are subject to safeguards based on recommendations of the National Bureau of Standards contained in "Computer Security Guidelines for Implementing the Privacy Act of 1974" (FIPS Pub. 41, May 30, 1975).

Each bureau is responsible for ensuring that specific procedures are developed for maintaining each of its systems of records with appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to insure the security and confidentiality of records, and to protect against the possibility of substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained. These procedures are developed for both manual and computerized records, as detailed in the Department's regulations (43 CFR 2.51) and in 383 DM 8.

Retention and disposal:

Records are retained and disposed in compliance with the National Archives and Records Administration's General Records Schedule No. 1, Item No. 26.

In addition, the Departmental Office of Information Resources Management and the Department Office for Equal Opportunity will coordinate responsibility for archival record transfers and record storage and disposal methods for the automated system within the Departmental Office for Equal Opportunity.

INTERIOR/OS-74

System name: Grievance Records—Interior, Office of the Secretary—74.

System location: These records are located in Departmental personnel or designated offices in which the grievances were filed.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Current or former Departmental employees who have submitted grievances in accordance with Part 771 of Office of Personnel Management regulations (5 CFR Part 771), or a negotiated procedure.

Categories of records in the system: The system contains records relating to grievances filed by Department employees under Part 771 of Office of Personnel Management regulations. These case files contain all documents related to the grievance, including statements of witnesses, reports of interviews and hearings, examiner's findings and recommendations, a copy of the original and final decision, and related correspondence and exhibits. This system includes files and records of internal grievance and arbitration systems that the Department may establish through negotiations with recognized labor organizations.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 1302, 3301, 3302, E.O. 10577, 3 CFR 1954–1958 Comp. p218.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records and information in these records may be used:

a. To disclose pertinent information to the appropriate Federal, State, or local agency responsible for investigating, prosecuting, enforcing or implementing a statute, rule, regulation, or order, where the disclosing agency becomes aware of an indication of a violation or potential violation of civil or criminal law or regulation.

b. To disclose information to any source from which additional information is requested in the course of processing a grievance, to the extent necessary to identify the individual, inform the source of the purpose(s) of the request, and identify the type of information requested.

c. To disclose information to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of any employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the conducting of a security or suitablility investigation of an individual, the classifying of jobs, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

d. To provide information to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from that congressional office made at the request of that individual

e. To disclose information to another Federal agency or to a court when the Government is party to a judicial proceeding before the court.

f. By the National Archives and Records Service (General Services Administration) in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2908.

g. By the agency maintaining the records in the production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained, or for related work force studies. While published statistics and studies do not contain individual identifiers, in some instances the selection of elements of data included in the study may be structured in such a way as to make the data individually identifiable by inference.

h. To disclose information to officials of the Office of Personnel Management; Merit Systems Protection Board, including the Office of the Special Counsel; the Federal Labor Relations Authority and its General Counsel; or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission when requested in performance of their authorized duties.

i. To disclose, in response to a request for discovery or for appearance of a witness, information that is relevant to the subject matter involved in a pending judicial or administrative proceeding.

j. To provide information to officials of labor organizations recognized under the Civil Service Reform Act when relevant and necessary to their duties of exclusive representation concerning personnel policies, practices, and matters affecting work conditions.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: These records are maintained in file folders.

Retrievability:

These records are retrieved by the names of the individuals on whom they are maintained.

Safeguards: These records are maintained in lockable metal filing cabinets to which only authorized personnel have access.

Retention and disposal: The records compiled under 5 CFR Part 771 are disposed of 3 years after closing of the case. Records compiled under a negotiated procedure are disposed of in accordance with approved records schedules.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Office of Personnel, U.S. Department of the Interior, 18th & C Streets, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Notification procedure: It is required that individuals submitting grievances be provided a copy of the record under the grievance process. They may, however, contact the Department personnel or designated office where the action was processed, regarding the existence of such records on them. They must furnish the following information for their record to be located and identified: Name, date of birth, approximate date of closing of the case and kind of action taken, and organizational component involved. See 43 CFR 2.60.

Record access procedures: It is required that individuals submitting grievances be provided a copy of the record under the grievance process. However, after the action has been closed, an individual may request access to the official copy of the grievance file by contacting the Departmental personnel or designated office where the action for their records to be located and identified: Name, date of birth, approximate date of closing of the case and kind of action taken, and organizational component involved. Individuals requesting access must also follow the requirements in 43 CFR 2.61.

Contesting record procedures: Review of requests from individuals seeking amendment of their records which have been the subject of a judicial or quasi-judicial action will be limited in scope. Review of amendment requests of these records will be restricted to determining if the record accurately documents the action of the agency ruling on the case, and will not include a review of the merits of the action, determination, or finding. Individuals wishing to request amendment to their records to correct factual errors should contact the Departmental personnel or designated office where the grievance was processed. Individuals must furnish the following information for their records to be located and identified: Name, date of birth, approximate date of closing of the case and kind of action taken, and organizational component involved. See 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories: Information in this system of records is provided by the individual on whom the record is maintained, by testimony of witnesses, by agency officials, by grievance examiners, by arbitrators, and from related correspondence from organizations or persons.

INTERIOR/OS—79

General Personnel Records—Interior, Office of the Secretary—79.

Note.—This system complements OPM-GOVT-1 which delineates the Governmentwide system for general personnel records. This notice does not repeat all information contained in OPM-GOVT-1.

System location:

Hard copy records on current and recently separated employees are located at the Personnel Office or other designated office of the installation which currently employees (or recently employed) the individual. Automated personnel records are maintained on the PAY/PERs system administered by the Bureau of Reclamation in Denver, Colorado. (The Office of the Secretary maintains the DPDF—Departmental Personnel Data File—in Washington, D.C. Automated personnel records for employees in the Office of the Secretary. Geological Survey, National Park Service, Office of the Solicitor, and Fish and Wildlife Service are maintained on the DIPS system administered by the Geological Survey in Washington, D.C. These two systems will be abolished once records are incorporated into PAY/PERS by the end of 1984.

Current and recently separated employees of the Department.

Categories of records in the system:

An individual record is maintained for each employee containing historical as well as current personnel data.

5 U.S.C. 2951, 5 U.S.C. 2954.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The official hard copy (paper microform) records maintained by the servicing personnel office provide basic data for preparation and verification of personnel reports and documents. They also provide a comprehensive and continuing record of each employee's service, status, skills, and personnel history, for use in the merit promotion program, reduction in force and to effect other personnel actions. Automated records are used to generate reports and listings; produce standard personnel management documents; establish and verify entitlement to pay and benefits; and provide historical data.

Routine use disclosures outside the Department will be the same as stated in the systems notice for the OPM/GOVT-1 system of records.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

These records are maintained in file folders, on lists and forms, microfilm or microfiche and in computer processible storage media.

Retrievability:

These records are retrieved by various combinations of name, birth date, Social Security Number, or identification number of the individual on whom they are maintained.

Safeguards:

Paper or microfiche/microfilmed records are located in lockable metal file cabinets or in secured rooms with access limited to those personnel whose official duties require access. Automated records are maintained with safeguards meeting the requirements of 43 CFR 2.51 for computer records. Access to all records in this system is limited to Departmental officials whose official duties require access. Bureau officials will generally only have access to records pertaining to employees of their own bureau.

Retention and disposal:

In accordance with approved Retention and Disposal schedules. Some records may be retained indefinitely as a basis for longitudinal work history statistical studies.

INTERIOR/WBM-2

Travel Advance File—Interior, Mines-2.

Bureau of Mines, Division of Finance, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All Bureau of Mines employees who have active travel advances or who have closed travel advances.

Categories of records in the system:

File consists of signed forms whereon employees request travel advances for the purpose of paying travel expenses incurred in the performance of official government business. These forms also include repayments against any advances, whether by claims offset on travel vouchers or remittances by checks, money orders, etc., and records of overpayments and/or debts owed the Federal Government.

5 U.S.C. 4111(b), 5701-5709, 5721-5733, 5742(b).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary uses of the records are (a) to provide an accounting record of obligations due to the U.S. Government from employees authorized cash advances to defray expenses incurred in official travel. Payments to the traveler and repayments to the Government are reflected in the record; (b) to serve as a backup authority and manually reconciled file to the entries for travel advances in the automated Finance system; (c) computer data are reported to each Bureau office as part of the detailed composition of monthly expense reports applicable to charges made to cost accounts within the Finance system. Only data pertinent to individual Bureau offices are available to that office. Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made (1) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (2) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute, regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (3) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry the individual has made to the congressional office; (4) to a Federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant or other benefit; (5) to Federal, State or local agencies where necessary to obtain information relevant to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant or other benefit; (6) to other Federal agencies for the purpose of collecting debts owed to the Federal government by administrative or salary offset.

Disclosure to consumer reporting agencies:

Disclosures pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12). Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12), disclosures may be made to a consumer reporting agency as defined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f) or the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966 (31 U.S.C. 3701(a)(3)).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained in cardboard boxes in the Division of Finance.

Retrievability:

Files are stored alphabetically by fiscal year.

Safeguards:

Open files are kept by the Travel Advance Clerk for active usage. Closed records are kept in boxes in the vault. Files are accessible during working hours only by personnel from the Division of Finance. Office is locked during periods of non-work.

Retention and disposal:

Records are retained for 3 years, then destroyed. Disposition is in accordance with the National Archives General Records Schedule No. 9, Item 3a.

System manager(s) and address:

Chief, Division of Finance, Bureau of Mines, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries regarding the existence of records should be addressed to the System Manager. A written, signed request stating that the requester seeks information concerning records, pertaining to him/her is required. See 43 CFR 2.60.

Record access procedures:

A request for access may be addressed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and be signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures:

A petition for amendment should be addressed to the System Manager and must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories:

Information for this system originates with the traveler who specifies the need of a travel advance. The request is concurred in by signature of a responsible supervisory official. All entries on the file are as a result of actions taken by the individual to liquidate his/her travel advance.

INTERIOR/WBM-3

Travel Voucher and Authorizations—Interior, Mines-3.

Bureau of Mines, Division of Finance, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All persons traveling for or on behalf of the Bureau of Mines on official business.

Categories of records in the system:

Voucher file consists of paid travel vouchers which reimburse travelers for expenses incurred in connection with official travel. Travel authorization file consists of record copies of authorizations for travel for which no travel vouchers have been submitted for payment, and records of overpayments and/or debts owed the Federal Government, and related official travel.

5 U.S.C. 5701, et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary uses of the records are (a) as backup entry data for obligations and disbursements in the automated Finance system of the Bureau of Mines; (b) as input to the Bureau's Automated Disbursement System. This system is used to accumulate approved payments and to generate a daily file which is used by the Treasury Department to issue checks; (c) computer data are reported to each Bureau office as part of the detailed composition of monthly expense reports applicable to charges made to cost accounts within the Finance system. Only data pertinent to individual Bureau offices are available to that office; (d) vouchers are used to determine allowability of expenses within the law authorizing payment of travel expenses. The documents are used to determine which expenses incurred by the traveler can be paid and are sometimes used to report to other Federal agencies summarizations of those types of allowable expenses. Usually, the individual's name is not used in outside reporting but the date is. Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made (1) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (2) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, state, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing, the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (3) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry the individual has made to the congressional office; (4) to a Federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant or other benefit; (5) to Federal, state, or local agencies where necessary to obtain information relevant to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant or other benefit; (6) to other Federal agencies for the purpose of collecting debts owed to the Federal government by administrative or salary offset.

Disclosure to consumer reporting agencies:

Disclosures pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12). Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12), disclosures may be made to a consumer reporting agency as defined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f)) or the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966 (31 U.S.C. 3701(a)(3)).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Original records are maintained in standard office filing equipment. Computerized data are stored on magnetic media at the computer processing center.

Retrievability:

Manual voucher files are maintained alphabetically by name of traveler within fiscal year. Computerized records are maintained by transaction number within the overall numbering sequence of the accounting system. Authorizations are filed alphabetically by name awaiting payment of travel voucher. Authorization becomes part of the voucher packet at time of payment.

Safeguards:

Files are maintained with safeguards meeting the requirements of 43 CFR 2.51 in the Division of Finance and are available only to Division of Finance personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Records are retained for 3 years, then destroyed. Disposition is in accordance with the National Archives General Records Schedule No. 9, Item 3a.

System manager(s) and address:

Chief, Division of Finance, Bureau of Mines, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver CO 80225.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries regarding the existence of records should be addressed to the System Manager. A written, signed request stating that the requester seeks information concerning records pertaining to him/her is required. See 43 CFR 2.60.

Record access procedures:

A request for access may be addressed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and be signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures:

A petition for amendment should be addressed to the System Manager and must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories:

Information for these files is based on an authorization signed by the traveler in the form of a request. A travel voucher is submitted by the traveler after incurring expenses for official travel and is a request for payment based on his/her record of official expenses.

INTERIOR/WkB-7

Personnel Security Files—Interior, Mines-7.

Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, 2401 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20241.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Bureau of Mines employees and contractors, and former employees and contractors whose duties have been designated Special-Sensitive, Critical-Sensitive and Noncritical-Sensitive for national security purposes and/or whose duties have been designated ADP Special-Sensitive, ADP Critical Sensitive, ADP Noncritical-Sensitive or ADP Non-Sensitive. Employees traveling to foreign countries. Employees new to Federal employment whose duties have been designated Non-Sensitive. Executive Reservists whose duties have been designated one of the above three sensitive categories.

Categories of records in the system:

Manual records contain copies of records for processing personnel security investigations. The following are representative of system documentation but other manual records pertinent to employee position and level of clearance may be a part of the file. Manual records include copies of SF-85 or SF-86 and/or SF-171 supplied by the individual concerned as well as copies of letters of transmittal, etc., between the Bureau of Mines, the Office of Personnel Management, the FBI, etc., concerning the individual's security investigation. Further, contains a copy of certification of clearance status, SF-189, and a Termination of Clearance Statement signed by the individual as appropriate. For those designated Non-Sensitive, the file contains a record of an NACI or NACIC investigation, adjudication, and determination of suitability if appropriate. For employees traveling outside the country, forms DI-1911 and DI-1175 and a foreign travel briefing/debriefing statement are maintained. Automated records contain files regarding employees names, social security numbers, organizations, investigation and classification status and action dates, employee position description requiring clearance; suspense files of all periodic/regular requirements, such as employee investigations, reinvestigations, briefings, debriefings, foreign travel, and records disposal. The above are representative of system documentation but other automated records pertinent to employees position and level of clearance may be part of the automized file.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Executive Order 10450, as amended, Executive Order 11179, as amended, and Federal Personnel Manual 732, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary use of the automated and manual records is to identify individuals who have national security clearance and/or ADP access authorizations and their level of clearance. Disclosure outside the Department of the Interior may be made (1) to a Federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant or other benefit; (2) to Federal, State or local agencies where necessary to obtain information relevant to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant or other benefit; (3) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the Government, an employee of the Department if a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (4) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute, regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violations or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (5) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry the individual has made to the congressional office; (6) to the Office of Personnel Management for matters concerned with oversight activities necessary for the Office to carry out its legally authorized Governmentwide personnel management programs and functions.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

(1) Automated records are maintained on flexible disks. (2) Source documents (manual records) are maintained in manual form in file folders.

Retrievability:

(1) Automated records are retrievable by name and/or social security number. (2) Manual records are retrievable by name.

Safeguards:

(1) Automated records are maintained with safeguards meeting the FIPS PUB 41, "Computer Security Guidelines for Implementing the Privacy Act of 1974."

(2) Manual records are maintained in the same manner as defense classified material.

(3) Both automated and manual records are maintained in a safe having a three-position dial-type, manipulation proof, combination lock.

Retention and disposal:

(1) The retention and disposal determination for the automated records stored on flexible disks is pending approval of the Archivist of the United States. Automated records will be destroyed by erasure. (2) Manual records are held in active status until the individual is debriefed or terminated. Manual records are destroyed by fire, shredder, disintegrator or pulverizer not later than 5 years after separation or transfer of the individual or upon notification of death. The records disposal schedules applicable to these records are: Bureau of Mines Schedule, 435 WBM 2.1, Appendix 1(18)(f) and GRS 18, item 7.

Bureau Security Manager, Bureau of Mines, 2401 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20241.

INTERIOR/USGS-23

Personnel Investigations Records—Interior, USGS-23.

Security Office, Office of Facilities and Management Services, Administrative Division, U.S. Geological Survey, National Center, Mail Stop 150, Reston, VA 22092.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

1. Current Geological Survey employees who (a) are granted access to classified information; (b) are filling sensitive positions not requiring access to classified information; (c) are being considered either for access to classified information or for filling sensitive positions not requiring access to classified information; and (d) are found unsuitable for access to classified information or filling sensitive positions because unfavorable information was revealed during the conduct of their security investigations.

2. Former Geological Survey employees who (a) were granted access to classified information; (b) were filling sensitive positions not requiring access to classified information, and (c) were found unsuitable for access to classified information or filling sensitive positions because unfavorable information was revealed during the conduct of their security investigations.

Categories of records in the system:

These records contain investigative information regarding an individual's character, conduct, and behavior in the community where he or she lives or lived; arrests and convictions for any violations against the law; reports of interviews with present and former supervisors, co-workers, associates, educators, etc.; reports about the qualifications of an individual for a specific position; reports of inquiries with or from law enforcement agencies, employers, and educational institutions attended; foreign affiliations which may affect his or her loyalty to the United States; and other information developed from the above.

Executive Order 10450, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The contents of these records and files may be disclosed and used as follows: (1) To designated officials, officers, and employees of the USGS, DOI, OPM, DOE, CIA, FBI, and all other agencies and departments of the Federal Government who in the performance of their duties have an interest in the individual for employment purposes, including a security clearance or access determination, and a need to evaluate qualifications, suitability, and loyalty to the United States Government; (2) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (3) to disclose pertinent information to an appropriate Federal, State, local, or foreign agency responsible for investigating, prosecuting, enforcing, or implementing a statute, regulation, rule, or order, where the disclosing agency becomes aware of an indication of a violation or potential violation of civil or criminal law or regulation; (4) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry the individual has made to the congressional office.

Storage:

All investigative records are maintained in file folders stored in Class 5 security containers having manipulation resistant combination locks.

Retrievability:

All records are indexed by surname in alphabetical order.

Safeguards:

The card index for this system of records is contained in a metal cabinet with a secure key locking device; the key is secured in a Class 5 security container. All containers and cabinets are further secured in a windowless room having one doorway which is secured by a key locking device. Both the key locking devices and combinations to the Class 5 security containers are under stringent security controls.

Retention and disposal:

(a) OPM background investigative files supporting secret-sensitive decompartmented information and top secret-infrequent access to sensitive compartmented information are retained until the awarded security clearance or employment is terminated. All other OPM investigative files are routinely destroyed within 90 days after receipt or upon completion of the adjudication action, whichever occurs last. Disposition of files is made in accordance with the Bureau Records Disposition Schedule, RCS/Item 306-15b.

(b) All information, supplementing the above OPM investigative files, originated by the Geological Survey, is retained for two years following termination of awarded security clearance or employment, whichever occurs first, and is then destroyed. Disposition of files is made in accordance with the Bureau Records Disposition Schedule, RCS/Item 306-15a.

Security Officer/Alternate Security Officer, Office of Facilities and Management Services, Administrative Division, U.S. Geological Survey, National Center, Mail Stop 150, Reston, Virginia 22092.

Notification procedure:

Written inquiries to the System Manager are required and must include the following information in order to positively identify the individual whose records are requested: (1) Full name, (2) date of birth, (3) place of birth, (4) any available information regarding the type of record requested. See 43 CFR 2.60.

Record access procedures:

An individual can obtain information on the procedures for gaining access to and contesting the records from the above System Manager. See 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as above. See 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories:

Information contained in this system is obtained from the following categories of sources: (1) Applications and other personnel and security forms furnished by the individual, (2) Results of investigations and other material furnished by Federal agencies.

Currently, active travel advance requests are maintained in file boxes by name of traveler; inactive records are maintained in travel folders by name of traveler; computer printouts are maintained in binders.

Retrievability:

Files are stored alphabetically by name of travelers.

Safeguards:

Files are maintained in a locked room during periods of non-work and are accessible during working hours only to personnel from the Division of Financial Management, Office of Surface Mining.

Retention and disposal:

Records retained for 3 years, then destroyed. Disposition is in accordance with General Records Schedule, FPMR 101-11.4.

Chief, Division of Financial Management, Office of Surface Mining, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225. Mailing address: Office of Surface Mining, P.O. Box 25065, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries regarding the existence of records should be addressed to the System Manager. A written, signed request stating that the requester seeks information concerning records pertaining to him is required (see 43 CFR 2.60).

Record access procedures:

A request for access may be addressed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and be signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures:

A petition for amendment should be addressed to the System Manager and must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories:

Information for this system originates with the traveler who specifies the need of a travel advance. The request is concurred in by signature of a responsible supervisory official. All entries on the file are as a result of actions taken by the individual to liquidate his/her travel advance.

INTERIOR/OSMRE-3

Travel Vouchers and Authorizations—Interior, OSMRE-3.

U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining, Reclamation and Enforcement (OSMRE), Division of Financial Management, Building 20, Denver, Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All persons traveling for or in behalf of OSMRE on official business.

Categories of records in the system:

Voucher file consists of paid travel vouchers which reimburse travelers for expenses incurred in connection with official travel. Travel authorization file consists of record copies of authorizations for travel for which no travel vouchers have been submitted for payment.

5 U.S.C. Sec. 5701 et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

(a) As backup entry data for obligations and disbursements in the automated Finance system of OSMRE; (b) computer data are reported to each OSMRE office as part of the detailed composition of monthly expense reports applicable to charges made to cost accounts within the Finance system. Only data pertinent to individual OSMRE offices are available to that office; (c) vouchers are used to determine allowability of expenses within the law, authorizing payment of travel expenses. The documents are used to determine which expenses incurred by the traveler can be paid and are sometimes used to report to other Federal agencies summarizations of those types of allowable expenses. Usually, the individual's name is not used in outside reporting but the data is. Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made: (1) To the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or, when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (2) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute. Regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (3) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry the individual has made to the congressional office; (4) to a Federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant, or other benefit; (5) to Federal, State or local agencies where necessary to obtain information relevant to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant, or other benefit; (6) to a Federal agency for the purpose of collecting a debt owed the Federal government through administrative or salary offset and to other Federal agencies conducting computer matching programs to help eliminate fraud and abuse and to detect unauthorized overpayments made to individuals.

Disclosure to consumer reporting agencies:

Disclosures pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12). Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(b)(12), disclosures may be made to a consumer reporting agency as defined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f)) or the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966 (31 U.S.C. 3701(a)(3)).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained in steel filing cabinet in the Division of Financial Management, Office of Surface Mining.

Retrievability:

Vouchers are filed by travel authorization number. Authorizations are filed alphabetically by traveler awaiting payment of the travel voucher. Authorization becomes part of the voucher packet at the time of payment.

Safeguards:

Files are maintained with safeguards meeting the requirements of 43 CFR 2.51, and are available only to personnel of the Division of Financial Management, Office of Surface Mining.

Retention and disposal:

Records retained for 3 years, then destroyed. Disposition is in accordance with General Records Schedule, FPMR 101-11.4.

Chief, Division of Financial Management, Office of Surface Mining, Building 20, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225, Mailing address: Office of Surface Mining, P.O. Box 25065, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries regarding the existence of records should be addressed to the System Manager. A written, signed request stating that the requester seeks information concerning records pertaining to him is required (see CFR 2.60).

Record access procedures:

A request for access may be addressed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and be signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 43 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures:

A petition for amendment should be addressed to the System Manager and must meet the content requirement of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories:

Information for these files is based on an authorization signed by the traveler in the form of a request. Travel vouchers are submitted by the traveler after incurring expenses for official travel and are a request for payment based on his record of official expenses.

INTERIOR/OSMRE-4

INTERIOR/FWS-26

System name: Migratory Bird Population and Harvest Systems—Interior, FWS-26.

System location: (1) Office of Migratory Bird Management, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, Laurel, Maryland 20811. (2) Minor portions of the files comprising the system are found in the Washington Office, Regional Offices, and field offices of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; offices of State conservation agencies, and other Federal and State agencies; universities; national, regional and local conservation organizations; and individuals who contribute to the collection of population and harvest information which is eventually transferred to the Office of Migratory Bird Management, Laurel, Maryland, for storage.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The system contains information on: (1) Persons applying for bird banding permits. (2) Persons issued bird banding permits. (3) Persons reporting upon banded birds encountered in the wild. (4) Persons participating in migratory bird population surveys. (5) Persons submitting harvest data for migratory game birds taken under hunting regulations. (6) Unidentified persons observed in the field hunting migratory game birds.

Categories of records in the system: Application forms for bird banding permits, including name, address, and related information to evaluate the application, records and reports on the harvest of migratory birds, including types of birds, location, related data.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Migratory Bird Treaty Act of July 3, 1918 (16 U.S.C. 703-711; 40 Stat. 755).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The primary uses of the records maintained in the system are (a) data are routinely used by biologists and/or law enforcement offices of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Canadian Wildlife Service, Mexican Department Fauna Silvestre, and State and Provincial Conservation Agencies to further understanding, protection, management and utilization of the North American migratory bird resource; (b) portions of the data files including name and address listings are used for research purposes and for guidance, planning and coordination of research on migratory birds; (c) reports of summarized and analyzed data originating from banding and surveys are analyzed and published by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and other cooperating agencies: Studies containing analyzed migratory bird population and harvest data also appear in the technical literature involving the records or the subject matter of the records. Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made (1) to the U.S. Department of Justice when related to litigation or anticipated litigation; (2) of information that may aid investigations or indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute, regulation, rule, order or license, to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (3) from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from a Congressional office made at the request of that individual; (4) to a Federal agency which has requested information relevant or necessary to its hiring or retention of an employee, or issuance of a security clearance, license, contract, grant or other benefit; (5) to Federal, State or local agencies where necessary to obtain information relevant to the hiring or retention of an employee, or the issuance of a security clearance, contract, license, grant or other benefit; (6) to the Canadian Wildlife Service, Environmental Management Service, Department of the Environment, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada K1A OH3 and Mexican Direccion General Fauna Silvestre, Aquiles Serdan 28-70, Pisa, Mexico 3, DF, Mexico, as part of cooperative agreements; (7) routinely or upon request all or portions of the files, including name and address listings, are supplied to cooperators and researchers in other Federal, State, and local agencies; members of national, regional or local conservation organizations, university researchers and private individuals who establish a bona fide need for the information; (8) to contributors of band recovery information related to the bander and banding of the banded bird they reported, likewise, contributors of survey and harvest information are sometimes supplied with reports of populations and harvest surveys to which they had contributed. (Routine uses (1) and (2) apply only to those individuals in nos. (1) and (2) of the above paragraph 'Categories of individuals covered by the system,' and not to individuals who supply voluntary information to aid the Service in migratory bird management and research.)

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records comprising the various files of the system are maintained on paper forms and correspondence, punched and/or interpreted cards, magnetic computer tape, computer printouts or listings, magnetic disc packs, microfilm and microfiche cards. Summarized information is found in unpublished and published reports.

Retrievability: The files comprising the system are indexed in various way depending upon the nature and use of the record. Files may be arranged by type of survey, species of migratory birds, cooperators, time periods, geographical areas, and biological characteristics of the banded, observed, or harvested bird. Most of the files are oriented to the migratory bird resource and its utilization; the identity of the individual person is retained only for edit, banding authority compliance; response, and acknowledgment purposes. In the banding files the identity of the bander is permanently obtainable through interpretation of the permit number. Inasmuch as banding and other surveys of migratory birds and their harvest are based upon statistical sampling of a larger universe, the identity of individuals is usually deleted early in the analysis.

Safeguards: Records comprising the system are stored within the fenced and locked premises of the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, Laurel, Maryland. The records themselves are stored within a locked building and the master computer files are retained in a locked vault. Only authorized individuals have access to these records. Magnetic tape files containing records of banded birds are stored for computer processing at the Washington Computer Center of the Department of the Interior. Current versions of banding tape files are stored in a locked, fire and explosion proof vault. Backup versions are stored in a library that must be entered through two locked doors. All requests for data, beyond those routinely supplied to cooperators, are reviewed by the Assistant Chief, Office of Migratory Bird Management, Laurel, Maryland. Care is taken to insure that the requesting individual has a legitimate need for the information and that the information which is supplied is limited to his specific needs. Furthermore, care is taken to protect the proprietary rights of researchers to first use of data arising from their personal banding efforts; persons requesting data generated by other researchers are instructed to secure clearance for use of the data with the original bander. Policies regarding the release and use of bird banding data are developed in consultation with the Canadian Wildlife Service and other cooperators. Means for developing improved safeguards for the computer record files at Laurel, and policies regarding release of data from the files maintained there is presently under study.

Retention and disposal: Some records are maintained only for a few days until the data can be transferred to other media, such as computer tapes or microfilm, for permanent storage. Because of the great scientific value attached to some of the files, such as those comprising the North American Bird Banding Program, source documents of banding are retained indefinitely; this is done to facilitate the possible correction and edit of those records. In contrast, source documents for other files are periodically destroyed by recycling. Computer tabulations are retained for five years or until such time as they have been updated. A system to catalog computer files is being developed; this system will insure that obsolete files are destoryed while insuring the retention of those required for current or future use.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Office of Migratory Bird Management, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Notification procedure: An individual desiring to know whether the system contains information relating to himself may address his inquiry to the System Manager. An individual seeking information about the system should provide his complete name and address, and if possible, indicate the nature of the data file (banding, population surveys, migratory game bird harvests, etc.) in which he is most interested.

Record access procedures: Inquiries concerning access to and correction of records in the system may be directed to the System Manager. The request must be in writing and be signed by the requester. The request must meet the content requirements of 42 CFR 2.63.

Contesting record procedures: A petition for amendment shall be addressed to the System Manager and meet the requirements of 43 CFR 2.71.

Record source categories: The files comprising the Migratory Bird Populations and Harvest System evolve from several diverse groups of people. These may be generally categorized as (1) persons applying for authority to band birds, (2) persons granted authority to band birds, (3) persons reporting encounters with banded birds, (4) persons supervising or participating in various population surveys of migratory birds, (5) persons purchasing migratory bird hunting stamps, and (6) persons who hunt migratory game birds or otherwise utilize the migratory game bird resource.

The system will contain citizenship status and home addresses and telephone numbers of landholders. Social Security numbers may also be on record; disclosure of this information is voluntary.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Reclamation Act of 1902 as amended and acts supplemental thereto, 43 U.S.C. 371, et seq., especially sections 206, 224, and 228 of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982, Pub. L. 97-293.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary purpose of the system is to obtain written information from individuals and entities on their landholdings which are subject to acreage limitation law and a signed statement that the information provided is accurate and complete. The original certification and reporting forms are maintained in the irrigation districts of origin. Copies of such forms indicating multidistrict landholdings, full-cost acreage, and excess lands are provided to the Bureau for administration and recordkeeping. In addition, data from these forms which indicate multidistrict landholdings is entered into the computer system to determine compliance with Reclamation law. The data collected is used only by irrigation district and Reclamation personnel to determine compliance with Reclamation law. Disclosures outside the Department of the Interior may be made: (1) To the Department of Justice when related to litigation or anticipated litigation; (2) of information indicating a violation or potential violation of a statute, regulation, rule, or license to appropriate Federal, State, local or foreign agencies responsible for investigating or prosecuting the violation or for enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation, order or license; (3) from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from a congressional office made at the request of that individual; and (4) to non-Federal auditors under contract with the Departments of Interior or Energy or water user and other organizations with which the Bureau of Reclamation has written agreements permitting access to financial records to perform financial audits.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Maintained in file folders and on computer.

Retrievability:

Manual records are retrieved by water district and/or landholder name, by land parcel number, and by a sale number. Automated records are retrieved by district identification number, sale number, landholder name, or social security number, if available, and other data codes identifying property characteristics.

Safeguards:

In accordance with requirements of 43 CFR 2.51 for computer and manual records.

In accordance with approved retention and disposal schedules.

Uniform Accountability System—Interior, BLM-30.

Division of Administrative Services, Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

BLM employees or volunteers authorized to wear the uniform.

Categories of records in the system:

Information identifying the individual's name, sex, position title, series, and grade, sizing information (such as height, weight, waist measurement, etc.), last seven digits of the individual's social security number, office cost accounting data, name and addresses for the administrative and shipping offices, type of appointment (such as full-time employee, volunteer, ranger, etc.), amount of allowance authorized, class(es) of uniforms authorized, dates of authorization, the name of the authorizing individual, and all ordering data (such as items shipped, exchanged, returned, etc.) are obtained via uniform allowance authorization and ordering forms.

5 U.S.C. 5901, Uniform Allowances, and 5 U.S.C. 301, Departmental Regulations.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The primary uses of the records are to establish and maintain an individual uniform allowance account for BLM employees and volunteers, to ensure individual allowance amounts do not exceed the authorized limitations, to accommodate the efficient processing of individual uniform orders, to expedite payments to the contractor, and to bill appropriate BLM office accounts for uniform items received. The information contained in this system of records is provided to management through reports for purposes of expediting payments to the contractor, auditing of records, and maintenance of the overall program. Disclosure outside the Department of the Interior may be made (1) to the U.S. Department of Justice or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body when (a) the United States, the Department of the Interior, a component of the Department, or when represented by the government, an employee of the Department is a party to litigation or anticipated litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and (b) the Department of the Interior determines that the disclosure is relevant or necessary to the litigation and is compatible with the purpose for which the records were compiled; (2) to disclose pertinent information to an appropriate Federal, State, local, or foreign agency responsible for investigating, prosecuting, enforcing, or implementing a statute, regulation, rule, or order, where the disclosing agency becomes aware of an indication of a violation or potential violation of civil or criminal law or regulation; (3) to a Member of Congress from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry made at the request of that individual; (4) to the Department of Treasury to effect payment to Federal, State, and local government agencies, nongovernmental organizations, and individuals; and (5) to a debt collection agency to effect payment to the contractor for items ordered by BLM employees and volunteers that are in excess of the authorized uniform allowance amount.

Disclosure to consumer reporting agencies:

Disclosures may be made from this system to 'consumer reporting agencies' as defined in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f)) or the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966 (31 U.S.C. 3701(a)(3)).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

An individual's allowance authorization, ordering, and shipping data are stored in a computer data base at the supplier's facility by the individual's name and account number (last seven digits of their social security number). A copy of the forms are stored in file folders at the supplier's facility and BLM administrative offices arranged alphabetically by name.

Retrievability:

Indexed by individual's name and/or account number, order and shipping data, and BLM cost accounting data.

Safeguards:

Maintained with safeguards meeting the requirements of 43 CFR 2.51 for computerized and manual records.

Retention and disposal:

BLM offices are required to maintain all file copies of transactions for a minimum of three years. The supplier is required to maintain all file copies of transactions for the life of the contract or termination of the individual's authorization (whichever terminates first). The records control schedule governing these records is pending the approval of the Archivist.

Title 43-Public Lands: Interior

Subtitle A-Office of the Secretary of Interior

PART 2-RECORDS AND TESTIMONY

Subpart D—Privacy Act

Authority: 5 U.S.C. 301, 552 and 552a; 31 U.S.C. 483a; and 43 U.SC 1460

Source: 40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, unless otherwise noted.

§ 2.45 Purpose and scope.

This subpart contains the regulations of the Department of the Interior implementing section 3 of the Privacy Act. Secions 2.47 through 2.57 describe the procedures and policies of the Department concerning maintenance of records which are subject to the Act. Sections 2.60 through 2.66 describe the procedure under which individuals may determine whether systems of records subject to the Act contain records relating to them and the procedure under which they may seek access to existing records. Sections 2.70 through 2.77 describe the procedure under which individuals may petition for amendment of records subject to the Act relating to them. Section 2.79 lists records systems that have been exempted from certain requirements of the Act.

(a) Act. As used in this subpart, "Act" means section 3 of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a.

(b) Bureau. For purposes of this subpart, a "bureau" is any constituent bureau or office of the Department, including the Office of the Secretary and any other Departmental office.

(c) Individual. As used in this subpart, "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

(d) Maintain. As used in this subpart, the term "maintain" includes maintain, collect, use or disseminate.

(e) Record. As used in this subpart, "record" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the Department or a bureau thereof, including, but not limited to, education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains the individual's name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print, or a photograph.

(f) System of records. As used in this subpart, "System of records" means a group of any records under the control of the Department or a bureau thereof from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual.

(g) Medical records. As used in this subpart, "medical records" means records which relate to the identification, prevention, cure or alleviation of any disease, illness or injury including psychological disorders, alcoholism and drug addiction.

(h) Civil Service Commission personnel records. As used in this subpart, "Civil Service Commission personnel records" means records maintained for the Civil Service Commission by the Department and used for personnel management programs or processes such as staffing, employee development, retirement, and grievances and appeals.

(i) Statistical records. As used in this subpart, "statistical records" means records in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual.

(j) Routine use. As used in this subpart, "routine use" means a use of a record for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

(k) System notice. As used in this subpart, "system notice" means the notice describing a system of records required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4) to be published in the Federal Register upon establishment or revision of the system of records.

(l) System manager. As used in this subpart, "system manager" means the official designated in a system notice as having administrative responsibility for a system of records.

(m) Departmental Privacy Act Officer. As used in this subpart, "Departmental Privacy Act Officer" means the official in the Office of the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration charged with responsibility for assisting the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration in carrying out the functions assigned in this subpart and for coordinating the activities of the bureaus of the Department in carrying out the functions which they are assigned in this subpart.

(n) Bureau Privacy Act Officer. As used in this subpart, "Bureau Privacy Act Officer" means the official within each bureau assigned responsibility for bureau implementation of the Act and the regulations of this subpart.

(o) Working day. As used in this subpart, "working day" means a regular Federal work day. It does not include Saturdays, Sundays or public legal holidays.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 47 FR 38327, Aug. 3, 1982; 48 FR 56583, Dec. 22, 1983; 53 FR 3749, Feb. 8, 1988]

§ 2.47 Records subject to Privacy Act.

The Privacy Act applies to all "records," as that term is defined in § 2.46(e), which the Department maintains in a "system of records," as that term is defined in § 2.46(f).

§ 2.48 Standards for maintenance of records subject to the Act.

(a) Content of records. Records subject to the Act shall contain only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required to be accomplished by statute or Executive Order of the President.

(b) Standards of accuracy. Records subject to the Act which are used in making any determination about any individual shall be maintained with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual in making the determination.

(c) Collection of information. (1) Information which may be used in making determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs shall, to the greatest extent practicable, be collected directly from that individual.

(2) In deciding whether collection of information from an individual, as opposed to a third party source, is practicable, the following factors, among others, may be considered:

(i) Whether the nature of the information sought is such that it can only be obtained from a third party;

(ii) Whether the cost of collecting the information from the individual is unreasonable when compared with the cost of collecting it from a third party;

(iii) Whether there is a risk that information collected from third parties, if inaccurate, could result in an adverse determination to the individual concerned;

(iv) Whether the information, if supplied by the individual, would have to be verified by a third party; or

(v) Whether provisions can be made for verification, by the individual, of information collected from third parties.

(d) Advice to individuals concerning uses of information. (1) Each individual who is asked to supply information about him or herself which will be added to a system of records shall be informed of the basis for requesting the information, how it may be used, and what the consequences, if any, are of not supplying the information.

(2)At a minimum, the notice to the individual must state:

(i)The authority (whether grantd by statute or Executive Order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(ii)The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(iii)The routine uses which may be made of the information; and

(iv) The effects on the individual, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information.

(3)(i) When information is collected on a standard form, the notice to the individual shall be provided on the form, on a tear-off sheet attached to the form, or on a separate sheet, whichever is most practical.

(ii) When information is collected by an interviewer, the interviewer shall privide the individual with a written notice which the individual may retain. If the interview is conducted by telephone, however, the interviewer may summarize the notice for the individual and need not provide a copy to the individual unless the individual requests a copy.

(iii) An individual may be asked to acknowledge, in writing, that the notice required by this section has been provided.

(e) Records concerning activity protected by the First Amendment. No record may be maintained describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution unless the maintenance of the record is (1) expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or (2) pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 48 FR 56583, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.49 [Reserved]

§ 2.50 Federal Register notices describing systems of records.

(a) The Privacy Act requires publication of a notice in the Federal Register describing each system of records subject to the Act. Such notice will be published prior to the establishment or a revision of the system of records. 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4).

(b) Each bureau shall notify the Departmental Privacy Act Officer promptly of any modifications or amendments which are required in the then-current notice describing a system of records for which it is responsible.

(c) A bureau desiring to establish a new system of records or a new use for an existing system of records shall notify the Departmental Privacy Act Officer, no fewer than ninety (90) calendar days in advance.

[48 FR 56583, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.51 Assuring integrity of records.

(a) Statutory requirement. The Privacy Act requires that records subject to the Act be maintained with appropriate administrative, technical and physical safeguards to insure the security and confidentiality of records and to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained, 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(10).

(b) Records maintained in manual form. When maintained in manual form, records subject to the Privacy Act shall be maintained in a manner commensurate with the sensitivity of the information contained in the system of records. The following minimum safeguards, or safeguards affording comparable protection, are applicable to Privacy Act systems of records containing sensitive information:

(1) Areas in which the records are maintained or regularly used shall be posted with an appropriate warning stating that access to the records is limited to authorized persons. The warning also shall summarize the requirements of § 2.52 and state that the Privacy Act contains a criminal penalty for the unauthorized disclosure of records to which it applies.

(2)During working hours, (i) the area in which the records are maintained or regularly used shall be occupied by authorized personnel or (ii) access to the records shall be restricted by their storage in locked metal file cabinets or a locked room.

(3)During non–working hours, access to the records shall be restricted by their storage in locked metal file cabinets or a locked room.

(4) Where a locked room is the method of security provided for a system, the bureau responsible for the system shall supplement that security by (i) providing lockable file cabinets or containers for the records or (ii) changing the lock or locks for the room so that they may not be opened with a master key. For the purposes of this paragraph, a master key is a key which may be used to open rooms other than the room containing records subject to the Privacy Act, unless those rooms are utilized by officials or employees authorized to have access to the records subject to the Privacy Act.

(c) Records maintained in computerized form. When maintained in computerized form, records subject to the Privacy Act shall be maintained, at a minimum, subject to safeguards based on those recommended in the National Bureau of Standard's booklet "Computer Security Guidelines for Implementing the Privacy Act of 1974" (May 30, 1975), and any supplements thereto, which are adequate and appropriate to assuring the integrity of records in the system.

(d) Office of Personnel Management personnel records. A system of records made up of Office of Personnel Management personnel records shall be maintained under the security requirements set out in 5 CFR 293.106 and 293.107.

(e) Bureau responsibility. (1) The bureau responsible for a system of records shall be responsible for assuring that specific procedures are developed to assure that the records in the system are maintained with security meeting the requirements of the Act and this section.

§ 2.52 Conduct of employees.

(a) Handling of records subject to the Act. Employees whose duties require handling of records subject to the Privacy Act shall, at all times, take care to protect the integrity, security and confidentiality of these records.

(b) Disclosure of records. No employee of the Department may disclose records subject to the Privacy Act unless disclosure is permitted under § 2.56 or is to the individual to whom the record pertains.

(c) Alteration of records. No employee of the Department may alter or destroy a record subject to the Privacy Act unless (1) such alteration or destruction is properly undertaken in the course of the employee's regular duties or (2) such alteration or destruction is required by a decision under §§ 2.70–2.75 or the decision of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(d) Bureau responsibility. The bureau responsible for a system of records shall be responsible for assuring that employees with access to the system are made aware of the requirements of this section and of 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(1), which imposes criminal penalties for knowingly and willfully disclosing a record about an individual without the written request or consent of that individual unless disclosure is permitted under one of the exceptions listed in § 2.56 (b) and (c).

§ 2.53 Government contracts.

(a) Required contract provisions. When a contract provides for the operation by or on behalf of the Department of a system of records to accomplish a Department function, the contract shall, consistent with the Department's authority, cause the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a and the regulations contained in this subpart to be applied to such system.

(b) System manager. The head of the bureau responsible for the contract shall designate a regular employee of the bureau to be the manager for a system of records operated by a contractor.

§ 2.56 Disclosure of Records.

(a) Prohibition of disclosure. No record contained in a system of records may be disclosed by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains.

(b) General exceptions. The prohibition contained in paragraph (a) does not apply where disclosure of the record would be:

(1) To those officers or employees of the Department who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties; or

(2) Required by the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552.

(c) Specific exceptions. The prohibition contained in paragraph (a) does not apply where disclosure of the record would be:

(1) For a routine use as defined in § 2.46(j) which has been described in a system notice published in the Federal Register;

(2) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13, United States Code.

(3) To a recipient who has provided the system manager responsible for the system in which the record is maintained with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(4) To the National Archives and Records Administration as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Archivist of the United States or the designee of the Archivist to determine whether the record has such value;

(5) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the Department specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(6) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(7) To either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(8) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office;

(9) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; or

(10) To a consumer reporting agency in accordance with section 3(d) of the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966, as amended (31 U.S.C. 3711(f)).

(d) Reviewing records prior to disclosure. (1) Prior to any disclosure of a record about an individual, unless disclosure is required by the Freedom of Information Act, reasonable efforts shall be made to assure that the records are accurate, complete, timely and relevant for agency purposes.

(2) When a record is disclosed in connection with a Freedom of Information request made under Subpart B of this part and it is appropriate and administratively feasible to do so, the requester shall be informed of any information known to the Department indicating that the record may not be fully accurate, complete, or timely.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1875, as amended at 48 FR 56584, Dec. 22, 1963; 50 FR 45114, Oct. 30, 1985]

§ 2.57 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) Maintenance of an accounting. (1) Where a record is disclosed to any person, or to another agency, under any of the specific exceptions provided by § 2.56 (c), an accounting shall be made.

(2) The accounting shall record (i) the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record to any person or to another agency and (ii) the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure was made.

(3) Accountings prepared under this section shall be maintained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

(b) Access to accountings. (1) Except for accountings of disclosures made under § 2.56(c)(5), accountings of all disclosures of a record shall be made available to the individual to whom the record relates at the individual's request.

(2) An individual desiring access to an accounting of disclosures of a record pertaining to the individual shall submit a request by following the procedures of § 2.63.

(c) Notification of disclosure. When a record is disclosed pursuant to § 2.56(c)(9) as the result of the order of a court of competent jurisdiction, reasonable efforts shall be made to notify the individual to whom the record pertains as soon as the order becomes a matter of public record.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 48 FR 56584, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.60 Request for notification of existence of records: Submission.

(a) Submission of requests. (1)(i) Individuals desiring to determine under the Privacy Act whether a system of records contains records pertaining to them shall address inquiries to the system manager having responsibility for the system unless the system notice describing the system prescribes or permits submission to some other official or officials.

(ii) If a system notice describing a system requires individuals to contact more than two officials concerning the existence of records in the system, individuals desiring to determine whether the system contains records pertaining to them may contact the system manager for assistance in determining which official is most likely to be in possession of records pertaining to those individuals.

(2) Individuals desiring to determine whether records pertaining to them are maintained in two or more systems shall make a separate inquiry concerning each system.

(b) Form of request. (1) An inquiry to determine whether a system of records contains records pertaining to an individual shall be in writing.

(2) To insure expeditious handling, the request shall be prominently marked, both on the envelope and on the face of the request, with the legend "PRIVACY ACT INQUIRY."

(3) The request shall state that the individual is seeking information concerning records pertaining to him or herself and shall supply such additional identifying information, if any, as is called for in the system notice describing the system.

(4) Individuals who have reason to believe that information pertaining to them may be filed under a name other than the name they are currently using (e.g., maiden name), shall include such information in the request.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 48 FR 56584, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.61 Requests for notification of existence of records: Action on.

(a) Decisions on Request. (1) Individuals inquiring to determine whether a system of records contains records pertaining to them shall be promptly advised whether the system contains records pertaining to them unless (i) the records were compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding or (ii) the system of records is one which has been excepted from the notification provisions of the Privacy Act by rulemaking (Section 2.79).

(2) If the records were compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding or the system of records is one which has been excepted from the notification provisions of the Privacy Act by rulemaking, the individuals will be promptly notified that they are not entitled to notification of whether the system contains records pertaining to them.

(b) Authority to deny requests. A decision to deny a request for notification of the existence of records shall be made by the system manager responsible for the system of records concerning which inquiry has been made and shall be concurred in by the bureau Privacy Act officer for the bureau which maintains the system, provided, however that the head of a bureau may, in writing, require (1) that the decision be made by the bureau Privacy Act officer and/or (2) that the bureau head's own concurrence in the decision be obtained.

(c) Form of decision. (1) No particular form is required for a decision informing individuals whether a system of records contains records pertaining to them.

(2) A decision declining to inform an individual whether or not a system of records contains records pertaining to him or her shall be in writing and shall:

(i) State the basis for denial of the request.

(ii) Advise the individual that an appeal of the declination may be made to the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration pursuant to § 2.65 by writing to the Privacy Act Officer, Office of the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240.

(iii) State that the appeal must be received by the foregoing official within twenty (20) working days of the date of the decision.

(3) If the decision declining a request for notification of the existence of records involves Department employee records which fall under the jurisdiction of the Office of Personnel Management, the individual shall be informed in a written response which shall:

(i) State the reasons for the denial.

(ii) Include the name, position title, and address of the official responsible for the denial.

(iii) Advise the individual that an appeal of the declination may be made only to the Assistant Director for Workforce Information, Personnel Systems Oversight Group, Office of Personnel Management, 1900 E Street NW., Washington, DC 20415.

(4) Copies of decisions declining a request for notification of the existence or records made pursuant to paragraphs (c)(2) and (c)(3) of this section shall be provided to the Departmental and Bureau Privacy Act Officers.

[48 FR 56584, Dec. 22, 1983; as amended by 53 FR 3749, Feb. 9, 1988]

§ 2.62 Requests for access to records.

The Privacy Act permits individuals, upon request, to gain access to their records or to any information pertaining to them which is contained in a system and to review the records and have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensive to them. 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1). A request for access shall be submitted in accordance with the procedures in this subpart.

[48 FR 56584, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.63 Requests for access to records: Submission.

(a) Submission of requests. (1) (i) Requests for access to records shall be submitted to the system manager having responsibility for the system in which the records are maintained unless the system notice describing the system prescribes or permits submission to some other official or officials.

(ii) If a system notice describing a system requires individuals to contact more than two officials concerning access to records in the system, individuals desiring to request access to records pertaining to them may contact the system manager for assistance in determining which official is most likely to be in custody of records pertaining to that individual.

(2) Individuals desiring access to records maintained in two or more separate systems shall submit a separate request for access to the records in each system.

(b) Form of request. (1) A request for access to records subject to the Privacy Act shall be in writing.

(2) To insure expeditious handling, the request shall be prominently marked, both on the envelope and on the face of the request, with the legend "PRIVACY ACT REQUEST FOR ACCESS."

(3) Requesters shall specify whether they seek all of the records contained in the system which relate to them or only some portion thereof. If only a portion of the records which relate to the individual are sought, the request shall reasonably describe the specific record or records sought.

(4) If the requester seeks to have copies of the requested records made, the request shall state the maximum amount of copying fees which the requester is willing to pay. A request which does not state the amount of fees the requester is willing to pay will be treated as a request to inspect the requested records. Requesters are further notified that under § 2.64(d) the failure to state willingness to pay fees as high as are anticipated by the Department will delay processing of a request.

(5) The request shall supply such identifying information, if any, as is called for in the system notice describing the system.

(6) Requests failing to meet the requirements of this paragraph shall be returned to the requester with a written notice advising the requester of the deficiency in the request.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 47 FR 38328, Aug. 31, 1982;48 FR 56585, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.64 Requests for access to records: Initial decision.

(a) Decisions on requests. A request made under this subpart for access to a record shall be granted promptly unless (1) the record was compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding or (2) the record is contained in a system of records which has been excepted from the access provisions of the Privacy Act by rulemaking (§ 2.79).

(b) Authority to deny requests. A decision to deny a request for access under this subpart shall be made by the system manager responsible for the system of records in which the requested record is located and shall be concurred in by the bureau Privacy Act officer for the bureau which maintains the system, provided, however, that the head of a bureau may, in writing, require (1) that the decision be made by the bureau Privacy Act officer and/or (2) that the bureau head's own concurrence in the decision be obtained.

(c) Form of decision. (1) No particular form is required for a decision granting access to a record. The decision shall, however, advise the individual requesting the record as to where and when the record is available for inspection or, as the case may be, where and when copies will be available. If fees are due under § 2.64(d), the individual requesting the record shall also be notified of the amount of fees due or, if the exact amount has not been determined, the approximate amount of fees due.

(2) A decision denying a request for access, in whole or part, shall be in writing and shall:

(i) State the basis for denial of the request.

(ii) Contain a statement that the denial may be appealed to the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration pursuant to § 2.65 by writing to the Privacy Act Officer, Office of the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240.

(iii) State that the appeal must be received by the foregoing official within twenty (20) working days of the date of the decision.

(3) If the decision denying a request for access involves Department employee records which fall under the jurisdiction of the Office of Personnel Management, the individual shall be informed in a written response which shall:

(i) State the reasons for the denial.

(ii) Include the name, position title, and address of the official responsible for the denial.

(iii) Advise the individual that an appeal of the denial may be made only to the Assistant Director for Workforce Information, Personnel Systems and Oversight Group, Office of Personnel Management, 1900 E Street NW., Washington, DC 20415.

(4) Copies of decisions denying requests for access made pursuant to paragraphs (c)(2) and (c)(3) of this section will be provided to the Departmental and Bureau Privacy Act Officers.

(d) Fees. (1) No fees may be charged for the cost of searching for or reviewing a record in response to a request made under § 2.63.

(2) Fees for copying a record in response to a request made under § 2.63 shall be charged in accordance with the schedule of charges contained in Appendix A to this part, unless the official responsible for processing the request determines that reduction or waiver of fees is appropriate.

(3) Where it is anticipated that fees chargeable in connection with a request will exceed the amount the person submitting the request has indicated a willingness to pay, the official processing the request shall notify the requester and shall not complete processing of the request until the requester has agreed, in writing, to pay fees as high as are anticipated.

§ 2.65 Requests for notification of existence of records and for access to records: Appeals.

(a) Right of appeal. Except for appeals pertaining to Office of Personnel Management records, individuals who have been notified that they are not entitled to notification of whether a system of records contains records pertaining to them or have been denied access, in whole or part, to a requested record may appeal to the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration.

(b) Time for appeal. (1) An appeal must be received by the Privacy Act Officer no later than twenty (20) working days after the date of the initial decision on a request.

(2) The Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration may, for good cause shown, extend the time for submission of an appeal if a written request for additional time is received within twenty (20) working days of the date of the initial decision on the request.

(c) Form of appeal. (1) An appeal shall be in writing and shall attach copies of the initial request and the decision on the request.

(2) The appeal shall contain a brief statement of the reasons why the appellant believes the decision on the initial request to have been in error.

(3) The appeal shall be addressed to Privacy Act Officer, Office of the Assistant Secretary-Management, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

(d) Action on appeals. (1) Appeals from decisions on initial requests made pursuant to §§ 2.61 and 2.63 shall be decided for the Department by the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration or an official designated by the Assistant Secretary after consultation with the Solicitor.

(2) The decision on an appeal shall be in writing and shall state the basis for the decision.

[40 FR 44505, Sept. 26, 1975, as amended at 48 FR 56585, Dec. 22, 1983; 53 FR 5749, Feb. 9, 1988]

§ 2.66 Requests for access to records: Special situations.

(a) Medical records. (1) Medical records shall be disclosed to the individual to whom they pertain unless it is determined, in consultation with a medical doctor, that disclosure should be made to a medical doctor of the individual's choosing.

(2) If it is determined that disclosure of medical records directly to the individual to whom they pertain could have an adverse effect on that individual, the individual may designate a medical doctor to receive the records and the records will be disclosed to that doctor.

(b) Inspection in presence of third party. (1) Individuals wishing to inspect records pertaining to them which have been opened for their inspection may, during the inspection, be accompanied by a person of their own choosing.

(2) When such a procedure is deemed appropriate, individuals to whom the records pertain may be required to furnish a written statement authorizing discussion of their records in the accompanying person's presence.

§ 2.70 Amendment of records.

The Privacy Act permits individuals to request amendment of records pertaining to them if they believe the records are not accurate, relevant, timely or complete. 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(2). A request for amendment of a record shall be submitted in accordance with the procedures in this subpart.

[48 FR 56585, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.71 Petitions for amendment: Submission and form.

(a) Submission of petitions for amendment. (1) A request for amendment of a record shall be submitted to the system manager for the system of records containing the record unless the system notice describing the system prescribes or permits submission to a different official or officials. If an individual wishes to request amendment of records located in more than one system, a separate petition must be submitted to each system manager.

(2) A petition for amendment of a record may be submitted only if the individual submitting the petition has previously requested and been granted access to the record and has inspected or been given a copy of the record.

(b) Form of petition. (1) A petition for amendment shall be in writing and shall specifically identify the record for which amendment is sought.

(2) The petition shall state, in detail, the reasons why the petitioner believes the record, or the objectionable portion thereof, is not accurate, relevant, timely or complete. Copies of documents or evidence relied upon in support of these reasons shall be submitted with the petition.

(3) The petition shall state, specifically and in detail, the changes sought in the record. If the changes involve rewriting the record or portions thereof or involve adding new language to the record, the petition shall propose specific language to implement the changes.

[48 FR 56585, Dec. 22, 1983]

§ 2.72 Petitions for amendment: Processing and initial decision.

(a) Decisions on petitions. In reviewing a record in response to a petition for amendment, the accuracy, relevance, timeliness and completeness of the record shall be assessed against the criteria set out in § 2.48. In addition, personnel records shall be assessed against the criteria for determining record quality published in the Federal Personnel Manual and the Departmental Manual addition thereto.

(b) Authority to decide. An initial decision on a petition for amendment may be made only by the system manager responsible for the system of records containing the challenged record. If the system manager declines to amend the record as requested, the bureau Privacy Act officer for the bureau which maintains the system must concur in the decision, provided, however, that the head of a bureau may, in writing, require (1) that the decision be made by the bureau Privacy Act officer and/or (2) that the bureau head's own concurrence in the decision be obtained.

(c) Acknowledgement of receipt. Unless processing of a petition is completed within ten (10) working days, the receipt of the petition for amendment shall be acknowledged in writing by the system manager to whom it is directed.

(d) Inadequate petitions. (1) If a petition does not meet the requirements of § 2.71, the petitioner shall be so advised and shall be told what additional information must be submitted to meet the requirements of § 2.71.

(2) If the petitioner fails to submit the additional information within a reasonable time, the petition may be rejected. The rejection shall be in writing and shall meet the requirements of paragraph (e) of this section.

(e) Form of decision. (1) A decision on a petition for amendment shall be in writing and shall state concisely the basis for the decision.

(2) If the petition for amendment is rejected, in whole or part, the petitioner shall be informed in a written response which shall:

(i) State concisely the basis for the decision.

(ii) Advise the petitioner that the rejection may be appealed to the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration by writing to the Privacy Act Officer, Office of the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240.

(iii) State that the appeal must be received by the foregoing official within twenty (20) working days of the decision.

(3) If the petition for amendment involves Department employee records which fall under the jurisdiction of the Office of Personnel Management and is rejected, in whole or part, the petitioner shall be informed in a written response which shall:

(i) State concisely the basis for the decision.

(ii) Advise the petitioner that an appeal of the rejection may be made pursuant to 5 CFR 297.306 only to the Assistant Director for Workforce Information, Personnel Systems and Oversight Group, Office of Personnel Management, 1900 E Street NW., Washington, DC 20415.

(4) Copies of rejections of petitions for amendment made pursuant to paragraphs (e)(2) and (e)(3) of this section will be provided to the Departmental and Bureau Privacy Act Officers.

(f) Implementation of initial decision. If a petition for amendment is accepted, in whole or part, the bureau maintaining the record shall:

(1) Correct the record accordingly and,

(2) Where an accounting of disclosures has been made pursuant to § 2.57, advise all previous recipients of the record that the correction was made and the substance of the correction.

§ 2.73 Petitions for amendment: Time limits for processing.

(a) Acknowledgement of receipt. The acknowledgement of receipt of a petition required by § 2.72(c) shall be dispatched not later than ten (10) working days after receipt of the petition by the system manager responsible for the system containing the challenged record, unless a decision on the petition has been previously dispatched.

(b) Decision on petition. A petition for amendment shall be processed promptly. A determination whether to accept or reject the petition for amendment shall be made within thirty (30) working days after receipt of the petition by the system manager responsible for the system containing the challenged record.

(c) Suspension of time limit. The thirty (30) day time limit for a decision on a petition shall be suspended if it is necessary to notify the petitioner, pursuant to § 2.72(d), that additional information in support of the petition is required. Running of the thirty (30) day time limit shall resume on receipt of the additional information by the system manager responsible for the system containing the challenged record.

(d) Extensions of time. (1) The thirty (30) day time limit for a decision on a petition may be extended if the official responsible for making a decision on the petition determines that an extension is necessary for one of the following reasons:

(i) A decision on the petition requires analysis of voluminous record or records;

(ii) Some or all of the challenged records must be collected from facilities other than the facility at which the official responsible for making the decision is located.

(iii) Some or all of the challenged records are of concern to another bureau of the Department or another agency of the Federal Government whose assistance and views are being sought in processing the request.

(2) if the official responsible for making a decision on the petition determines that an extension is necessary, the official shall promptly inform the petitioner of the extension and the date on which a decision is expected to be dispatched.

§ 2.74 Petitions for amendment: Appeals.

(a) Right of appeal. Except for appeals pertaining to Office of Personnel Management records, where a petition for amendment has been rejected in whole or in part, the individual submitting the petition may appeal the denial to the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration.

(b) Time for appeal. (1) An appeal must be received no later than twenty (20) working days after the date of the decision on a petition.

(2) The Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration may, for good cause shown, extend the time for submission of an appeal if a written request for additional time is received within twenty (20) working days of the date of the decision on a petition.

(c) Form of appeal. (1) An appeal shall be in writing and shall attach copies of the initial petition and the decision on that petition.

(2) The appeal shall contain a brief statement of the reasons why the appellant believes the decision on the petition to have been in error.

(3) The appeal shall be addressed to Privacy Act Officer, Office of the Assistant Secretary-Management, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

§ 2.75 Petitions for amendment: Action on appeals.

(a) Authority. Appeals from decisions on initial petitions for amendment shall be decided for the Department by the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration or an official designated by the Assistant Secretary, after consultation with the Solicitor.

(b) Time limit. (1) A final determination on any appeal shall be made within thirty (30) working days after receipt of the appeal.

(2) The thirty (30) day period for decision on an appeal may be extended, for good cause shown, by the Secretary of the Interior. If the thirty (30) day period is extended, the individual submitting the appeal shall be notified of the extension and of the date on which a determination on the appeal is expected to be dispatched.

(c) Form of decision. (1) The final determination on an appeal shall be in writing and shall state the basis for the determination.

(2) If the determination upholds, in whole or part, the initial decision rejecting the petition for amendment, the determination shall also advise the individual submitting the appeal:

(i) Of his or her right to file a concise statement of the reasons for disagreeing with the decision of the agency;

(ii) Of the procedure established by § 2.77 for the filing of the statement of disagreement;

(iii) That the statement which is filed will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed together with, at the discretion of the Department, a brief statement by the Department summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(iv) That prior recipients of the challenged record will be provided a copy of any statement of dispute to the extent that an accounting of disclosure was maintained; and

(v) Of his or her right to seek judicial review of the Department's refusal to amend the record.

(3) If the determination reverses, in whole or in part, the initial decision rejecting the petition for amendment, the system manager responsible for the system containing the challenged record shall be directed to:

(i) Amend the challenged record accordingly; and

(ii) If an accounting of disclosures has been made, advise all previous recipients of the record of the amendment and its substance.

§ 2.77 Statements of disagreement.

(a) Filing of statement. If the determination of the Assistant Secretary—Policy, Budget and Administration under § 2.75 rejects in whole or part, a petition for amendment, the individual submitting the petition may file with the system manager for the system containing the challenged record a concise written statement setting forth the reasons for disagreement with the determination of the Department.

(b) Disclosure of statements. In any disclosure of a record containing information about which an individual has filed a statement of disagreement under this section which occurs after the filing of the statement, the disputed portion of the record will be clearly noted and the recipient shall be provided copies of the statement of disagreement. If appropriate, a concise statement of the reasons of the Department for not making the requested amendments may also be provided to the recipient.

(c) Maintenance of statements. System managers shall develop procedures to assure that statements of disagreement filed with them shall be maintained in such a way as to assure dissemination of the statements to recipients of the records to which the statements pertain.

Subpart E—Compulsory Process and Testimony of Employees

§ 2.80 Compulsory process.

(a) If the production of any record of the Department is sought by compulsory process and if it is determined in accordance with the provisions of § 2.13 that the record should not be disclosed, the person making such determination shall immediately report the matter to the Solicitor. The person to whom the compulsory process is directed shall appear in answer to the process and respectfully decline to produce the record on the ground that the disclosure, pending the receipt of instructions from the Secretary of the Interior, is prohibited by the regulations in this Subpart.

(b) The solicitor of the Department of the Interior is authorized to exercise all of the authority of the Secretary of the Interior under this section.

§ 2.82 Testimony of employees.

(a) An officer or employee of the Department shall not testify in any judicial or administrative proceeding concerning matters related to the business of the Government without the permission of the head of the bureau, or his designee, or of the Secretary of the Interior, or his designee. If the head of a bureau or his designee, concludes that permission should be withheld, he shall report the matter immediately to the Solicitor for a determination, and the officer or employee shall appear in answer to process and respectfully decline to testify, pending the receipt of instructions from the Secretary, on the ground that testimony is prohibited by the regulations in this part. Pending instructions from the Secretary or his designee, an officer or employee in the Office of the Secretary shall follow the same procedure.

(b) Any person (including a public agency) wishing an officer or employee of the Department to testify in a judicial or administrative proceeding concerning a matter related to the business of the Government may be required to submit a statement setting forth the interest of the litigant and the information with respect to which the testimony of the officer or employee of the Department is desired, before permission to testify will be granted under this section.

(c) The Solicitor of the Department of the Interior is authorized to exercise all of the authority of the Secretary of the Interior under this section.

JUSTICE/ATR-003

Index of Defendants in Pending and Terminated Antitrust Cases.

U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individual defendants in pending and terminated criminal and civil cases brought by the United States under the antitrust laws.

Categories of records in the system:

This system contains an index reference to the case in which an individual (or corporation) is or was a defendant; included in information is proper case name, the judicial district and number of the case, and the date filed.

Authority for the establishment and maintenance of this index system exists under 28 U.S.C. 522 and 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Routine use of this cross index system is generally made by Department personnel for reference to proper case name. In addition a compilation of antitrust cases filed is prepared semi-annually showing the names of all defendants in pending civil and criminal Government antitrust cases. This compilation is utilized within the Department and distributed to some 30 other Government agencies for reference and statistical purposes.

A record maintained in this system, or any facts derived therefrom, may be disseminated in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the Antitrust Division is authorized to appear, when (1) the Antitrust Division, or any subdivision thereof; or (2) any employee of the Antitrust Division in his or her official capacity; or (3) any employee of the Antitrust Division in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or (4) the United States, or any agency or subdivision thereof; or (5) the United States, where the Antitrust Division determines that the litigation is likely to affect it or any of its subdivisions, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by the Antitrust Division to be arguably relevant to the litigation.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information in the system is maintained on index cards.

Retrievability:

Information in the system is retrieved by reference to the name of individual or corporate defendants in antitrust cases.

Safeguards:

Information contained in the system is unclassified and of a public nature. During working hours access to the index is monitored by Antitrust Division personnel; during non-duty hours the area in which the system is maintained is locked.

The records will be accessible by the telecommunications means of BOP facilities, Regional Offices and the Central Office.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained under authority of 18 U.S.C. 4042.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of this system are: (a) To maintain financial accounting of payments into and out of inmate trust fund accounts; (b) to provide accounts of inmate trust fund accounts for purposes of verifying pauper status under 28 U.S.C. 1915; (c) to provide information source to officers and employees of the Department of Justice who have need for information in the performance of their duties; (d) to provide information source to state and federal law enforcement officials for investigations, possible criminal prosecutions, civil court actions, or regulatory proceedings.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authorities of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information maintained in the system will be stored on documents electronically on the Department of Justice Computer System separate from the BOP Central Office.

Retrievability: Information on the automated system will be indexed by name and/or register number.

Safeguards: The Inmate Commissary Accounts Record System will be protected by both physical security methods and dissemination and access controls. Access to this information will be limited to those persons with a demonstrated and lawful need to know, in order to perform assigned functions.

Protection of the automated system will be provided by physical, procedural and electronic means. The files will reside on the Department of Justice Computer System which is physically attended or guarded on a full-time basis. For retrieval purpose, access to active telecommunications terminals will be limited to those persons with a demonstrated need to know. For update purposes, access to the files will be limited to BOP facilities employees, as required in the performance of their assigned duties. Surreptitious access to an unattended terminal will be precluded by a complex authentication procedure. The procedure will be provided only to authorized BOP employees.

An automated log of queries will be maintained for each terminal. Improper procedure will result in no access, and under certain conditions complete lockout of the terminal, pending restoration by the master controller at the BOP Central Office after appropriate verification has been received. Unattended terminals, after normal office hours, will be electronically disconnected by the master controller at the BOP Central Office. All terminals will have key locks and will be located in lockable facilities.

Retention and disposal: Records in this system will be retained for a period of ten (10) years after expiration of sentence, then destroyed by electronic means.

CIVIL DIVISION

Civil Division Case File System.

Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice 10th Street NW., Washington, DC 20530; Record Management Unit, 5320 Marinelli Road, Rockville, MD 20852; and Federal Records Center, Suitland, MD 20409.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individuals referenced in potential or actual cases and matters under the jurisdiction of the Civil Division; and attorneys, paralegals, and other emplyees of the Civil Division directly involved in these cases or matters.

Categories of records in the system:

(1) Records in this system pertain to a broad variety of litigation under the jurisdiction of the Civil Division relating to torts, civil fraud and other commercial matters, federal programs and national security, immigration, and consumer issues. The case files contain court records, inter-agency and intra-agency correspondence, and legal research. These records may include civil investigatory and/or criminal law enforcement information and information classified pursuant to Executive Order to protect national security interests. (2) Summary information (i.e., names of principal parties or subjects, case file numbers, assignments, status, and classification) of these cases or matters is maintained prior to FY 78 on index cards and from FY 78 in an automated case tracking system. (3) A timekeeping function for attorneys, paralegals, and other employees of the Civil Division directly involved in litigation supplements the automated case tracking system from May of 1981.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

General authority to maintain the system is contained in 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101. The particular system was established in accordance with 28 CFR 0.77(f) and 28 U.S.C. 552 and was delegated to the Civil Division pursuant to the memorandum from the Deputy Attorney General, dated July 17, 1974.

Purpose(s):

Case records are maintained for the purpose of litigating or resolving any case or matter under consideration by the Civil Division. The automated case tracking and timekeeping system exists for the purpose of managing and evalating the Division's litigative activities.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing, or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information or is responsible for acquiring information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, or where the agency or officials thereof are a party to litigation or where the agency or officials may be affected by a case or matter, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement (5) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (6) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in civil or criminal proceedings in which the United States or one of its officers or agencies has an interest; (7) a record, or any facts derived therefrom, may be disclosed in a grand jury proceeding or in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the Civil Division is authorized to appear when the United States, or any agency or subdivision thereof, is a party to litigation and such records are determined by the Civil Division to be arguably relevant to the litigation; (8) to facilitate processing Freedom of Information and Privacy Act requests for these records, information may be disclosed to another Federal agency to (a) permit a decision as to access, amendment or correction of records to be made in consultation with or by that agency, or (b) verify the identity of an individual or the accuracy of information submitted by an individual who has requested access to, or amendment or correction of records; (9) information may be released to the news media and the public in accordance with 28 CFR 50.2 unless it is determined that release would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; (10) a record may be disclosed to the National Archives and Records Administration and the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Manual records are stored in file cabinets and on index cards. Automated records are stored on magnetic disks. Classified information is stored in locked safes.

Retrievability:

Manual records are retrieved by file number. This number can be obtained from index cards arranged alphabetically by subject name for records received prior to FY 78 and from logical queries to the computer-based data for FY 78 and subsequent years.

Safeguards:

Classified information is maintained in locked safes. Access to all information is limited to Department of Justice personnel who have need for the records to perform their duties. Automated records are safeguarded and protected in accordance with Department rules and procedures governing the handling of computerized information.

Retention and disposal:

When a case file is closed by the responsible attorney, it is sent to the Federal Records Center for retention in accordance with the authorized Record Disposal Schedule for the classification of the case. Such schedules are approved by the National Archives.

After the designated period has passed, the file is destroyed. However, the index and docket cards are not purged. Automated records constitute a cumulative resource file for which there are no plans to delete records.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Notification procedure:

Address inquiries to: Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Record access procedures:

Portions of this system are exempt from disclosure and contest by 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), (k)(1) and (k)(2). Submit in writing all requests for access to those portions not so exempted to the system manager identified above. Clearly mark the envelope and letter "FOI/PA Request" and provide a return address. The subject of the record should also provide his/her full name and notarized signature, date and place of birth, case caption, or other information which may assist in locating the records sought.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the Assistant Attorney General, Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530. The request should clearly state what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Information may be obtained from all individuals referred to in all cases or matters under consideration of the Civil Division. Timekeeping information is obtained from all Civil Division attorneys, paralegals, and other employees directly involved in such litigation or matters.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted certain categories of records in this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (e)(2), (e)(3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(5), (e)(8), and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1) and (k)(2). That is, these exemptions apply only to the extent that the file contains information which has been properly classified pursuant to an Executive Order, or to the extent that it contains investigatory and other law enforcement materials. Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

System name: Civil Division Case File System: Customs Litigation.

System location: 26 Federal Plaza, New York, New York 10007, and U.S. Department of Justice Data Services Center, 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any and all parties and counsel involved in the cases handled by the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch of the Civil Division will have identifying data contained in this system.

Categories of records in the system: 1. The main record of the system is the case file which is retained on each case under the jurisdiction of the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch of the Civil Division and constitutes the official record of the Department of Justice thereon. All record material relating to a case is retained in the file. Each file is assigned the Customs Court number given to the summons filed in that court or, in cases filed prior to October 1, 1970, to reappraisement appeals or to protests filed with the Customs Court.

The number assigned to the file will change to the number assigned by the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, if that case becomes the subject of an appeal before that court. In addition, the Custom Section retains a log of communications received and communications sent. The correspondence is identified thereon by court (case) number, identification of the kind of communication, and the person receiving it.

2. The case file and communication logs are physically retained at the offices of the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch 26 Federal Plaza, New York, New York 10007. From these records, the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch inputs certain information for conversion into a data processing system which is maintained at the Department of Justice Data Services Center, 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530. Included in the information contained in the data processing system is the identity of the parties and their counsel, as well as the merchandise involved, the port of entry and the competing statutory provisions.

3. Alphabetical and numerical indices are maintained as a means of access to the proper file number by the cross-referencing of the names of non-government parties to suit with the appropriate file (court) numbers. These indices are made of index cards and maintained in the Chief Clerk's office in the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch case files are maintained under the authority of 28 U.S.C. 2601(b) and 2632(e) and established in accordance with 28 CFR 0.45(c) which gives the Civil Division responsibility for 'all litigation incident to the reappraisement and classification of imported goods, including the defense of all suits in the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals', and with 28 CFR 0.48 which designates the Attorney-in-Charge, Field Office, Customs Litigation 'to accept service of notices of appeals to the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals and all pleadings and other papers filed in the Customs Court, when the United States is an adverse Party in any customs litigation'.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Any record pertaining to any case or matter in the Civil Division may be disseminated to any other component of the Department of Justice, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the United States Attorney offices, for use in connection with the consideration of that case or matter or any other case or matter under consideration by the Civil Division or any other component of the Department of Justice.

Certain information contained in the record may also be disseminated to the U.S. Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury, the International Trade Commission, the Department of State, or any other agency of the Government whose decision is being challenged in a case assigned to the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch for disposition. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing, or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate

Federal, state, local or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) a record relating-to a case or matter may be disseminated to a Federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion of such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or formal or informal discovery proceedings; (6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement; or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, or where the agency or officials thereof are a party to litigation or where the agency or officials may be affected by a case or matter, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter; (7) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; (8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (9) a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (10) a record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter, (11) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than is necessary to identify the matter or where the information has previously been filed in a judicial or administrative office, including the clerk of the court; (12) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in civil or criminal proceedings in which the United States or one of its officers or agencies has an interest; (13) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making positions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions 28 CFR 17.60; (14) copies of the summons (protest and reappraisement appeals, where appropriate) and the communication logs are made available to employees of the private contractor who services the data processing system in New York for the purpose of enabling such employees to extract all pertinent information from said documents so that such information may be encoded and converted to punch card form.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: (1) The case files utilize standard file jackets or envelopes and are maintained in standard file cabinets; (2) The alphabetical index cards are maintained in standard file cabinets; (3) The communication logs are maintained in looseleaf binders and, when not being currently referred to, are also maintained in standard file cabinets; (4) The information in the data processing system is maintained on tapes stored in the Data Services Center.

Retrievability: (1) The case files must be retrieved by number. The file number may be ascertained from the alphabetical index when the name of any non-government litigant is known. (2) The informatin contained in the data processing system may be retrieved through the retrieval tool activated by an attorney making a request for a report to the computer technician who codes the request on a form in the format of the retrieval language. The action words of the retrieval reports are: List-lists the case numbers of the cases which satisfy certain criteria such as plaintiff's name, counsel's name, court, number, merchandise, competing statutory provisions, Government counsel. Write—output and the full history for any case specified by case number. Write*—a limited case history for any case specified by case number. Count-tallying the number of cases in the data base contained in the request.

Safeguards: (1) Information contained in the system is unclassified. However, only attorneys in the Civil Division who have responsibility for the case may properly obtain a case file. Correspondence and telephone calls about particular cases are referred to the attorney having responsibility for the case. In the attorney's absence, another attorney covering for the absent attorney or the Attorney-in-Charge, Field Office, Customs Litigation may respond to the telephone call or correspondence. The index files and the communication logs are utilized only by the personnel of the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch in locating or verifying information contained in the system. (2) Information from the data processing system may be obtained only by attorneys on the basis of requests made in writing on a proper form supplied by the Field Office, Customs Litigation, Commercial Litigation Branch. The request is made of the computer technician. Normally these requests are mailed to the technician in charge at the Data Services Center, but occasionally the request may be related telephonically by the computer technician.

Retention and disposal: (1) Closed case files are sent to the Federal Records Center for retention in accordance with the authorized Records Disposal Schedule for the classification of the case. Such schedules are approved by the National Archives. After the designated period is passed, the file is destroyed. The communication logs are sent to the Federal Records Center for retention in accordance with the authorized records disposal schedule after five years. After the designated period those records are also destroyed. The index cards, however, are not purged. (2) Periodically, the inactive cases will be purged from the main tape in the data processing system and transferred to the historical tape where the information will be retained indefinitely. There is a provision in the data processing system to delete and remove an entire case history from the main or historical tape. This may be done on request from the Attorney-in-Charge, Field Office, Customs Litigation and such removed cases will not be saved or written on any other tape.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to Assistant Attorney General; Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice; 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530.

System name: Office of Alien Property File System.

System location: 550 11th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any and all parties involved in the cases, claims and matters handled by the Office of Alien Property may have identifying data contained in this system.

Categories of records in the system:

1. This system consists of indices and files relative to enemy-owned property, reporting sources, ownership, vesting, and claims for the return thereof. Each vesting order is assigned a general file number, and each claim has a separate file number. Separate account files are maintained on vested property for each alien account.
2. Alphabetical and numerical indices are utilized as a means of access to the proper general file by the cross-referencing of the names of all individual former property owners and claimants with the general files.
3. Records of litigation involving the Office of Alien Property are contained in this system. There are also alphabetical and numerical indices to facilitate access to these cases.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Office of Alien Property files are maintained under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 3101 and 50 U.S.C. App. 40, Title II of the International Claims Settlement Act, and was established in accordance with 28 CFR 0.47 which states in part 'The Office of Alien Property shall be a part of the Civil Division ...' and thereafter describes the authority, rights, privileges, powers, duties and functions of that office.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Any record pertaining to any case or matter in the Civil Division may be disseminated to any other component of the Department of Justice, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the United States Attorney offices, for use in connection with the consideration of that case or matter or any other case or matter under consideration by the Civil Division or any other component of the Department of Justice.

Certain information contained in the record may also be disseminated to the U.S. Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury, the International Trade Commission, the Department of State, or any other agency of the Government whose decision is being challenged in a case assigned to the Customs Section for disposition. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, state, local or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing, or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate Federal, state, local or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion of such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or formal or informal discovery proceedings; (6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, or where the agency or officials thereof are a party to litigation or where the agency or officials may be affected by a case or matter, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter; (7) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; (8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (9) a record may be disseminated to a Federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (10) a record may be disseminated to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (11) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than is necessary to identify the matter or where the information has previously been filed in a judicial or administrative office, including the clerk of the court; (12) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in civil or criminal proceedings in which the United States or one of its officers or agencies has an interest; (13) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making positions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions of 28 CFR 17.60; (14) records are also available to the public for inspection and distribution as set forth at 8 CFR 503.1, including (a) Annual Reports of the Office of Alien Property, and (b) final determinations, opinions and orders in cases heard or reviewed within the Office of Alien Property; (15) records and documents are available for inspection by persons properly and directly concerned in connection with claims filed with the Office, records in cases heard or reviewed in the Office, and authorizations for sale and records of bids in public sales and orders for their acceptance or rejection and notifications thereof; (16) any record or portion thereof may also be disseminated to the Department of the Treasury and to the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission as a matter of routine use when such record relates to matters within the jurisdiction of the Office of Foreign Assets Control, Department of the Treasury, or claims being processed before the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission; (17) any record or portion thereof relating to an estate or trust matter under the jurisdiction of the probate courts of the several states may be disseminated to the parties and their representatives or to the courts, in proceedings involving the property owned or claimed to have been owned by a designated national of an enemy country under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act; (18) any record may be disseminated to the Department of State for any negotiation or other action relating to the Office of Alien Property or to any subject matter which is, or was at one time, under the jurisdiction of the Office of Alien Property.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information in the system is stored in standard file jackets and on index cards, within standard filing cabinets.

Retrievability: The files and index cards must be retrieved by file numbers, which can be ascertained from alphabetical indices if the name of the non-government party is known, or from numerical indices relating to the various vesting orders, accounts, claims, or cases.

Safeguards: Information in the system is regarded as confidential, pursuant to 8 CFR 503.17. Departmental rules and procedures are in force that insure that only Departmental attorneys and their authorized agents have access to this information.

Retention and disposal: A file is closed when one of the following occurs:

1. The vesting order has been complied with and the property disposed of pursuant to the Trading with the Enemy Act, and all claims have been processed.
2. A case involving the Office of Alien Property has ended by the final termination of the litigation through a compromise settlement, court decision or any other method of termination for court cases.

The file is then retained in the Federal Records Center for a number of years and thereafter may be destroyed. Index cards are retained for as long as may be practicable.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530.

Record access procedures: A request for access to a record within the Office of Alien Property system involving matters of privacy and which is not otherwise available to the party requesting the same should be submitted in writing, with the envelope and letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request'. The request should include file or account numbers and/or the names of any known non-government parties. The requestor should also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Such access requests should be submitted to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above. The request should clearly state what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: All claimants to property, as well as former depositories, are sources of information, also other offices and agencies operating under provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

JUSTICE/CIV-004

System name: Swine Flu Administrative Claim File System.

System location: Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice 521 12th Street NW., No. 804, Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any and all parties making administrative claims for damages resulting from the administration of the swine flu vaccine, whose claims have been referred by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for handling by the Civil Division, will have identifying data contained in this system.

Categories of records in the system: (1) The main record of the system is the administrative claim file which is retained on each claim under the jurisdiction of the Civil Division and constitutes the official record of the Department of Justice. All record material relating to a claim is retained in the file. Each claim is assigned a number in sequential order from the date of the filing. (2) Alphabetical and numerical indices are utilized as a means of access to the proper file by the cross-referencing of the names of all claimants with the file number. Index cards are used in these indices. (3) A Docket Card Index is maintained on each claim in order to follow the progress of all swine flu claims and to obtain statistical data for periodic and fiscal reports. However, all information contained on the cards has been taken from the record material contained in the official file.

Authority for maintenance of the system: General authority to maintain the system is contained in 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101. The particular system was established by authority of 28 CFR 0.77(f) which authority was delegated to the Civil Division pursuant to a memorandum from the Deputy Attorney General, dated July 17, 1974.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Any record pertaining to any swine flu administrative claim in the Civil Division may be disseminated to any other component of the Department of Justice, including the FBI and the United States Attorneys' Offices, for use in connection with the consideration of that claim or matter or any other claim, case or matter under consideration by the Civil Division or any other component of the Department of Justice. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) A record relating to a claim or matter that has been referred by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for investigation, or that involves a claim or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, or where the agency or officials thereof are a party to litigation or where the agency or officials may be affected by a claim or matter may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the claim or matter or any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the claim or matter; (2) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than that necessary to identify the matter and is not an unwarranted invasion of privacy or where the information has previously been filed in a judicial or administrative office, including the clerk of the court; (3) in any claim in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (4) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing, or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state local or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (5) a record relating to a claim or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (6) a record relating to a claim or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (7) a record relating to a claim or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion of such matters as settlement of the claim or matter, or for formal or informal discovery proceedings.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information of Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: (1) The claim files utilize standard file jackets and are retained in standard file cabinets; (2) the alphabetical and numerical index cards, as well as the docket cards, are retained in standard file cabinets.

Retrievability: The files and docket cards must be retrieved by file number. The file number can be ascertained from the alphabetical index if the name of the administrative claimant is known.

Safeguards: Information contained in the system is unclassified. No personalized information about a claim or claimant will be given to anyone other than the claimant, his attorney, or authorized representative. Requests for such information will not be given by telephone unless the caller can provide sufficient information to identify himself as one authorized to receive personalized information. Nonpersonal or generalized information will be given to any requester. Information in the system is regarded as sensitive pursuant to Department rules and procedures. Department rules and procedures are in force to insure that only Departmental attorneys and their authorized agents have access to the information.

Retention and disposal: When a claim file is closed by the legal section, it is sent to the Federal Records Center for retention in accordance with the authorized Record Disposal Schedule for the classification of the case. Such schedules are approved by the National Archives. After the designated period has passed, the file is destroyed. However, the index and docket cards are not purged and are retained for as long as practicable.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to Chief, Torts Section, Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Record access procedures: A request for information concerning the swine flu administrative claims of the Civil Division should be submitted in writing, with the envelope and letter clearly marked "Privacy Act Request". The request should include the file number and/ or names of any claimants known to the requester. The requester should also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Such access requests should be submitted to the System Manager listed above. Requests may also be made by telephone. In such cases the caller will be referred to the attorney of record. The attorney, in turn, may require an official written request.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above. The request should clearly state what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: All swine flu claimants are sources of information. Such information is either contained in the record material in the case files or has been extracted from that record material and put onto docket and index cards.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts File.

Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 550 11th Street, NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons who request disclosure of Civil Division records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA); persons who request access to or correction of records pertaining to themselves contained in Civil Division systems of records pursuant to the Privacy Act (PA); persons whose FOIA or PA requests for records have been referred to the Civil Division by another component of Department of Justice or another agency, and, where applicable, persons about whom records have been requested.

Categories of records in the system:

(1) The manual records consist of FOIA and PA requests for Civil Division records; related correspondence and memoranda; and copies of records from other PA systems of records responsive to the requests, which may include information concerning national security, civil investigations, and criminal law enforcement matters. (2) An automated record of selected data which has been extracted from each case file is maintained on magnetic diskettes as an index to the files, to follow the progress of the requests, and to obtain statistical data for monthly and annual reports.

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 301 and 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Purpose(s):

These records are maintained for the purpose of processing administrative requests and appeals under the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts and complying with reporting requirements of the Acts.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information may be disclosed to another Federal agency to (a) permit a decision as to access, amendment or correction of records to be made in consultation with or by that agency, or (b) verify the identity of an individual or the accuracy of information submitted by an individual who has requested access to or amendment or correction of records.

(2) A record may be disclosed to the National Archives and Records Administration and to the General Services Administration to conduct records management inspections authorized by 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

(3) Information may be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 unless it is determined that release would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The request records (manual) are stored in cabinets. Classified information is stored in a locked file cabinet. Automated records are maintained on magnetic diskettes.

Retrievability:

The system consists of alphabetical indices bearing the names of those individuals identified above and the associated record to which the indices relate containing the general and particular records of all CRT correspondence cases, matters, and memoranda, including, but not limited to, investigative reports, correspondence to and from the Division memoranda, legal papers, evidence, and exhibits. The names of some individuals, e.g., witnesses, may not yet be on the central indices. Records relating to such individuals may be obtained by direct access to the file jackets. Such file jackets are located within the respective sections of CRT according to the legal subject matter assigned to each CRT section. The delegated legal duties and responsibilities of each section are described as follows:

The records related to the duties of the Appellate Section of CRT include records generated by all CRT cases that have entered the U.S. Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal. Other records include those generated in the course of Appellate Section duties such as advising Members of Congress on legislative matters, providing legal counsel on civil rights issues to Federal agencies and providing counsel to the various components of the Department of Justice, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The record related to the duties of the Coordination and Review Section of CRT include letters, studies, and reports concerning the implementation of Executive Orders 12250 and 12236. Under E.O. 12250, the Attorney General coordinates and monitors the enforcement of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, as amended, and the civil rights provisions of any Federal assistance grant which forbids discrimination in federally assisted programs on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, handicap or religion. The Coordination and Review Section also works with Federal agencies under E.O. 12236 to monitor review of their enabling legislation on the basis of sex. Other records relate to litigation involving the civil rights statutes coordinated by the Department of Justice, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by the President and Congress.

The records related to the duties of the Criminal Section of CRT include cases or matters arising under 18 U.S.C. 241 and 242 which prohibit persons acting under color of law or in conspiracy with others to interfere with or deny the exercise of Federal constitutional rights, cases involving criminal violations of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 1971 through 1974), cases or matters involving criminal interference with housing rights as is prohibited by 42 U.S.C. 3631 and criminal interference with other federally protected rights as is prohibited by 18 U.S.C. 245. Other Criminal Section records include cases or matters involving 18 U.S.C. 1581 through 1588 which prohibit involuntary servitude, some cases involving maritime law, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The records related to the duties of the Educational Opportunities Section of CRT include cases or matters arising under Federal laws requiring nondiscrimination in public education such as Titles IV and IX of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000c, 42 U.S.C. 2000h-2) which prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin: Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments (20 U.S.C. 1681) which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in educational programs or activities receiving federal financial assistance and section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 which grants rights to handicapped persons participating in educational programs receiving federal financial assistance. In addition, the records related to the duties of the Educational Opportunities Section include cases or matters arising under the Equal Educational Opportunities Act of 1974 (20 U.S.C. 1701), and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The records related to the duties of the Employment Litigation Section of CRT include cases or matters arising under Federal laws prohibiting discriminatory employment practices by State and local governments such as the equal employment opportunity provisions contained within the Revenue Sharing Act of 1972, as amended. Other records include cases or matters arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and its amendment which is the Pregnancy Discriminatory Act of 1978 (42 U.S.C. 2000e(k)). In addition, the records related to the duties of the Employment Litigation Section include cases or matters arising under Executive Order No. 11246 involving equal opportunity laws applicable to public employers. Federal contractors and subcontractors involved in federally financed projects, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The records related to the duties of the Housing and Civil Enforcement Section of CFT include cases or matters involving the Fair Housing Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 3501 through 3619), and cases or matters involving fair credit laws such as the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (15 U.S.C. 1691 through 1691g) as well as its implementing regulations. Regulation B (12 CFR Part 202). Other records include cases or matters arising under Title II and Title III of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which prohibit discrimination in public facilities (except those Title III matters that involve prison facilities) and cases or matters arising under the nondiscrimination provisions of the Revenue Sharing Act and the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The records related to the duties of the Special Litigation Section of CRT includes cases or matters arising under Title III of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as it applies to prison facilities. cases or matters arising under the Civil Rights of Institutionalized Persons Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 1997), cases or matters involving the constitutional rights of institutional juveniles, and the constitutional rights of mentally and physically handicapped persons of all ages, cases arising under section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, and such other matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

The records relate to the duties of the Office of Redress Administration (ORA) and include records pertaining to the identification, location and authorization for restitution payments to eligible individuals of Japanese ancestry who were evacuated, relocated or interned during World War II. Such restitution payments are authorized by Section 105 of the Civil Liberties Act of 1988 (50 U.S.C. App. 1989b). Records will also relate to any criminal or civil cases arising under this Act which occur as a result of fraud, challenges to ORA administrative regulations, and to any other such matters as may be required to fulfill the duties mandated by Congress.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The records in the system of records are kept under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 3101 and in the ordinary course of fulfilling the responsibility assigned to CRT under the provisions of 28 CFR 0.50, 0.51.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A. Information in the system may be used by employees and officials of the Department to make decisions in the course of investigations and legal proceedings: To assist in preparing responses to correspondence from persons outside the Department to prepare budget requests, and various reports on the work product of CRT or to carry out other authorized Department functions.

B. A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such records as follows: (1) A record relating to a possible or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state or local agency charged with the responsibility of enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of the Administration by CRT of a federally mandated program, or the investigation or litigation of a case or matter, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state or local agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual or organization possesses information or has the expertise in an official or technical capacity to assist in the administration of such program or to analyze information relating to the investigation, trial or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such assistance, information or expert analysis, or to obtain the cooperation of a prospective witness; (3) A record relating to a case or matter, or any facts derived therefrom, may be disseminated in a proceeding before a court, grand jury, administrative or regulatory proceeding or any other adjudicative body before which CRT is authorized to appear, when the United States, or any agency or subdivision thereof, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by CRT to be arguably relevant to the litigation; (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party to litigation or the party's attorney (a) for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining or (b) in formal or informal discovery proceedings; (5) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred for investigation may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any determination that has been made; (6) a record relating to a person held in custody or probation during a criminal proceeding or after conviction, may be disseminated to any agency or individual having responsibility for the maintenance, supervision or release of such person; (7) a record may be disseminated to the United States Commission on Civil Rights in response to its request and pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 1975d.; (8) a record may be disseminated to volunteer student workers and students working under a work-study program as is necessary to enable them to perform their assigned duties.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information in the system may be disclosed as is necessary to respond to inquiries by Members of Congress on behalf of individual constituents that are subject to CRT records.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA):

A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information in this system is stored on index cards, in file jackets, and on computer disks or tapes.

Retrievability:

Information is retrieved through either use of an index card system or logical queries to the computer-based system. Entries are arranged alphabetically by the names of individuals covered by the system. (Complaints received from individuals which have not been investigated by the Department have not been systematically indexed and information pertaining to such individuals may or may not be retrievable.) Information on such individuals may be retrievable from the file jackets by a number assigned and appearing on the index cards.

Safeguards:

Information in manual and computer form is safeguarded and protected in accordance with applicable Department security regulations for systems of records. Only a limited number of staff members who are assigned a specific indentification code will be able to use the computer to access the stored information.

Retention and disposal:

Records are maintained on the system while current and required for official Government use. When no longer needed on an active basis, the paper files are transferred to the Federal Records Center, Suitland, Maryland and some records are transferred to computer tape and stored in accordance with Department security regulations for system of records. Final disposition is in accordance with records retirement or destruction as scheduled by NARA.

System manager(s) and address:

Executive Officer, Administrative Management Section, Civil Rights Division, United States Department of Justice, Washington, DC 20530.

Notification procedure:

Part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(2). Address inquiries to the System Manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

Part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(2). To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record retrievable in this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." Include in the request the full name of the individual, his or her current address, date and place of birth, notarized signature (28 CFR 16.41(b)), the subject of the case or matter as described under "Categories of records in the system," and any other information which is known and may be of assistance in locating the record, such as the name of the civil rights related case or matter involved, where and when it occurred and the name of the judicial district involved. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests should be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend non-exempt information retrievable in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Sources of information contained in this system may be an agency or person who has or offers information related to the law enforcement responsibilities and/or other statutorily-mandated duties of CRT.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted parts of this system from subsections (c)(3), (d), and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

These exemptions apply only to the extent that information in a record pertaining to a particular individual relates to an official Federal investigation and/or law enforcement matter. Those files indexed under an individual's name which concern only the administrative management of restitution payments under Section 105 of the Civil Liberties Act of 1988 are not being exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(2).

Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other information which is known and may be of assistance in locating the record. The requester shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests should be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend non-exempt information maintained in the system should direct their request to the System Manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Sources of information contained in this system are the individuals and persons making requests, the systems of records searched in the process of responding to requests, and other agencies referring requests for access to or correction of records originating in CRT.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted certain categories of records in the system pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), and (g) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, certain categories of records are exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) from subsection (c)(3), and (d) of 5 U.S.C. 552a. These exemptions apply only to the extent the records contained in the system reflect ivestigatory law enforcement information. Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS SERVICE

JUSTICE/CRS-001

System name: Operational Data Information System.

System location: Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Justice, 550 11th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Conciliators and Mediators of the Community Relations Service of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Categories of records in the system: The file contains the names of CRS employees, their case assignments, and the time allocated to each assignment. In addition, information reflecting the current status and handling of the case is included within the system.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The file is established to effect the purposes of 42 U.S.C. 2000g-1, 2000g-3 (1970).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The file is used by CRS personnel as a basis for preparing daily, weekly, and monthly activity reports for internal management. It is also used by the Administrative Office to prepare time efficiency analyses on CRS personnel. In addition, the file will be consulted in order to prepare budget requests and reports to the Associate Attorney General, the Attorney General, and to Congress.

Release of Information to the News Media and the Public: Information from the system of records may be made available to the news media and the public, unless such release would violate 42 U.S.C. 2000g-2, or would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of Information to Members of Congress: Information contained in the system, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of, and at the request of, the individual who is the subject of the record unless such release would violate 42 U.S.C. 2000g-2.

Release of Information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from the system of records may be disclosed to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) for records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906, unless such disclosure would violate 42 U.S.C. 2000g-2.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Automated records are maintained on magnetic disk at the Department of Justice Data Management Service.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved by a variety of key words including, but not limited to, the name of the employee, geographic location, and subject matter of the record.

Safeguards: Information maintained in the system is safeguarded and protected in accordance with Department rules and procedures governing the handling of computerized information. Only individuals specifically authorized by the Director of CRS will have access to the computer through a single terminal located in an office occupied during the day and locked at night. Access to the information in the system will be limited to those CRS employees whose official duties require such information.

Retention and disposal: Records classified by the subject's name are retained until 60 days after the record subject leaves the employment of the Community Relations Service and are then deleted from the system.

System manager(s) and address: Deputy Director, Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Justice, Todd Building, 550 11th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to Office of Chief Counsel, Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Justice, 550 11th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Record access procedures: In all cases, requests for access to a record shall be in writing, by mail or in person. If request for access is made by mail, the envelope and letter shall be clearly marked "Privacy Act Request." The requester shall include a description of the record requested and, if known, the case file number(s). To identify a record relating to an individual, the requester must provide the individual's full name, date and place of birth, employee identification number, and date of employment and duty assignment station(s) while employed by the Community Relations Service.

Contesting record procedures: Any individual desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct his or her request to the Deputy Director, Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Justice, Todd Building, 550 11th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20530. The request should state clearly what information is being contested, the reason for contesting, and the proposed amendment to the information.

CRIMINAL DIVISION

Central Criminal Division Index File and Associated Records.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Bond Building, 1400 New York Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530, and, Federal Records Center, Suitland, Maryland 20409.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons referred to in potential or actual cases and matters of concern to the Criminal Division and correspondents on subjects directed or referred to the Criminal Division.

Categories of records in the system:

The system consists of alphabetical indices bearing individual names, and the associated records to which they relate, arranged either by subject matter or individual identifying number containing the general and particular records of all Criminal Division correspondence, cases, matters, and memoranda, including but not limited to investigative reports, correspondence to and from the Division, legal papers, evidence, and exhibits. The system also includes items classified in the interest of national security with such designations as confidential, secret, and top secret received and maintained by the Department of Justice. This system may also include records concerning subject matters more particularly described in other systems of records of the Criminal Division.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101 to implement all functions assigned to the Criminal Division in 28 CFR 0.55 through 0.64–2.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigation or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record related to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purposes of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter; (7) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; (8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (11) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi; (12) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return; (13) a record that contains classified national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making provisions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 CFR 17.60; (14) a record relating to an actual or protential civil or criminal violation of title 17, United States Code, may be disseminated to a person injured by such violation to assist him in the institution or maintainance of a suit brought under such title.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper documents are stored in file folders and in the Federal Records Center; selected summary data is stored on manual index cards and on microfilm and on IBM System/38.

Retrievability:

Summary data, e.g., names, file numbers, subjects, dates of correspondence, dates of receipt, due dates of assignments, docket numbers and/or synopses are retrieved from manual index cards microfilm, and a numerical listing maintained on IBM System/38.

File folders are retrieved through manual or automated indexes which are accessed through certain summary data, i.e., name or file and docket numbers.

Safeguards:

The records are safeguarded and protected in accordance with applicable Departmental rules. Security for the automated records include strictly controlled access codes and passwords. In addition, only authorized Criminal Division employees will have access to the system.

Retention and disposal:

Currently there is an agreement with the Federal Records Center for retention and disposal after ten years applicable to approximately 20 percent of the Division records. All other paper records are currently retained indefinitely. A retention and disposal schedule for automated records will be under review in connection with a revised schedule for the paper records.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, U.S. Department of Justice; 10th and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure:

The major part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1), or (k)(2). Inquiry concerning this system should be directed to the system manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

The major part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1), or (k)(2). To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record contained in this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request.' Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record, the name of the case or matter involved, if known, and the name of the judicial district involved, if known. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the system manager listed above.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the system manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Department officers and employees, and other federal, state, local, and foreign law enforcement and non-law enforcement agencies, private persons, witnesses, and informants.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (e)(4), (G), (H) and (I), (e)(5) and (8), (f) and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

Criminal Division Witness Security File.

System location:

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, 10th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530. In addition, some of the records contained in this system may be located at one or more of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Sections Field Offices listed in the appendix to the Criminal Division Systems of Records.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons who are potential or actual witnesses and/or informants, relatives, and associates of those individuals.

Categories of records in the system:

The system consists of the Witness Security Program files on all persons who are considered for admission or who have been admitted into the program. The files contain information concerning the individuals, the source and degree of danger to which they are exposed, the cases in which they are expected to testify, relocation information and documentation, job assistance, sponsoring office, requirements for reimbursement and administration of the program, and protection techniques. Records concerning subject matters described in this system may also be contained in JUSTICE/CRM-001.

This system is authorized pursuant to sections 501 through 504 of Pub. L. 91-452.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: 1. Dissemination of a record may be made to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency to acquire information concerning the individual, or those associated with him, relating to the protection of the subject or to a criminal investigation; 2. in any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; 3. in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; 4. a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; 5. a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; 6. a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; 7. a record relating to an individual in a matter that has been referred for either consideration or investigation by an agency may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made; 8. a record relating to an individual held in custody pending arraignment, trial, or sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; 9. a record may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; 10. a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; 11. a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; 12. a record may be disseminated to a non-governmental entity or individual in the acquisition of employment or other services in behalf of the witnesses.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

This system is also maintained to implement the provisions codified in 28 CFR 0.55 particularly subsection (g).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter; (7) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after convinction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; (8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (11) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade association, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi; (12) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return; (13) a record that contains classifed national security information and material may be disseminated to persons who are engaged in historical research projects, or who have previously occupied policy making provisions to which they were appointed by the President, in accordance with the provisions codified in 28 CFR 17.60.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The records in this system are stored on various documents, tapes, disc packs, and punch cards, some of which are contained in files, on index cards, or in related type materials.

Retrievability:

The system is accessed by name but may be grouped for the convenience of the user by subject matter, e.g., parole file, photograph file, etc.

Safeguards:

Materials related to the system are maintained in appropriately restricted areas and are safeguarded and protected in accordance with applicable Department rules.

Retention and disposal:

Currently there are no provisions for the disposal of the records in the system.

Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, U.S. Department of Justice; 10th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Notification procedure:

Inquiry concerning the system should be addressed to the System Manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

The major part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1), or (k)(2). To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record contained in this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request". Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record, the name and of the case or matter involved, if known, and the name of the judicial district involved, if known. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the system manager listed above. Records in this system are exempt from the access provisions of the Act in accordance with the applicable exemption notice.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the system manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought. Records in this system are exempt from the contesting provisions of the Act in accordance with the applicable exemption notice.

Record source categories:

1. Federal, state, local, or foreign government agencies concerned with the administration of criminal justice and non-law enforcement agencies both public and private; 2. Members of the public; 3. Government employees; 4. Published material; 5. Witnesses and informants.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I), (e)(5), and (8), (f), and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/CRM-014

System name: Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, Intelligence and Special Services Unit, Information Request System.

System location: U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, 10th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20530. In addition, some of the records contained in this system are located at one or more of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section Field Offices listed in the appendix to the Criminal Division's systems of records.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals making inquiries of the Intelligence and Special Services Unit data sources, Unit personnel processing those inquiries, Intelligence Analysts assigned to the Strike Forces, and those individuals about whom such inquiries are made.

Categories of records in the system: The information request record system provides an audit trail of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section information system. Included in this system of records is such information as the request from an agency and the date of the request, the employee processing the request, the subject of the request, and a brief summary of the results of the check.

Authority for maintenance of the system: This system is established and maintained pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101. The system is also maintained to implement the provisions codified in 28 CFR 0.55 particularly subsection (g).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record to a federal agency at its request if such agency has a need for the record to perform its duties.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration: A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: A record contained in this system is stored on computer tapes, paper, magnetic tape, and disc pack.

Retrievability: A record in this system is accessed by one or more of the components of the information contained in the system including accessing by the name of the individual.

Safeguards: The computer center is maintained by the Office of Management and Finance which has designed security procedures consistent with the sensitivity of the data. Materials related to the system maintained at locations other than the location of the computer are similarly protected by being maintained in a restricted area at the Department of Justice.

Retention and disposal: Information in the system is constantly modified as new information is received. Historical data is maintained as an audit trail until sufficient experience with the system is received to develop appropriate procedures for the elimination and destruction of the data. Such procedures are consistent with applicable governmental procedures.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, U.S. Department of Justice, 10th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Notification procedure: Inquiry concerning this system should be directed to the System Manager listed above.

Record access procedures: The major part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2), (k)(1), or (k)(2). To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request for access is received. A request for access to a record contained in this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked 'Privacy Access Request'. Include in the request the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record, the name of the case or matter involved, if known, and the name of the judicial district involved, if known. The requestor will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Access requests will be directed to the system manager listed above. Records in this system are exempt from the access provisions of the Act in accordance with the applicable exemption notice.

Contesting record procedures: Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the system manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories: Individuals who make inquiry of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Information System.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(4)(G), (H) and (I), (f) and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

System name:

Registration and Propaganda Files Under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division: Bond Building, 1400 New York Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons required to file under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended. (FARA), 22 U.S.C. 611 et seq.

Categories of records in the system:

(1) An automated alphabetical indices which includes summary data such as registrant names, file numbers, dates of registration, and a synopsis of activities performed for a given foreign principal; and (2) file folders which contain copies of all registration statements and statements concerning the distribution of political propaganda furnished under FARA. Other records related to subject matters described in this system will be maintained in the Central Criminal Division Index File and Associated Records (JUSTICE/CRM-001) System. Such other records may include related correspondence, inspection and/or investigative reports, and/or statements of any agent of a foreign principal whose activities have ceased to be of a character which requires registration under FARA.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 22 U.S.C. 611 et seq. The system is also maintained to implement the provisions of 28 CFR 5.1 through 5.801.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

As prescribed by 22 U.S.C. 616 (a), (b), and (c), records may be disclosed as follows:

These records are public records and are open to public examination and inspection and copies of the same shall be furnished to every applicant at fees prescribed by 28 CFR 5.601. The registration statement and other statements of any agent of a foreign principal whose activities have ceased to be of a character which requires registration under the provisions of FARA may be withdrawn from public examination. Any records withdrawn will be incorporated into the Central Criminal Division Index File and Associated Records (JUSTICE/CRM-001) System.

One copy of every registration statement filed under FARA and one copy of every amendment or supplement thereto, and one copy of every item of poilitical propaganda filed under FARA shall be forwarded to the Secretary of State for such comment and use as the Secretary of State may determine to be appropriate from the point of view of the foreign relations of the United States.

Information obtained under FARA, including the names of registrants, copies of registration statements, or parts thereof, copies of political propaganda, or other documents or information filed under FARA, may be furnished to departments and agencies in the executive branch and committees of the Congress.

In addition, records may be disclosed to (1) a Member of Congress or a staff person acting upon the Member's behalf (a) as a public record or (b) when the Member or staff person requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record, and, (2) the National Archives and Records Administration and the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records contained in this system are stored manually on index cards and in file jackets; selected summary data, e.g., name and address of registrant, name of foreign principal, description of activities, amount of money received, and promotional material disseminated, are stored on magnetic disks.

Retrievability:

Paper records and summary data are retrieved by name of registrant.

Safeguards:

These records have been designated as public records by 22 U.S.C. 616. However, to protect the integrity of the records, the file jackets are obtained for applicants by Registration Unit personnel who are present in the public office during duty hours, and the room is locked during non-duty hours.

Retention and disposal:

Destroyed ten years after close of case (National Archives and Records Administration Job No. NC1-60-78-1 pending).

The Stocks and Bonds Intelligence Control Card File System.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Bond Building, 1400 New York Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individuals, and their known associates, who are actual, potential, or alleged violators, of statutes dealing with stocks, bonds, and other securities.

Categories of records in the system:

This system is an alphabetical listing of all individuals, and their associates, who are actual, potential, or alleged violators of the statutes dealing with counterfeiting, forging, and theft of stocks, bonds, and other securities including those who traffic, or are suspected of trafficking, in such stocks, bonds, or other securities. Records concerning subject matters described in this system may also be contained in JUSTICE/CRM-001.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101, and is intended to assist in implementing and enforcing the criminal laws of the United States codified in title 18, United States Code and elsewhere, particularly the laws relating to offenses involving stocks and bonds. The system is also maintained to implement the provisions codified in 28 CFR 0.55.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) In any case in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, the record in question may be disseminated to the appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign agency charged with the responsibility for investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing such law; (2) in the course of investigating the potential or actual violation of any law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, or during the course of a trial or hearing or the preparation for a trial or hearing for such violation, a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign agency, or to an individual or organization, if there is reason to believe that such agency, individual, or organization possesses information relating to the investigation, trial, or hearing and the dissemination is reasonably necessary to elicit such information or to obtain the cooperation of a witness or an informant; (3) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated in an appropriate federal, state, local, or foreign court or grand jury proceeding in accordance with established constitutional, substantive, or procedural law or practice; (4) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a federal, state, or local administrative or regulatory proceeding or hearing in accordance with the procedures governing such proceeding or hearing; (5) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to an actual or potential party or his attorney for the purpose of negotiation or discussion on such matters as settlement of the case or matter, plea bargaining, or informal discovery proceedings; (6) a record relating to a case or matter that has been referred by an agency for investigation, prosecution, or enforcement, or that involves a case or matter within the jurisdiction of an agency, may be disseminated to such agency to notify the agency of the status of the case or matter or of any decision or determination that has been made, or to make such other inquiries and reports as are necessary during the processing of the case or matter; (7) a record relating to a person held in custody pending or during arraignment, trial, sentence, or extradition proceedings, or after conviction or after extradition proceedings, may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign prison, probation, parole, or pardon authority, or to any other agency or individual concerned with the maintenance, transportation, or release of such a person; (8) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (9) a record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, foreign, or international law enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; (10) a record may be disseminated to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information relates to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (11) a record may be disseminated to the public, news media, trade associations, or organized groups, when the purpose of the dissemination is educational or informational, such as descriptions of crime trends or distinctive or unique modus operandi, provided that the record does not contain any information identifiable to a specific individual other than such modus operandi.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

System name:

Witness Immunity Records.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, 10th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Potential or actual witnesses for whom immunity (pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 6001-6005) is proposed.

Categories of records in the system:

The system contains background information on the individual and the case of matter in which he is expected to testify in a processing before or ancillary to a court or grand jury of the United States or an agency of the United States. The information maintained in the system is entered from DOJ Form-LAA-111, "Request for Immunity Authorization", which is completed by the United States Attorneys, or from other formal requests for immunity from Federal agencies. The system also contains a record of action taken by the Criminal Division on the request.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintain pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101. The system is also maintained to implement the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 6001-6005 and 18 U.S.C. 2514.

Purpose(s):

The system is essential to the Division's efforts in granting immunity requests as stated in 18 U.S.C. 6001-6005. Requests for immunity may be made by a United States Attorney or a Federal agency.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

(1) A record may be disseminated to a federal, state, local, or foreign law enforcement agency to alert such agency to the proposed immunity or, to the extent necessary for identification purposes, to elicit information concerning the potential or actual witness which may be necessary to an evaluation of the proposed immunity; (2) a record relating to a proposed immunity that has been referred to the Department of Justice for approval, may be disseminated to the referring agency to notify such agency of the status of the referral or of any decision or determination that has been made.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper documents are stored in file folders in locked cabinets; selected summary data are stored on magnetic disks and on manual index cards which are also kept in locked cabinets.

Retrievability:

Summary data, e.g., names, request numbers, dates of receipt and completion are retrieved from manual index cards for requests received prior to June 1986; for June 1986 and subsequent years, summary data are retrieved from magnetic disks. File folders are accessed through the manual or automated indexes.

Safeguards:

The records are safeguarded and protected in accordance with applicable Departmental rules. Security for the automated records include strictly controlled access codes and passwords. Only authorized Criminal Division employees will have access to the system.

Categories of records in the system:

The system contains all requests for tax material, any such material provided by the Internal Revenue Service or duplicated or extracted by the Criminal Division from such material, and related records necessary to the application for and/or safeguarding of such material received on or after January 1, 1977.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 26 U.S.C. 6103(p)(4).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record (A) to any officer or employee of the Criminal Division who is personally and directly engaged in preparation for any proceeding (or investigation which may result in such proceeding) pertaining to the enforcement of a specifically designated Federal criminal statute not involving tax administration or to the enforcement of a Federal criminal statute in any matter involving tax administration; and (B) to any person outside of the Criminal Division where such dissemination is or reasonably appears to be in furtherance of proper preparation for any proceeding (or investigation which may result in such proceeding) pertaining to the enforcement of a specifically designated Federal criminal statute not involving tax administration or to the enforcement of a Federal criminal statute in any manner involving tax administration. Such dissemination shall be permitted to the extent authorized under 26 U.S.C. 6103(h), 26 U.S.C. 6103(i), 26 CFR 404.6103(h)(2)–1, 26 CFR 404.6103(i)–(l), and Rule 6(e), FR Crim. P. The above mentioned routine uses include the following:

(1) Dissemination to an attorney of the Criminal Division assigned responsibility with respect to an above-mentioned proceeding or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(2) Dissemination to an officer or employee of the Department of Justice with supervisory or clerical responsibility with respect to an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(3) Dissemination to an officer or employee of another Federal agency (as defined at 5 U.S.C. 551(l)) with investigative, supervisory, or clerical responsibility working under the direction and control of such attorneys of the Department of Justice as are assigned responsibility with respect to an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(4) Dissemination to a taxpayer to whom such record relates, or to such taxpayer's legal representative, to properly interview, consult, depose, or interrogate or otherwise obtain information relevant to an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding, from such taxpayer or his legal representative;

(5) Dissemination during the course of an investigation which may result in an above-mentioned proceeding to any witness who may be called on to give evidence in such a proceeding to properly interview, consult, depose, or interrogate or otherwise obtain relevant information from such potential witness;

(6) Dissemination to any person having special knowledge or technical skills (such as handwriting analysis, photographic development, sound recording enhancement, or voice identification) to properly obtain the services of such person in an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(7) Dissemination to an officer or employee of the Department of Justice, another Federal agency (as defined at 5 U.S.C. 551(l)), or a foreign government to properly utilize international contacts and judicial assistance in an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(8) Dissemination to an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service to obtain additional disclosure pursuant to 26 U.S.C. 6103 in an above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(9) Dissemination to a Federal grand jury;

(10) Dissemination to an officer or employee of the Department of Justice to obtain a court order to compel testimony pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 6002 and 6003 in any above-mentioned proceeding, or an investigation which may result in such proceeding;

(11) Dissemination to any party to an above-mentioned proceeding, to properly conduct negotiations concerning, or obtain authorization for, disposition of the proceeding, in whole or in part, or to obtain stipulations of fact in connection with the proceeding;

(12) Dissemination to a judicial or administrative body (such as the United States Parole Commission) in an above-mentioned proceeding or in preparation therefore, or in any post-conviction proceeding resulting from an above-mentioned proceeding;

(13) Dissemination to a court reporter in an above-mentioned proceeding, or as required, in preparation therefor.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

A record contained in this system is stored manually on index cards and in file jackets.

Retrievability:

A record is retrieved by name of the taxpayer in indices maintained in individual sections of the Criminal Division.

Safeguards:

Records are safeguarded in accordance with Department of Justice rules and procedures. Buildings in which records are located are under security guard, and access to premises is by official identification. Records are stored in spaces which are locked outside of normal office hours and in safe type filing cabinets which are locked when not being accessed. Access to such cabinets is limited to Division personnel whose duties and responsibilities require such access and to whom access may be permitted. A record of access is kept which indicates the name of each person who gains access to material from the secured area and the date and time of each access.

Retention and disposal:

Records not retained are returned to the Internal Revenue Service or rendered undisclosable in accordance with 26 U.S.C. 6103(p)(4)(f)(ii). Currently there are no provisions for disposal of records contained in this system that are not returned to the Internal Revenue Service or are otherwise rendered undisclosable.

Index of Prisoners Transferred Under Prisoner Transfer Treaties.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Bond Building, 1400 New York Avenue, NW, 10th and Constitution Ave., NW., Washington, DC 20530.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Prisoners transferred to or from prisons in the United States under prisoner transfer treaties with other countries.

Categories of records in the system:

The system consists of alphabetical indicies bearing individual names of prisoners involved in transfers and the tape recordings and occasional verbatim transcripts of consent verification hearings held pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 4107 and 4108, as well as copies of consent verification forms.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The system is maintained to implement the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 4107(e) and 4108(e). The records maintained in the system are used in conjunction with litigation relating to transfer of prisoners under prisoner transfer treaties.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The file is used by personnel of the Office of International Affairs of the Criminal Division to confirm the status of verification consent proceedings and to provide a readily retrievable record in the event of litigation on the issue of consent to the transfer. In addition, a record may be disseminated to the court, to court personnel, and to parties and their counsel in any litigation brought on the issue of proper consent to a prisoner transfer; to a state, local or foreign government, at its request, when the record relates to one of its past or present prisoners who have been the subject of a consent verification hearing; and, to any foreign government that is a party to an applicable treaty in a scheduled report that is required by the treaty.

Release of information to the news media and the public: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in the system not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record of the system of records may be disclosed to NARA and GSA National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) for records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Verification consent forms and tape records are stored in file drawer safes.

Retrievability:

A record is retrieved from index cards by the name of the individual and from the file jackets by location and date of the verification consent hearings which appear on the index cards.

Safeguards:

The records are stored in file drawer safes. Access to them is limited to personnel of the Office of International Affairs, Criminal Division, United States Department of Justice. The office in which the records are contained is securely locked at night and on weekends.

Retention and disposal:

Currently it is planned to maintain records for 10 years in file safes referred to above and then transfer them to the Federal Records Center for retention.

System manager(s) and address:

Notification procedure:

Inquiry concerning this system should be in writing and made to the system manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

A request for access to a record contained in this system shall be made in writing to the system manager, with the envelope and letter clearly marked "Privacy Act Request". The request shall include the name of the individual involved, his birth date and place, or any other identifying number or information which may be of assistance in locating the record, and the name of the case or matter involved, if known. The requester shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the system manager listed above, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information.

Record source categories:

Court records and prisoner statements.

None.

JUSTICE/CRM-027

Office of Special Investigations (OSI) Displaced Persons Listings.

U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Bond Building, 1400 New York Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20530, and Federal Records Center, Suitland, Maryland 20409.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individuals who applied for entry visas into the United States under the Displaced Persons Acts in force from 1948 to 1952 and for whom the United States Army Counterintelligence Corps assembled visa investigation files.

Categories of records in the system:

The system consists of alphabetical indexes bearing the names of persons who applied for entry visas under the Displaced Persons Acts, their visa applications, investigative reports and any other supporting documents.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101 and is intended to assist in implementing and enforcing the criminal laws of the United States, particularly those Criminal Statutes codified in "Criminal Laws," United States Code. The system is also maintained to implement the provisions codified in 28 CFR 0.55 and 0.61.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

best copy available

These records are used by OSI personnel as source material to locate potential witnesses who might be able to provide information of investigative interest. However, a record maintained in this sytem of records may be disseminated as a routine use of such record as follows: (1) Records, or some part thereof, relating to a particular visa applicant, may become a part of an investigative record maintained in a published system of records entitled "Central Criminal Division Index File and Associated Records, JUSTICE/CRM-001" and be subject to the routine uses of that system; (2) a record relating to a case or matter may be disseminated to a foreign country pursuant to an international treaty or convention entered into and ratified by the United States or to an executive agreement; (3) a record may be disseminated to a Federal, State, local, foreign, or international enforcement agency to assist in the general crime prevention and detection efforts of the recipient agency or to provide investigative leads to such agency; and (4) a record may be disseminated to a foreign country, through the United States Department of State or directly to the representative of such country, to the extent necessary to assist such country in apprehending and/or returning a fugitive to a jurisdiction which seeks his return.

Release of information to the news media:

Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Index records in this system will be stored by name and control number on an IBM System/38. The actual records are papers in files stored in file boxes on shelves in locked record storage rooms.

Retrievability:

Records stored in this system can be retrieved by the name of the individual, and by the control number of the record.

Safeguards:

Appropriate steps have been taken to preserve security and minimize the risk of unauthorized access to the system. Staff members who use the computer to input data or who have access to the stored data have been given specific identification codes or passwords by the system security officer which will restrict access to specific data. The files will be kept in a locked room with restricted access.

Retention and disposal:

Currently there are no provisions for the disposal of records in the system.

Notification procedure:

Inquire in writing to the system manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

Portions of this system are exempt from disclosure and contest by 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). Make all requests for access to those portions not so exempted by writing to the system manager identified above. Clearly mark the envelope and letter "Privacy Access Requests;" provide the full name and notarized signature of the individual who is the subject of the record, his/her date and place of birth, or any other identifying number or information which may assist in locating the record; and, a return address.

Contesting record procedures:

Direct all requests to contest or amend information maintained in the system to the system manager listed above. State clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information.

Record source categories:

The information in this system was originally compiled during the course of investigations undertaken by the United States Army Counter Intelligence Corps pursuant to the Displaced Persons Acts in effect from 1948 to 1952. For the most part, the information in this system was obtained directly from the visa applicant himself, but the records would also contain information from other individuals or entities which would have shed light on the information supplied by the visa applicant.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted certain categories of records in this system from subsection (d) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e), and have been published in the Federal Register.

In addition, the same basic data is maintained in an automated system for quick retrieval.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The Drug Enforcement Administration is required under the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (Pub. L. 91-513) to register all handlers of controlled substances.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The Controlled Substances Act Registration Records produce special reports as required for statistical analytical purposes. Disclosures of information from this system are made to the following categories of users for the purposes stated: (A) Other Federal law enforcement and regulatory agencies for law enforcement and regulatory purposes; (B) State and local law enforcement and regulatory agencies for law enforcement and regulatory purposes; (C) Persons registered under the Controlled Substances Act (Pub. L. 91-513) for the purpose of verifying the registration of customers and practitioners.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The automated portion of this system is maintained on magnetic tape and the manual portion is by batch.

Retrievability:

The automated system is retrieved by name and registration number. The manual portion is filed in batches by date the application was processed. A microfiche system of the names by State is maintained for quick reference purposes. In addition, a number of telecommunication terminals have been added to the existing network.

Safeguards:

This system of records is maintained in DEA Headquarters which is protected by twenty-four hour guard service and electronic surveillance. Access to the building is restricted to DEA employees and those persons transacting business within the building who are escorted by DEA employees. Access to the system is restricted to DEA personnel on a need-to-know basis. A specific computer program is necessary to extract information. Information that is retrievable by terminals requires user identification numbers which are issued to authorized employees of the Department of Justice.

Retention and disposal:

Records in the manual portion of the system are retired to the Federal Records Center after one year and destroyed after eight years. The automated data is stored in the Department of Justice Computer Center and destroyed after five years.

System manager(s) and address:

Deputy Assistant Administrator, Office of Diversion Control, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street NW., Washington, DC 20537.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries should be addressed to Freedom of Information Section, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street NW., Washington, DC 20537. Inquiries should include inquirer's name, date of birth, and social security number.

Record access procedures:

Same as the above.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as the above.

Record source categories:

Information contained in this system of records is obtained from: (A) Registrants and applicants under the Controlled Substances Act (Pub. L. 91-513); (B) DEA Investigators.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (f) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b) (c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/DEA-006

Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Records.

Freedom of Information Section, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 I Street, NW., Room 200, Washington, DC 20537.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons who request disclosure of records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act; persons who request access to or correction of records pertaining to themselves contained in DEA's system of records pursuant to the Privacy Act; and, where applicable, persons about whom records have been requested or about whom information is contained in requested records.

Categories of records in the system:

The system contains: (1) Copies of all correspondence and internal memorandums related to the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act request, and related records necessary to the processing of such requests receive after January 1, 1975, (2) documents responsive to Freedom of Information Act/Privacy Act requests that are contained in other DEA systems of records, and (3) copies of all documents relevant to appeals and lawsuits under the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and is maintained pursuant to the authority of the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 and Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1973; and is maintained to implement the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a and the provisions of 28 CFR 16.1 et seq. and 28 CFR 16.40 et seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

A record maintained in this system may be disseminated as a routine use of such records as follows: (1) A record may be disseminated to a Federal agency which furnished the record for the purpose of permitting a decision as to access or correction to be made by that agency, or for the purpose of consulting with that agency as to the propriety of access or correction; (2) a record may be disseminated to any appropriate Federal, State, local, or foreign agency for the purpose of verifying the accuracy of information submitted by an individual who has requested amendment or correction of records contained in a system of records maintained by the Freedom of Information Section.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The records in this system are maintained in standard case file folders.

Retrievability:

A record is retrieved by the name of the individual or person making a request for access or correction of records.

Safeguards:

This system of records is maintained at DEA Headquarters which is protected by twenty-four hour guard service and electonic surveillance. Access to the building is restricted to DEA employees and those persons transacting business within the building who are escorted by DEA employees. In addition, the system is stored in Diebold combination vault and access is restricted to the staff of the Feedom of Information Section, on a need-to-know basis.

Retention and disposal:

Currently there are no provisions for disposal of records contained in this system. Destruction schedules will be developed as the system requirements become known.

System manager(s) and address:

Chief, Freedom of Information Section, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 I Street, NW., Room 200, Washington, DC 20537.

Notification procedure:

A part of this system is exempted from this requirement under 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) or (k). To the extent that this system of records is not subject to exemption, it is subject to access and contest. A determination as to exemption shall be made at the time a request is received by the Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 I Street, Washington, D.C. 20537. A request shall be made in writing with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Request". Each Privacy request shall contain the name of the individual involved, his date and place of birth, and other verification of identity as required by 28 CFR 16.41. Each requestor shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Requests shall be directed to the Chief, Freedom of Information Section, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20537.

Record access procedures:

Same as Notification Procedures above.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as Notification Procedures above except individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their written request to the System Manager listed above, and state clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Sources of information contained in this system are the individuals and persons making requests, the systems of records searched in the processing responding to requests, and other agencies referring requests for access to or correction of records originating in the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

This system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g) and (h) of 5 U.S.C. 552a; in addition, this system of records is exempted pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1) and (k)(2) from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G) and (H), and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a. This system is exempted because the records contained in this system reflect Drug Enforcement Administration law enforcement and investigative information. Individual access to these records might compromise ongoing investigations, reveal confidential informants or constitute unwarranted invasions of the personal privacy of third parties who are involved in a certain investigation. Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register

Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/DEA-008

Investigative Reporting and Filing System.

System location:

Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 I Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20537. Also, field offices. See Appendix 1 for list of addresses.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

A. Drug offenders
B. Alleged drug offenders
C. Persons suspected of drug offenses
D. Confidential informants
E. Defendants
F. Witnesses
G. Non-implicated persons with pertinent knowledge of some circumstances or aspect of a case or suspect. These are pertinent references of fact developed by personal interview or third party interview and are recorded as a matter for which a probable need for recall will exist. In the regulatory portion of the system, records are maintained on the following categories of individuals: (a) Individuals registered with DEA under the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970; (b) Responsible officials of business firms registered with DEA; (c) Employees of DEA registrants who handle controlled substances or occupy positions of trust related to the handling of controlled substances; (d) Applicants for DEA registration and their responsible employees.

Categories of records in the system:

The Investigative Reporting and Filing System includes, among other things, a system of records as defined in the Privacy Act of 1974. Individual records. i.e., items of information on an individual, may be decentralized in separate investigative file folders. Such records, as well as certain other records on persons and subjects not covered by the Act, are made retrievable and are retrieved by reference to the following subsystems.

A. The Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Information System (NADDIS) consists of two centralized automated indices and machine records on subjects cited in and extracted from investigative reports. The two indices represent a name index and a number index which are used to access one or more specific records for examination. The system serves as both an index to the more voluminous written reports upon which it is based and as an autonomous means for developing investigative leads and aids in selecting source materials for studies of a strategic nature. The system is accessible by telecommunications by appropriately equipped DEA headquarters and field offices. Records which comprise the system are also accessed by special computer runs. These runs are typically generated from selection criteria which cannot be utilized (input) via the telecommunications equipment. Bulk products generated via off-line runs may be formatted on computer tape, in printout or on microfiche depending on the needs of the user.

Direct references to the discrete file folders in which the source reports are filed are provided within each record. Therefore, the NADDIS records point to the more comprehensive manual reports maintained centrally at Headquarters. Records are retrievable by name and by certain identifying numbers in the online mode and by virtually any record data element in the off-line mode.

B. The Confidential Source Subsystem within the Investigative Reporting and Filing System consists of demographic and administrative data concerning: (a) Persons who under the specific direction of a DEA agent, with or without the expectation of payment or other valuable consideration, furnish information regarding drug trafficking, or perform other lawful services; and (b) persons who furnish information to DEA on an occasional basis.

The information contained in this subsystem is extracted directly from investigative files and confidential informant files contained in the system.

This subsystem contains no names. The subsystem consists of alphanumeric identifiers coupled with demographic and administrative data concerning the confidential source. The subsystem serves primarily as an administrative tool to enable DEA management to perform periodic reviews of confidential sources required by DEA guidelines and regulations, to enable DEA to maintain move effective management controls over the expenditure of funds to confidential sources and to enable DEA to more systematically assess the performance of particular confidential sources. In addition, the system will generate statistical reports which will assist DEA management in evaluating the overall effectiveness of the utilization of confidential sources of information.

The system is accessed by designated ADP terminals on the strictest need to know basis.

C. Manual name indices covering foreign investigative activities are maintained by DEA foreign field offices. A residual card index is retained by DEA headquarters and domestic field offices that predates the automated central index. The items of information on the manual index records are extracted only from investigative reports and point to the more comprehensive information in pertinent investigative file folders. The records in the field office indices are subsets of the central automated and manual indices. Records are retrievable by name only by this manual technique. Four basic categories of files are maintained within the Investigative Reporting and Filing System. DEA does not maintain a dossier type file in the traditional sense on an individual. Instead, the files are complied on separate investigations, topics and on a functional basis for oversight and investigative support. (a) Criminal Investigative Case Files; (b) General Investigative Files, Criminal and Regulatory; (c) Regulatory Audit and Investigative Files; (d) Confidential Information Files.

The basic document contained in these files is a multipurpose report of investigation (DEA-6) in which investigative activities and findings are rigorously documented. The reports pertain to the full range of DEA criminal drug enforcement and regulatory investigative functions that emanate from the Comprehensive Drug Prevention and Control Act of 1970. Within the categories of files listed above, the general file category includes preliminary investigations of a criminal nature, certain topical or functional aggregations and reports of preregistrant inspections/investigations. The case files cover targeted conspiracies, trafficking situations and formal regulatory audits and investigations. Frequently the criminal drug cases are the logical extension of one or more preliminary investigations. The distinction between the case file and general file categories, therefore is based on internal administrative policy and should not be construed as a differentiation of investigation techniques or practices. These files, except for Confidential Information Files, contain also adopted reports received from other agencies to include items that comprise, when indexed, individual records within the meaning of the Act. The central files maintained at DEA Headquarters include, in general, copies of investigative reports and most of the supporting documents that are generated or adopted by DEA Headquarters and field offices.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained to enable DEA to carry out its assigned law enforcement and regulatory functions under the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (Pub. L. 91-513). Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1973, and to fulfill United States obligations under the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

This system may be used as a data source or reference facility for numerous summary, management and statistical reports produced by the Drug Enforcement Administration. Only on rare occasions do such reports contain identifiable individual records. Information contained in this system is provided to the following categories of users as a matter of routine use for law enforcement and regulatory purposes: (a) Other federal law enforcement and regulatory agencies; (b) State and local law enforcement and regulatory agencies; (c) Foreign law enforcement agencies with whom DEA maintains liaison; (d) The Department of Defense and Military Departments: (e) The Department of State; (f) U.S. intelligence agencies concerned with drug enforcement; (g) The United Nations; (h) Interpol; (i) To individuals and organizations in the course of investigations to elicit information.

In addition, disclosures are routinely made to the following categories for the purposes stated: (a) To federal agencies for national security clearance purposes and to federal and state regulatory agencies responsible for the licensing or certification of individuals in the fields of pharmacy and medicine; (b) To the Office of Management and Budget upon request in order to justify the allocation of resources; (c) To State and local prosecutors for assistance in preparing cases concerning criminal and regulatory matters; (d) To the news media for public information purposes; and (e) To respondents and their attorneys for purposes of discovery, formal and informal in the course of an adjudicatory, rulemaking, or other hearing held pursuant to the Controlled Substances Act of 1970.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the NARA and GSA in records management inspection conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Administration regulations include detailed instructions for the preparation, adoption, handling, dissemination, indexing of individual records, storage, safeguarding of investigative reports and the accounting of disclosure of individual records.

Storage:

1. The Headquarters central files and the field office subsets of the Investigative Reporting and Filing System are maintained in standard file folders. Standard formats are employed. Manual indices are maintained using standard index record formats.

2. The Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs information subset is stored electronically on the Department of Justice computer center separate from DEA Headquarters.

Retrievability:

Access to individual records is gained by reference to either the automated or manual indices. Retrievability is a function of the presence of items in the index and the matching of names in the index with search argument names or identifying numbers in the case of the automated system. Files identified from field office indices are held by the field office of Headquarters. Files identified from the automated index may not be held by the interested office, but the originators of such files are identified. In addition a number of telecommunication terminals have been added to the existing network, including a terminal installation at the J. Edgor Hoover Building, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Safeguards:

The Investigative Reporting and Filing system is protected by both physical security methods and dissemination and access controls. Fundamental in all cases is that access to investigative information is limited to those persons or agencies with a demonstrated and lawful need to know for the information in order to perform assigned functions.

1. Physical security when investigative files are attended is provided by responsible DEA employees. Physical security when files are unattended is provided by the secure locking of material in approved containers or facilities. The selection of continers or facilities is made in consideration of the sensitivity or National Security Classification, as appropriate, of the files and the extent of security guard and/or surveillance afforded by electronic means.

2. Protection of the automated index is provided by physical procedural and electronic means. The Master file resides on the Department of Justice computer center and is physically attended or guarded on a full-time basis. Access or observation to active telecommunications terminals is limited to those with a demonstrated need to know for retrieval information. Surreptitious access to an unattended terminal is precluded by a complex sign-on procedure. The procedure is provided only to persons designated and authorized by DEA. For certain terminals, access is further restricted by cryptological equipment.

3. An automated log of queries is maintained for each terminal. Improper procedure results in no access. Terminals are signed-off after use. The terminals are otherwise located in locked facilities after normal working hours.

4. The dessemination of investigative information on an individual outside the Department of Justice is made in accordance with the routine uses as described herein or otherwise in accordance with the conditions of disclosure prescribed by the Act. The need to know of the recipient is determined in both cases by persons designated and authorized by DEA as a prerequisite of the release.

Retention and disposal:

Records contained within this system are retained for twenty-five (25) years.

Assistant Administrator, Operations Division, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 I Street NW., Washington D.C. 20537.

JUSTICE/DEA-INS-111

Automated Intelligence Records System (Pathfinder).

U.S. Department of Justice, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20537 and El Paso Intelligence Center (EPIC), El Paso, Texas 79902.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

(1) Those individuals who are known, suspected, or alleged to be involved in (a) narcotic trafficking, (b) narcotic-arms trafficking, (c) alien smuggling or transporting, (d) illegally procuring, using, selling, counterfeiting, reproducing, or altering identification documents relating to status under the immigration and nationality laws, (e) terrorist activities (narcotic, arms or alien trafficking/smuggling related), (f) crewman desertions and stowaways, (g) arranging or contracting a marriage to defraud the immigration laws; and (h) facilitating the transportation of narcotics proceeds; (2) In addition to the categories of individuals listed above, those individuals who (a) have had citizenship or alien identification documents put to fraudulent use or have reported them as lost or stolen, (b) arrive in the United States from a foreign territory by private aircraft, and (c) are informants or witnesses (including non-implicated persons) who have pertinent knowledge of some circumstances or aspect of a case or suspect may be the subject of a file within this system; and (3) In the course of criminal investigation and intelligence gathering, DEA and INS may detect violation of non-drug or non-alien related laws. In the interests of effective law enforcement, this information is retained in order to establish patterns of criminal activity and to assist other law enforcement agencies that are charged with enforcing other segments of criminal law. Therefore, under certain limited circumstances, individuals known, suspected, or alleged to be involved in non-narcotic or non-alien criminal activity may be the subject of a file maintained within this system.

Categories of records in the system:

In general, this system contains computerized and manual intelligence information gathered from DEA and INS investigative records and reports. Specifically, intelligence information is gathered and collated from the following DEA and INS records and reports: (1) DEA Reports of Investigation (DEA-6), (2) DEA and INS Intelligence Reports, (3) INS Air Detail Office Index (I-92A), (4) INS Anti-Smuggling Indices (G-70), (5) INS Marine Intelligence Index, (6) INS Fraudulent Document Center Index, (7) INS Terrorist Index, (8) INS Reports of Investigation and Apprehension (I-44, I-213, G-166) and (9) U.S. Coast Guard Vessel 408 file. In addition, data is obtained from commercially available flight plan information concerning individuals known, suspected or alleged to be involved in criminal smuggling activities using private aircraft.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system has been established in order for DEA and INS to carry out their law enforcement, regulatory, and intelligence functions mandated by the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1236), Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1973, the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, (18 UST 1407), and Sections 103, 265, and 290 and Title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended (8 U.S.C. 1103, 1305, 1360, 1401 et seq.). Additional authority is derived from Treaties, Statutes, Executive Orders and Presidential Proclamations which DEA and INS have been charged with administering.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

This system will be used to produce association and link analysis reports and such special reports as required by intelligence analysts of DEA and INS. The system will also be used to provide "real-time" responses to queries from Federal, state, and local agencies charged with border law enforcement responsibilities.

Information from this system will be provided to the following categories of users for law enforcement and intelligence purposes provided a legitimate and lawful "need to know" is demonstrated: (a) Other Federal law enforcement agencies, (b) state and local law enforcement agencies, (c) foreign law enforcement agencies with whom DEA and INS maintain liaison, (d) U.S. intelligence and military intelligence agencies involved in border criminal law enforcement, (e) clerks and judges of courts exercising appropriate jurisdiction over subject matter maintained within this system, and (f) Department of State; (g) various Federal, State, and local law enforcement committees and working groups including Congress and senior Administration officials; (h) The Department of Defense and military departments; (i) The United Nations; (j) The International Police Organization (Interpol); (k) to individuals and organizations in the course of investigations to elicit information; (l) to the Office of Management and Budget, upon request, in order to justify the allocation of resources; (m) to respondents and their attorneys for purposes of discovery, formal and informal, in the course of an adjudicatory, rulemaking, or other hearing held pursuant to the Controlled Substances Act of 1970; and (n) in the event there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law whether civil, criminal, regulatory, or administrative in nature, the relevant information may be referred to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulations, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the NARA and GSA records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Manual subsets of the Pathfinder Information System are maintained on standard index cards and manual folders. Standard security formats are employed. The records are stored on computer at the DOJ computer center, Washington, D.C.

Retrievability:

Access to individual records can be accomplished by reference to either the manual indices or the automated information system. Access is achieved by reference to personal identifiers, other data elements or any combination thereof.

Safeguards:

The Pathfinder System of Records is protected by both physical security methods and dissemination and access controls. Fundamental in all cases is that access to intelligence information is limited to those persons or agencies with a demonstrated and lawful need to know for the information in order to perform assigned functions.

Physical security when intelligence files are attended is provided by responsible DEA and INS employees. Physical security when files are unattended is provided by the secure locking of material in approved containers or facilities. The selection of containers or facilities is made in consideration of the sensitivity or National Security Classification as appropriate, of the files, and the extent of security guard and/or surveillance afforded by electronic means.

Protection of the automated information system is provided by physical, procedural, and electronic means. The master file resides in the DEA Office of Intelligence Secured Computer System and is physically attended or safe-guarded on a full time basis. Access or observation to active telecommunications terminals is limited to those with a demonstrated need to know for retrieval information. Surreptitious access to an unattended terminal is precluded by a complex authentication procedure. The procedure is provided only to authorized DEA and INS employees. Transmission from DEA Headquarters to El Paso, Texas is accomplished via a dedicated secured line.

An automated log of queries is maintained for each terminal. Improper procedure results in no access and under certain conditions completely locks out the terminal pending restoration by the master controller at DEA Headquarters after appropriate verification. Unattended terminals are otherwise located in locked facilities after normal working hours.

The dissemination of intelligence information to an individual outside the Department of Justice is made in accordance with the routine uses as described herein and otherwise in accordance with conditions of disclosure prescribed in the Privacy Act. The need to know is determined in both cases by DEA and INS as a prerequisite to the release of information.

Records maintained within this system are retained for fifty-five (55) years.

Deputy Assistant Administrator, Office of Intelligence, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20537 and Associate Commissioner, Enforcement, Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 Eye Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20536.

Notification procedure:

Inquiries should be addressed to Freedom of Information Section, Drug Enforcement Administration, 1405 Eye Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20537.

Record access procedures:

Same as notification procedure.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as notification procedure.

Record source categories:

Commercially available flight plan information source; Confidential informants; DEA intelligence and investigative records/reports; INS investigative, intelligence and statutory mandated records/reports; records and reports of other Federal, state and local agencies; and reports and records of foreign agencies with whom DEA maintains liaison.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e)(1), (2), and (3), (e)(4)(g), (H) and (I), (e)(5) and (8), (f), (g), and (h) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE FOR IMMIGRATION REVIEW

JUSTICE/EOIR-001

Records and Management Information System (JUSTICE/EOIR-001).

System location:

Executive Office for Immigration Review, Department of Justice, 5205 Leesburg Pike, Suite 800, Falls Church, Virginia 22041. The system is also located in EOIR field offices (see appendix identified as JUSTICE/EOIR-999)

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

This system contains case-related information pertaining to aliens and alleged aliens brought into the immigration hearing process, including certain aliens previously or subsequently admitted for lawful permanent residence.

Categories of records in the system:

This system includes the name, file number, address and nationality of aliens and alleged aliens, decision memoranda, investigatory reports and materials compiled for the purpose of enforcing immigration laws, exhibits, transcripts, and other case-related papers concerning aliens, alleged aliens or lawful permanent residents brought into the administrative adjudication process.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

This system is established and maintained under the authority granted the Attorney General, pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 3101 and 3103 and to fulfill the legislative mandate under 8 U.S.C. 1103, 1226 and 1252. Such authority has been delegated to EOIR by 8 CFR Part 3.

Purpose(s):

Information in this system serves as the official record of immigration proceedings. EOIR employees use the information to prepare, process and track the proceedings. The information is further used to generate statistical reports and various documents, i.e., hearing calendars and administrative orders.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information may be disseminated to the Department of State; Federal courts; Members of Congress; the alien or alleged alien's representative or attorney of record; and, to Federal, State and local agencies. Information is disseminated to the Department of State, pursuant to 8 CFR 208.10(b), to allow its preparation of advisory opinions regarding applications for political asylum; to the Federal courts to enable their review of EOIR administrative decisions on appeal; to Members of Congress to respond to constituent inquiries; and, to the representative or attorney of record to ensure fair representation. Finally, in any claim in which there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, information, including investigatory information, may be disseminated to the appropriate Federal, State or local agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or with enforcing or implementing such law.

Release of information to the news media and the public: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular matter would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in the system, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from the system of records may be disclosed to NARA and GSA for records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained in file folders which are stored in file cabinets. A subset of the records is maintained on fixed disks or removable disk packs which are stored in flie cabinets. All records are stored in secured EOIR office space.

Retrievability:

Manual records are indexed by alien file number. Automated records are retrievable by a variety of indentifying data elements including, but not limited to, alien file number, alien name and nationality.

Safeguards:

Information maintained in the system is safeguarded in accordance with Department of Justice rules and procedures. Record files are maintained in file cabinets accessible only to EOIR employees. Automated information is stored on either fixed disks or removable disk packs which are stored in cabinets. Only EOIR empoyees in possession of specific access codes and passwords will be able to access automated information. All manual and automated records and mediums are located in EOIR office space accessible only to EOIR employees and locked during off-duty hours.

Retention and disposal:

Record files are retained for six months after the final disposition of the case, then forwarded to regional Federal Records Centers. Automated records are maintained in EOIR field office data bases for ninety days after final disposition, then transferred to the host computer at EOIR headquarters and retained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Counsel to the Director Executive Office of Immigration Review, Office of the Chief Immigration Judge, U.S. Department of Justice, 5203 Leesburg Pike, Suite 1609, Falls Church, Virginia 22041.

Notification procedure:

Address all inquiries to the system manager listed above.

Record access procedures:

Portions of this system are exempt from disclosure and contest by 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2). Make all request for access to those portions not so exempted by writing to the system manager identified above. Clearly mark the envelop and letter "Privacy Access Requests"; provide the full name and notarized signature to the individual who is the subject of the record, his/her date and place of birth, or any other identifying number or information which may assist in locating the record; and, a return address.

Contesting record procedures:

Direct all requests to contest or amend information maintained to the system manager listed above. State clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information.

Record source categories:

Department of Justice offices and employees, primarily those of the Immigration and Naturalization Service; the Department of State and other Federal, State and local agencies; and the parties to immigration proceedings and their witnesses.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted certain records of this system from the access provisions of the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a(d)) pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(1) and (k)(2). Rules have promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

B. Stolen License Plate File: 1. Stolen or missing license plate.

C. Stolen/Missing Gun File: 1. Stolen or missing guns. 2. Recovered guns, when ownership of which has not been established.

D. Stolen Article File

E. Wanted Persons File: Described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM: A. Wanted Persons."

F. Securities File: 1. Serially numbered stolen, embezzled, counterfeited, missing securities.

2. "Securities" for present purposes of this file are currency (e.g., bills, bank notes) and those documents or certificates which generally are considered to be evidence or debt (e.g., bonds, debentures, notes) or ownership of property (e.g., common stock, preferred stock), and documents which represent subscription rights, warrants) and which are of those types trades in the securities exchanges in the United States, except for commodities futures. Also included are warehouse receipts, travelers checks and money orders.

G. Stolen Boat File

H. Computerized Criminal History File: A cooperative federal-State program for the interstate exchange of criminal history record information for the purpsoe of facilitating the interstate exchange of such information among criminal justice agencies.

I. Missing Person File: Described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM: C. Missing Persons."

J. U.S. Secret Service Protective File: Described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM: D."

K. Identification records regarding persons enrolled in the United States Marshals Service Witness Security Program who have been charged with serious and/or significant offenses: Described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM; B."

L. Foreign Fugitive File: Identification data regarding persons who are fugitives from foreign countries, who are described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY the SYSTEM: A. Wanted Persons, 5."

M. Canadian Warrant File: Identification data regarding Canadian wanted persons who are described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY the SYSTEM: A. Wanted Persons, 6."

N. Unidentified Person File: Described in "CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM: E. Unidentified Persons."

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The system is established and maintained in accordance with 28 U.S.C. 534; Department of Justice Appropriation Act, 1973, Pub. L. 92-544, 86 Stat. 1115, Securities Acts Amendment of 1975 Pub. L. 94-29, 89 Stat. 97; and Exec. Order No. 10450, 3 CFR (1974).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Data in NCIC files is exchanged with and for the official use of authorized officials of the Federal Governemnt, the States, cities, penal and other institutions, and certain foreign governments. The data is exchanged through NCIC lines to Federal criminal justice agencies, criminal justice agencies in the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, U.S. Possessions and U.S. Territories. Additionally, data contained in the various "want files," i.e., the stolen vehicle file, stolen license plate file, stolen missing gun file, stolen article file, wanted person file, securities file and boat file may be accessed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Criminal history data is disseminated to non-criminal justice agencies for use in connection with licensing for local/state employment or other uses, but only where such dissemination is authorized by Federal or state statutes and approved by the Attorney General of the United States.

Data in NCIC files, other than the Computerized Criminal History File, is disseminated to (1) a nongovernmental agency or subunit thereof which allocates a substantial part of its annual budget to the administration of criminal justice, whose regularly employed peace officers have full police powers pursuant to state law and have complied with the minimum employment standards of governmentally employed police officers as specified by state statute; (2) a noncriminal justice governmental department of motor vehicle or driver's license registry established by a statute, which provides vehicles registration and driver record information to criminal justice agencies; (3) a governmental regional dispatch center, established by a state statute, resolution, ordinance or Executive order, which provides communications services to criminal justice agencies; and (4) the national Automobile Theft Bureau, a nongovernmental nonprofit agency which acts as a national clearinghouse for information on stolen vehicles and offers free assistance to law enforcement agencies concerning automobile thefts, identification and recovery of stolen vehicles.

Disclosures of information from this system, as described above, are for the purpose of providing information to authorized agencies to facilitate the apprehension of fugitives, the location of missing persons, the location and/or return of stolen property, or similar criminal justice objectives.

Information on missing children, missing adults who were reported missing while children, and unidentified living and deceased persons may be disclosed to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC). The NCMEC is a nongovernmental, nonprofit, federally funded corporation, serving as a national resource and technical assistance clearinghouse focusing on missing and exploited children. Information is disclosed to NCMEC to assist it in its efforts to provide technical assistance and education to parents and local governments regarding the problems of missing and exploited children, and to operate a nationwide missing children hotline to permit members of the public to telephone the Center from anywhere in the United States with information about a missing child.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2, may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise requested to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf whom the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of Information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and to the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information maintained in the NCIC system is stored electronically for use in a computer environment.

Retrievability:

On-line access to data in NCIC is achieved by using the following search descriptors 1. Vehicle file:

(a) Vehicle identification number:

(b) License plate number:

(c) NCIC number (unique number assigned by the NCIC computer to each NCIC record). 2. License Plate file: (a) License plate number: (b) NCIC number. 3. Gun file: (a) Serial number of gun: (b) NCIC number. 4. Article File: (a) Serial number of article: (b) NCIC number. 5. Wanted Person File U.S. Secret Service Protective File, Foreign Fugitive File, and Canadian Warrant File: (a) Name and one of the following numerical identifiers, date of birth, FBI Number (number assigned by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to an arrest fingerprint record). Social Security number (It is noted the requirements of the Privacy Act with regard to the solicitation of Social Security numbers have been brought to the attention of the members of the NCIC system). Operator's license number (drivers number). Miscellaneous identifying number (military number or number assigned by Federal, state, or local authorities to an individual's record). Origination agency case number. (b) Vehicle or license plate known to be in the possession of the wanted person. (c) NCIC number (unique number assigned to each NCIC record). 6. Securities File: (a) Type, serial number, denomination of security; (b) Type of security and name of owner of security; (c) Social Security number of owner of security; (d) NCIC number. 7. Boat File: (a) Registration document number; (b) Hull serial number: (c) NCIC number. 8. Computerized Criminal History File: (a) Name, sex, race and date of birth: (b) FBI number: (c) State identification number; (d) Social Security number; (e) Miscellaneous number. 9. Missing Person File: Same as "Wanted Person" File, plus the age, sex, race, height and weight, eye and hair color, of the missing individual. 10. Unidentified Person File: Age, sex, race, height and weight, eye and hair color, of the unidentified individual.

Safeguards:

Data stored in the NCIC is documented criminal justice agency information and access to that data is restricted to duly authorized criminal justice agencies. The following security measures are the minimum to be adopted by all criminal justice agencies having access to the NCIC.

Computerized Criminal History File. These measures are designed to prevent unauthorized access to the system data and/or unauthorized use of data obtained from the computerized file.

1. Computer Center: a. The criminal justice agency computer site must have adequate physical security to protect against any unauthorized personnel gaining access to the computer equipment or to any of the stored data. b. Since personnel at these computer centers can have access data stored in the system, they must be screened thoroughly under the authority and supervision of an NCIC control terminal agency. (This authority and supervision may be delegated to responsible criminal justice agency personnel in the case of a satellite computer center being serviced through a stated control terminal agency.) This screening will also apply to non-criminal justice maintenance or technical personnel. c. All visitors to these computer centers must be accompanied by staff personnel at all times. d. Computers having access to the NCIC must have the proper computer instructions written and other built-in controls to prevent criminal history data from being accessible to any terminals other than authorized terminals. e. Computers having access to the NCIC must maintain a record of all transactions against the criminal history filed in the same manner the NCIC computer logs all transactions. The NCIC identifies each specific agency entering or receiving information and maintains a record of those transactions. This transaction record must be monitored and reviewed on a regular basis to detect any possible misuse of criminal history data. f. Each State Control terminal shall build its data system around a central computer, through which each inquiry must pass for screening and verification. The configuration and operation of the center shall provide for the integrity of the data base.

2. Communications: a. Lines/channels being used to transmit criminal history information must be dedicated solely to criminal justice, i.e., there must be no terminals belonging to agencies outside the criminal justice system sharing these lines/channels. b. Physical security of the lines/channels must be protected to guard against clandestine devices being utilized to intercept of inject system traffic.

3. Terminal Devices Having Access to NCIC: a. All agencies having terminals on the system must be required to physically place these terminals in secure locations within the authorized agency. b. The agencies having terminals with access to criminal history must have terminal operators screened and restricted access to the terminal to a minimum number of authorized employees. c. Copies of criminal history data obtained from terminal devices must be afforded security to prevent any unauthorized access to or use of the data. d. All remote terminals on NCIC Computerized Criminal History will maintain a hard copy of computerized criminal history inquiries with notations of individual making request for record (90 days).

Unless otherwise removed, records will be retained in files as follows:

1. Vehicle File: a. Unrecovered stolen vehicle records (including snowmobile records) which do not contain vehicle identification numbers (VIN) therein, will be purged from file 90 days after date of entry. Unrecovered stolen vehicle records (including snowmobile records) which contain VIN's will remain in file for the year of entry plus 4. Unrecovered vehicles wanted in conjunction with a felony will remain in file for 90 days after entry. In the event a longer retention period is desired, the vehicle must be reentered. c. Unrecovered stolen VIN plates, certificates or origin or title, and serially numbered stolen vehicles engines or transmissions will remain in file for the year of entry plus 4.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 h.(1))

2. License Plate File: Unrecovered stolen license plates not associated with a vehicle will remain in file for one year after the end of the plate's expiration year as shown in the record.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 h.(2))

3. Gun file: a. Unrecovered weapons will be retained in file for an indefinite period until action is taken by the originating agency to clear the record. b. Weapons entered in file as "recovered" weapons will remain in file for the balance of the year entered plus 2.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 h.(3))

4. Article File: Unrecovered stolen articles will be retained for the balance of the year entered plus one year.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 h.(4))

5. Wanted Person File: Person not located will remain in file indefinitely until action is taken by the originating agency to clear the record (except "Temporary Felony Wants", which will be automatically removed from the file after 48 hours).

(Job No. NC1-65-87-114, Part E. 13 h.(7))

6. Securities File: Unrecovered, stolen, embezzled, counterfeited or missing securities will be retained for the balance of the year entered plus 4, except for travelers checks and money orders, which will be retained for the balance of the year entered plus 2.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13h. (5))

7. Boat File: Unrecovered stolen boats will be retained in file for the balance of the year entered plus 4. Unrecovered stolen boat records which do not contain a hull serial number will be purged from file 90 days after date of entry.

(Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13h. (6))

8. Missing Persons File: Will remain in the file until the individual is located or, in the case of unemancipated persons, the individual reaches the age of emancipation as defined by law of his state.

(Job No. N 1-65-87-11, Part E. 13h. (8))

9. Computerized Criminal History File: When an individual reaches age of 80.

(Job No. NC1-65-76-1)

10. U.S. Secret Service Protective File: Will be retained until names are removed by the U.S. Secret Service.

11. Foreign Fugitive File: Person not located will remain in file indefinitely until action is taken by the originating agency to clear the record.

12. Canadian Warrant File: Person and located will remain in file indefinitely until action is taken by the originating agency to clear the record.

13. Unidentified Person File: Will be retained for the remainder of the year of entry plus 9.

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover F.B.I. Building, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure:

Same as the above.

Record access procedures:

It is noted the Attorney General is exempting this system from the access and contest procedures of the Privacy Act. However, the following alternative procedures are available to requester. The procedures by which an individual may obtain a copy of his computerized Criminal History are as follows:

If an individual has a criminal record supported by fingerprints and that record has been entered in the NCIC CCH File, it is available to that individual for review, upon presentation of appropriate identification and in accordance with applicable State and Federal administrative and statutory regulations.

Appropriate identification includes being fingerprinted for the purpose of insuring that he is the individual that he purports to be. The record on file will then be verified as his through comparison of fingerprints.

Procedure 1. All requests for review must be made by the subject of his record through a law enforcement agency which has access to the NCIC CCH File. That agency within statutory or regulatory limits can require additional identification to assist in securing a positive identification.

2. If the cooperative law enforcement agency can make an identification with fingerprints previously taken which are on file locally and if the FBI identification number of the individuals's record is available to that agency, it can make an on-line inquiry of NCIC to obtain his record on-line or, if it does not have suitable equipment to obtain an on-line response, obtain the record from Washington, D.C. by mail. The individual will then be afforded the opportunity to see that record.

3. Should the cooperating law enforcement agency not have the individual's fingerprints on file locally, it is necessary for that agency to relate his prints to an existing record by having his identification prints compared with those already on file in the FBI or possibly, in the State's central identification agency.

Contesting record procedures:

The subject of the requested record shall request the appropriate arresting agency, court, or correctional agency to initiate action necessary to correct any stated inaccuracy in his record or provide the information needed to make the record complete.

Record source categories:

Information contained in the NCIC system is obtained from local, State, Federal and international criminal justice agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsection (c)(3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G), (H), (e)(8) (f) and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(3). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

JUSTICE/FBI-002

The FBI Central Records System.

System location:

a. Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover FBI Building, 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20535; b. 57 field divisions (see Appendix); c. 16 Legal Attachés (see Appendix).

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

a. Individuals who relate in any manner to official FBI investigations including, but not limited to subjects, suspects, victims, witnesses, and close relatives and associates who are relevant to an investigation.

b. Applicants for and current and former personnel of the FBI and persons related thereto who are considered relevant to an applicant investigation, personnel inquiry, or other personnel matters.

c. Applicants for and appointees to sensitive positions in the United States Government and persons related thereto who are considered relevant to the investigation.

d. Individuals who are the subject of unsolicited information, who offer unsolicited information, request assistance, and make inquiries concerning record material, including general correspondence, and contacts with other agencies, businesses, institutions, clubs; the public and the news media.

e. Individuals associated with administrative operations or services including pertinent functions, contractors and pertinent persons related thereto.

(All manner of information concerning individuals may be acquired in connection with and relating to the varied investigative responsibilities of the FBI which are further described in "CATEGORIES OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM." Depending on the nature and scope of the investigation this information may include, among other things, personal habits and conduct, financial information, travel and organizational affiliation of individuals. The information collected is made a matter of record and placed in FBI files.)

Categories of records in the system:

The FBI Central Records Systems—The FBI utilizes a central records system of maintaining its investigative, personnel, applicant, administrative, and general files. This system consists of one numerical sequence of subject matter files, an alphabetical index to the files, and a supporting abstract system to facilitate processing and accountability of all important mail placed in files. This abstract system is both a textual and an automated capability for locating mail. Files kept in FBI field offices are also structured in the same manner, except they do not utilize an abstract system.

The FBI has 266 classifications used in its basic filing system which pertain primarily to Federal violations over which the FBI has investigative jurisdiction. However, included in the 266 classifications are personnel, applicant, and administrative matters to facilitate the overall filing scheme. These classifications are as follows (the word "obsolete" following the name of the classification indicates the FBI is no longer initiating investigative cases in these matters, although the material is retained for reference purposes):

1. Training Schools; National Academy Matters; FBI National Academy Applicants. Covers general information concerning the FBI National Academy, including background investigations of individual candidates.

2. Neutrality Matters. Title 18, United States Code, Sections 956 and 958-962; Title 22, United States Code, Sections 1934 and 401.

3. Overthrow or Destruction of the Government. Title 18, United States Code, Section 2385.

Records Maintained in FBI Field Divisions—FBI field divisions maintain for limited periods of time investigative, administrative and correspondence records, including files, index cards and related material, some of which are duplicated copies of reports and similar documents forwarded to FBI Headquarters. Most investigative activities conducted by FBI field divisions are reported to FBI Headquarters at one or more stages of the investigation. There are, however, investigative activities wherein no reporting was made to FBI Headquarters, e.g., pending cases not as yet reported and cases which were closed in the field division for any of a number of reasons without reporting to FBI Headquarters.

Duplicate records and records which extract information reported in the main files are also kept in the various divisions of the FBI to assist them in their day-to-day operation. These records are lists of individuals which contain certain biographic data, including physical description and photograph. They may also contain information concerning activities of the individual as reported to FBIHQ by the various field offices. The establishment of these listes is necessitated by the needs of the Division to have immediate access of pertinent information duplicative of data found in the central records without the delay caused by a time-consuming manual search of central indices. The manner of segregating these individuals varies depending on the particular needs of the FBI Division. The information pertaining to individuals who are a part of the list is derivative of information contained in the Central Records System. These duplicative records fall into the following categories:

(1) Listings of individuals used to assist in the location and apprehension of individuals for whom legal process is outstanding (fugitives):

(2) Listings of individuals used in the identification of particular offenders in cases where the FBI has jurisdiction. These listings include various photograph albums and background data concerning persons who have been formerly charged with a particular crime and who may be suspect in similar criminal activities; and photographs of individuals who are unknown but suspected of involvement in a particular criminal activity, for example, bank surveillance photographs:

(3) Listings of individuals as part of an overall criminal intelligence effort by the FBI. This would include photograph albums, lists of individuals known to be involved in criminal activity, including theft from interstate shipment, interstate transportation of stolen property, and individuals in the upper echelon of organized crime.

(4) Listings of individuals in connection with the FBI's mandate to carry out Presidential directives on January 8, 1943, July 24, 1950. December 15, 1953, and February 18, 1976, which designated the FBI to carry out investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, and foreign counterintelligence. These listings may include photograph albums and other listings containing biographic data regarding individuals. This would include lists of identified and suspected foreign intelligence agents and informants:

(5) Special indices duplicative of the central indices used to access the Central Records System have been created from time to time in conjunction with the administration and investigation of major cases. This duplication and segregation facilitates access to documents prepared in connection with major cases.

In recent years, as the emphasis on the investigation of white collar crime, organized crime, and hostile foreign intelligence operations has increased, the FBI has been confronted with increasingly complicated cases, which require more intricate information processing capabilities. Since these complicated investigations frequently involve massive volumes of evidence and other investigative information, the FBI uses its computers, when necessary to collage, analyze, and retrieve investigative information in the most accurate and expeditious manner possible. It should be noted that all investigative information, which is placed in computerized form, is actually extracted from the main files and that the duplicative computerized information is only maintained as necessary to support the FBI's investigative activities. Information from these internal computerized subsystems of the "Central Records System" is not accessed by any other agency. All disclosures of computerized information are made in printed form in accordance with the routine uses which are set forth below.

Records also are maintained on a temporary basis relevant to the FBI's domestic police cooperating program, where assistance in obtaining information is provided to state and local police agencies.

Also, personnel type information, dealing with such matters as attendance and production and accuracy requirements is maintained by some divisions.

(The following chart identifies various listings or indexes maintained by the FBI which have been or are being used by various divisions of the FBI in their day-to-day operations. The chart identifies the list by name, description and use, and where maintained, i.e. FBI Headquarters and/or Field Office. The number in parentheses in the field office column indicates the number of field offices which maintain these indices. The chart indicates, under "status of index," those indexes which are in current use (designated by the word "active") and those which are no longer being used, although maintained (designated by the word "inactive"). There are 27 separate indices which are classified in accordance with existing regulations and are not included in this chart. The following indices are no longer being used by the FBI and are being maintained at FBIHQ pending receipt of authority to destroy: Black Panther Party Photo Index; Black United Front Index; Security Index; and Wounded Knee Album.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Federal Records Act of 1950, title 44, United States Code, chapter 31, section 3101; and title 36, Code of Federal Regulations, chapter XII, require Federal agencies to insure that adequate and proper records are made and preserved to document the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures and transactions and to protect the legal and financial rights of the Federal Government, title 28, United States Code, section 534, delegates authority to the Attorney General to acquire, collect, classify, and preserve identification, criminal identification, crime and other records.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Records, both investigative and administrative, are maintained in this system in order to permit the FBI to function efficiently as an authority, responsive component of the Department of Justice. Therefore, information in this system is disclosed to officials and employees of the Department of Justice, and/or all components thereof, who have need of the information in the performance of their official duties.

Personal information from this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any Federal agency where the purpose in making the disclosure is compatible with the law enforcement purpose for which it was collected, e.g., to assist the recipient agency in conducting a lawful criminal or intelligence investigation, to assist the recipient agency in making a determination concerning an individual's suitability for employment and/or trustworthiness for employment and/or trustworthiness for access clearance purposes, or to assist the recipient agency in the performance of any authorized function where access to records in this system is declared by the recipient agency to be relevant to that function.

In addition, personal information may be disclosed from this system to members of the Judicial Branch of the Federal Government in response to a specific request, or at the initiation of the FBI, where disclosure appears relevant to the authorized function of the recipient judicial office or court system. An example would be where an individual is being considered for employment by a Federal judge.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any state or local government agency directly engaged in the criminal justice process, e.g., police, prosecution, penal, probation and parole, and the judiciary, where access is directly related to a law enforcenemt function of the recipient agency e.g. in connection with a lawful criminal or intelligence investigation, or making a determination concerning an individual's suitability for employment as a state or local law enforcement employee or concerning a victim's compensation under a state statute. Disclosure to a state or local government agency, (a) not directly engaged in the criminal justice process or (b) for a licensing or regulatory function, is considered on an individual basis only under exceptional circumstances, as determined by the FBI.

Information in this system pertaining to the use, abuse or traffic of controlled substances may be disclosed as a routine use to federal, state or local law enforcement agencies and to licensing or regulatory agencies empowered to engage in the institution and prosecution of cases before courts and licensing boards in matters relating to controlled substances, including courts and licensing boards reponsible for the licensing or certification of individuals in the fields of pharmacy and medicine.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body, e.g., the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Merit Systems Protection Board, before which the FBI is authorized to appear, when (a) the FBI or any employee thereof in his or her official capacity, or (b) any employee in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee, or (c) the United States, where the FBI determines it is likely to be affeced by the litigation, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by the FBI to be relevant to the litigation.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to an organization or individual in both the public or private sector if deemed necessary to elicit information or cooperation from the recipient for use by the FBI in the performance of an authorized activity. An example would be where the activities of an individual are disclosed to a member of the public in order to elicit his/her assistance in our apprehension or detection efforts.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to an organization or individual in both the public or private sector where there is reason to believe the recipient is or could become the target of a particular criminal activity or conspiracy, to the extent the information is relevant to the protection of life or property.

Information in this system may be disclosed to legitimate agency of a foreign government where the FBI determines that the information is relevant to that agency's responsibilities, and dissemination serves the best interests of the U.S. Government, and where the purpose in making the disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the information was collected.

Relevant information may be disclosed from this system to the news media and general public where there exists a legitimate public interest, e.g., to assist in the location of Federal fugitives, to provide notification of arrests, and where necessary for protection from imminent threat of life or property. This would include releases of information in accordance with 28 CFR 50.2

A record relating to an actual or potential civil or criminal violation of the copyright statute, Title 17, United States Code, or the trademark statutes. Titles 15 and 17, U.S. Code, may be disseminated to a person injured by such violation to assist him/her in the institution or maintenance of a suit brought under such titles.

The FBI has received inquiries from private citizens and Congressional offices on behalf of constituents seeking assistance in locating individuals such as missing children and heirs to estates. Where the need is acute, and where it appears FBI files may be the only lead in locating the individual, consideration will be given to furnishing relevant information to the requester. Information will be provided only in those instances where there are reasonable grounds to conclude from available information the individual being sought would want the information to be furnished, e.g., an heir to a large estate. Information with regard to missing children will not be provided where they have reached their majority.

Release of Information to Members of Congress:

Information contained in this system, the release of which is required by the Freedom of Information-Privacy Acts, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member of staff requests the information in behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of Information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA):

A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906, to the extend that legislation governing the records permits.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The active main files are maintained in hard copy form and some inactive records are maintained on microfilm. Investigative information which is maintained in computerized form may be stored in memory, on disk storage, on computer tape, or on a computer printed listing.

Retrievability:

The FBI General Index must be searched to determine what information, if any, the FBI may have in its files. Index records, or pointers to specific FBI files, are created on all manner of subject matters, but the predominant type record is the name index record. It should be noted the FBI does not index all individuals who furnish information or all names developed during the course of an investigation. Only that information considered pertinent, relevant, or essential for future retrieval, is indexed. In certain major cases, individuals interviewed may be indexed to facilitate the administration of the investigation. The FBI has automated that portion of its index containing the most recent information—15 years for criminal related matters and 30 years for intelligence and other type matters. Automation will not change the "Central Records System"; it will only facilitate more economic and expeditious access to the main files. Searches against the automated records are accomplished on a "batch off-line" basis for certain submitting agencies where the name search requests conform to FBI specified formats and also in an "on-line" mode with the use of video display terminals for other requests. The FBI will not permit any organization, public or private, outside the FBI to have direct access to the FBI indices system. All searches against the indices data base will be performed on site within FBI space by FBI personnel with the assistance of the automated procedures, where feasible. Automation of the various FBI field office indices has been under way for approximately five years; completion is anticipated during FY 1988. This automation initiative has been on a "day-one" basis. This indices system points to specific files within a given field office. Additionally, certain complicated investigative matters may be supported by specialized computer systems or by individual microcomputers. Indices created in these environments are maintained as part of the particular computer system and accessible only through the system or through printed listings of the indices.

The FBI will transfer historical records to the National Archives consistent with 44 U.S.C. 2103. No record of individuals or subject matter will be retained for transferred files; however, a record of the file numbers will be retained to provide full accountability of FBI files and thus preserve the integrity of the filing system.

Safeguards:

Records are maintained in a restricted area and are accessed only by agency personnel. All FBI employees receive a complete background investigation prior to being hired. All employees are cautioned about divulging confidential information or any information contained in FBI files. Failure to abide by this provision violates Department of Justice regulations and may violate certain statutes providing maximum severe penalties of a ten thousand dollar fine or 10 years imprisonment or both. Employees who resign or retire are also cautioned about divulging information acquired in the jobs. Registered mail is used to transmit routine hard copy records between field offices. Highly classified records are hand carried by Special Agents or personnel of the Armed Forces Courier Service. Highly classified or sensitive privacy information, which is elecronically transmitted between field offices, is transmitted in encrypted form to prevent interception and interpretation. Information transmitted in teletype form is placed in the main files of both the receiving and transmitting field offices. Field offices involved in certain complicated investigative matters may be provided with on-line access to the duplicative computerized information which is maintained for them on disk storage in the FBI Computer Center in Washington, D.C., and this computerized data is also transmitted in encrypted form.

Retention and disposal:

As the result of an extensive review of FBI records conducted by NARA, records evaluated as historical and permanent will be transferred to the National Archives after established retention periods and administrative needs of the FBI have elapsed. As deemed necessary, certain records may be subject to restricted examination and usage, as provided by 44 U.S.C. Section 2104.

FBI record disposition programs relevant to this System are conducted in accordance with the FBI Records Retention Plan and Disposition Schedule which was approved by the Archivist of the United States and the U.S. District Court, District of Columbia. Investigative, applicant and administrative records which meet the destruction criteria will be destroyed after 20 or 30 years at FBI Headquarters and after 1, 5, 10 or 20 years in FBI Field Offices. Historical records will be transferred to the National Archives after 30 or 50 years, contingent upon investigative and administrative needs. The administrative indices and listings described within this System were appraised separately and disposition authority established. (Job No. NC1-65-82-4 and amendments)

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation; Washington, DC 20535.

Notification procedure:

Same as above.

Record access procedures:

A request for access to a record from the system shall be made in writing with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request". Include in the request your full name, complete address, date of birth, place of birth, notarized signature, and other identifying data you may wish to furnish to assist in making a proper search of our records. Also include the general subject matter of the document or its file number. The requester will also provide a return address for transmitting the information. Requests for access to information maintained at FBI Headquarters must be addressed to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, DC 20535. Requests for information maintained at FBI field divisions or Legal Attaches must be made separately and addressed to the specific field division or Legal Attache listed in the appendix to this system notice.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should also direct their request to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, DC 20535, stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

The FBI, by the very nature and requirement to investigate violations of law within its investigative jurisdiction and its responsibility for the internal security of the United States, collects information from a wide variety of sources. Basically, it is the result of investigative efforts and information furnished by other Government agencies, law enforcement agencies, and the general public, informants, witnesses, and public source material.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4) (G) and (H), (e)(8) (f), (g), of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e).

Bureau Mailing Lists.

Federal Bureau of Investigation,
J. Edgar Hoover Bldg. 10th and Pennsylvania Ave., NW., Washington, DC 20535, 59 field divisions and 13 Legal Attaches (see Appendix to 002).

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

With regard to lists maintained at FBI Headquarters, individuals who have requested receipt of Bureau material and who meet established criteria (basically law enforcement or closely related areas). With regard to lists maintained in field divisions or Legal attaches, individuals and organizations who may be in position to furnish assistance to the FBI's law enforcement efforts.

Categories of records in the system:

Name, address and business affiliation, if appropriate.

Title 5 U.S. Code Section 301 and Title 44, U.S. Code, Section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

For mailing of FBI material whenever necessary. For example, various fugitive publications are furnished to local law enforcement agencies.

Release of information to the news media. Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the member's behalf when the member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Computerized. In field divisions most mailing lists are maintained on addressograph.

Retrievability:

ID number in computer, alphabetically for addressograph

Safeguards:

Computer records are maintained in limited access space of the Technical Services Division.

Retention and disposal:

Revised on a monthly basis. Field offices revise the lists as necessary and/or on an annual basis. The records are destroyed when administrative needs are satisfied. (Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 i.)

Director, FBI, Washington, D.C. 20535

Director, FBI, Washington, D.C. 20535

Record access procedures:

Inquiry addressed to Director, FBI, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as the above.

Record source categories:

The mailing list information is based either on information supplied by the individual or public source data.

None.

JUSTICE/FBI-004

Routine Correspondence Handled By Preprinted Form.

JUSTICE/FBI-006

Electronic Surveillance (ElSUR) Indices.

System location:

Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover Bldg., 10th and Pennsylvania Ave., NW., Washington, DC 20535. Those field offices which have sought conducted electronic surveillances also maintain an index. See appendix to System 002.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individuals who have been the targets of direct electronic surveillance coverage by the FBI in a court order; those whose communications have been monitored/intercepted by an FBI electronic surveillance installation; those who own, lease, or license premises subjected to electronic surveillance coverage sought by the FBI in a court order.

Categories of records in the system:

The ELSUR Index is comprised of three types of 3 x 5 cards: 1. Principal cards identify, by true name or best known name, all interceptees (targets) indentified in an application filed by the FBI in support of an affidavit seeking a court order to conduct an electronic surveillance; 2. Proprietary Interest cards indentify entities and/or individuals who own, lease, license or otherwise hold a possessory interest in locations subjected to an electronic surveillance sought by the FBI in a court order; and, 3. Overhear cards indentify, by true name or best known name, individuals and/or entities who have been reasonably identified by a first name or initial and a last name as being a party to a communication monitored/intercepted by the FBI.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The ELSUR Index was initiated in October, 1966, at the recommendation of the Department of Justice and relates to electronic surveillances conducted/sought by the FBI since 1/1/60. The authority for the maintenance of these records is Title 5, Section 301, USC, whch grants the Attorney General the authority to issue rules and regulations prescribing how Department of Justice information can be employed. Title 18, USC, Section 3504, also sets forth recordkeeping requirements.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The Elsur Indices are utilized: (1) To respond to judicial inquiries about possible electronic surveillance coverage of witnesses, defendants, or attorneys involved in Federal court proceedings, and (2) To enable the Government to certify whether a person regarding whom court-order authority is being sought for electronic coverage has ever been so covered in the past. The actual users of the indices are always employees of the FBI.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA): Record from a system of records many be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906 to the extent that legislation governing the records permits.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The records are maintained manually on 3 x 5 cards.

Retrievability:

Names/facilities are indexed and filed alphabetically. Telephone numbers and other such serial or identification numbers targeted are indexed and filed numerically. Locations targeted are indexed by address and filed by street name.

Safeguards:

The index is maintained in a restricted access room at all times. The entrance is equipped with a special locking device and alarm system for off-duty hours when the index is not in use.

Retention and disposal:

Until advised to the contrary by the Department, the courts or Congress, these indices will be maintained indefinitely. The indices have been declared permanent by NARA. (Job No. NC1-65-82—4, Part E. 2 t.)

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure:

Same as the above.

Record access procedures:

Inquiry addressed to Director, FBI, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as the above.

Record source categories:

Category of Individual.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4), (d), (e) (1), (2) and (3), (e)(4)(G), and (H), (e) (5) and (8), (f), (g) and (m) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

FBI Automated Payroll System.

Federal Bureau of Investigation: J. Edgar Hoover Bldg.; 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

(A) Current employees of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), (B) Resigned employees of the FBI are retained in the automated file for the current year for the purpose of clearing all pay actions and providing for any retroactive actions that might be legislated.

Categories of records in the system:

System contains full record for each employee reflecting all elements relative to payroll status, plus accounting records and authorization records through which payrolls are issued and by which payrolls are issued and by which payrolls are audited. For example, this system contains the employees' Social Security Number, time and attendance data, and place assignment.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

System is established and maintained in accordance with Federal pay requirements, and all legislative enactments, Office of Personnel Management regulations, General Accounting Office rulings and decisions. Treasury Department regulations, and Office of Management requirements, and Office of Management and Budget regulations relative thereto, Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 301 and Title 44, U.S. Code, Section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Biweekly issuance of payroll and related matters. Quarterly issuance of State Tax Report and Federal Insurance Contributions Act Report. Resign and End-of-Year Federal Tax Records (W-2's). Biweekly, quarterly, fiscal and annual Budget and Accounting Reports. Appropriate information is made available to the Internal Revenue Service and state and city tax bureaus.

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information maintained in the system is stored electronically on magnetic tapes and disks for use in a computer environment.

Retrievability:

Information is retrieved by Social Security Number. (The authority to solicit an employee's Social Security Number is based on Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 31.6011(b)-2(b).)

Safeguards:

Information contained in the system is relative to the individual employee's payroll status and is considered confidential to that employee and to official business conducted for that employee's pay and accounting purposes. It is safeguarded and protected in accordance with the FBI's Computer Center's regulations that permit access and use by only authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Master payroll and accounting records are stored electronically and retained for a period of three years. Federal tax files are retained for four years. Auxiliary files pertinent to main payroll functions are retained for periods varying from three pay periods to three years, depending on support files needed for any retroactive or audit purposes. (GRS No. 2; GSA Reg. 3; GSA Bulletin FPMR B-47, "Archives and Records"; and Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13 c. (1))

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Ninth and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure:

Same as the above.

Record access procedures:

A request of access to information may be made by an employee through his supervisor or by a former employee by writing to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20535, Attention Payroll Office.

Contesting record procedures:

Contest of any information shoud be set out in detail and a check of all supportive records will be made to determine the factual data in existence, which is predetermined by source documents and accounting procedures governing pay matters.

Record source categories:

Source of information is derived from personnel actions, employee authorizations, and time records which are issued and recorded in accordance with regulations governing Federal pay.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

None.

JUSTICE/FBI-008

Personnel Information Network System (PINS).

Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover Building, 10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20535.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Federal Bureau of Investigation employees and former employees.

Categories of records in the system:

The system contains personnel information which includes information set forth on (1) Standard Form 50—Notification of Personnel Action, (2) SF 176-T-Federal Employee Group Life Insurance Plan, (3) FBI form 12-60 in lieu of SF 1126—Notification of Pay Change, (4) SF 2801 and CSC 1084—Application for and additional information in support of retirement, respectively, (5) SF 2809—Federal Employment Health Benefit Plan and (6) various intra-agency forms and memoranda.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The system is established and maintained pursuant to regulations set forth in the Federal Personnel Manual. Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 301 and Title 44, U.S.Code, Section 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The PINS is used (1) to prepare the Notification of Personnel Action, copies of which are furnished to the Office of Personnel Management, (2) to prepare Standard From 52B—Request for Personnel Action, (3) to generate lists of employees which are used internally by authorized personnel for record keeping, planning, and decision making purposes, and (4) as a source for the dissemination of information (A) to federal, state and local agencies and to private organizations pursuant to service record inquiries and (B) pursuant to credit inquiries. In response to proper credit inquiries from credit bureaus and financial institutions, the FBI will verify employment and furnish salary and length of service).

Release of information to the news media: Information permitted to be released to the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 may be made available from systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Release of information to Members of Congress. Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives the Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information maintained in PINS is stored by disc and magnetic tape.

Retrievability:

Information is retrieved (1) on-line through intelligent workstations and terminals by keying the name or Social Security Number of the employee and (2) off-line through data base retrievals. (It is noted the authority to solicit an employee's Social Security Number is based on Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 31.6011(b)-2(b).)

Safeguards:

Areas housing the system and access terminals are located in secure buildings available to authorized FBI personnel and escorted maintenance and repair personnel only. Access terminals are operational only during normal daytime working hours at which time they are constantly attended.

Retention and disposal:

Electronically stored records for employees and former employees are maintained indefinitely in a vault under the control of a vault supervisor. Pursuant to regulations set forth in the Federal Personnel Manual a copy of the Notification of Personnel Action is made a part of the employees' personnel file.

The automated records are disposable when administrative needs have expired. (Job No. NC1-65-82-4, Part E. 13c. (1)).

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, John Edgar Hoover Building, 10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20535.

Notification procedure:

Same as the above.

Record access procedures:

A request for access to a record from this system shall be made in writing, with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." Include in the request the name and return address of the requestor. Access requests will be directed to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct their request to the Director, FBI stating clearly and concisely what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information sought.

Record source categories:

Sources of information contained in this system are present and former FBI employees and employee personnel files.

None.

JUSTICE/FBI-009

Identification Division Records System.

Federal Bureau of Investigation: J. Edgar Hoover Bldg., 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20537-9700.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

A. Individuals fingerprinted as a result of arrest or incarceration.

B. Persons fingerprinted as a result of Federal employment applications, military service, alien registration and naturalization purposes and individuals desiring to have their fingerprints placed on record with the FBI for personal identification purposes.

Categories of records in the system:

A. Criminal fingerprint cards and related criminal justice information submitted by authorized agencies having criminal justice responsibilities.

B. Civil fingerprint cards submitted by Federal agencies and civil fingerprint cards submitted by persons desiring to have their fingerprints placed on record for personal identification purposes.

C. Identification records sometimes referred to as "rap sheets" which are compilations of criminal history information pertaining to individuals who have criminal fingerprint cards maintained in the system.

D. An alphabetical name index pertaining to all individuals whose fingerprints are maintained in the system. The criminal records and the civil records are maintained in separate files and each file has an alphabetical name index related to the data contained therein.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The system is established, maintained and used under authority granted by 28 U.S.C. 534, 15 U.S.C. 78q, 7 U.S.C. 12a, and Pub. L. 92-544 (86 Stat. 1115), and Pub. L. 99-399. The authority is also codified in 28 CFR 0.85 (b) and (j).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The FBI operates the Identification Division Records System to perform identification and criminal history record information functions, for Federal, State, local, and foreign criminal justice agencies, and for noncriminal justice agencies, and other entities where authorized by Federal statute, State statute pursuant to Pub. L. 92-544 (86 Stat. 1115), Presidential executive order, or regulation of the Attorney General of the United States. In addition, identification assistance is provided in disasters and for other humanitarian purposes.

Release of information to the news media: Guidelines applicable for the release of information to the news media and the public are set forth in 28 CFR 20.33(a)(4), 20.33(c), and 50.2.

Release of information to Members of Congress: Information contained in systems of records maintained by the Department of Justice, not otherwise required to be released pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, may be made available to a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

Release of information to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the General Services Administration (GSA): A record from a system of records may be dislosed as a routine use to NARA and GSA in records management and inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information in the system is stored manually in file cabinets either in its natural state or on microfilm. In addition, some of the information is stored in computerized data storage devices.

Retrievability:

(1) All information in the system is retrievable by technical fingerprint classification and positive identification is effected only by comparison of the unique identifying characteristics appearing in fingerprint impressions submitted for search against the fingerprint cards maintained within the system.

(2) An auxiliary means of retrieval is through alphabetical name indexes which contain names of the individuals, their birth date, other physical descriptors, and the individuals technical fingerprint classification and FBI numbers, if such have been assigned.

Safeguards:

Information in the system is unclassified. Disclosure of information from the system is made only to authorized recipients upon authentication and verification of the right to access the system by such persons and agencies. The physical security and maintenance of information within the system is provided by FBI rules, regulations and procedures.

Retention and disposal:

(1) The Archivist of the United States has approved the destruction of records maintained in the criminal file when the records indicate individuals have reach 80 years of age, and the destruction of records maintained in the civil file when the records indicate individuals have reached 75 years of age. (Job. No. NC1-65-76-1 and NN-171-160)

(2) Fingerprint cards and related arrest data in the system are destroyed seven years following notification of the death of an individual whose records is maintained in the system. (Job No. 351-S190)

(3) Fingerprint cards submitted by State and local criminal justice agencies are either returned or destroyed upon the request of the submitting agencies. The return or destruction of a fingerprint card under this procedure results in the deletion from the system of all arrest information related to that fingerprint card.

(4) Fingerprint cards and related arrest data are removed from the Identification Division Records System upon receipt of Federal court orders for expunctions when accompanied by necessary identifying information. Recognizing lack of jurisdiction of local and State courts over an entity of the Federal Government, the Identification Division Records System, as a matter of comity, either returns or destroys fingerprint cards and related arrest data to local and State criminal justice agencies upon receipt of orders of expunction directed to such agencies by local and State courts when accompanied by necessary identifying informations.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20535.

Notification procedure:

Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures:

The Attorney General has exempted the Identification Division Records System from compliance with subsection (d) of the Act. However, pursuant to 28 CFR 16.30–34, and Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Department of Justice on May 20, 1975 at 40 FR 22144 (Section 20.34) for Criminal Justice Information Systems, an individual is permitted access to his identification record maintained in the Identification Division Records System and procedures are furnished for correcting or challenging alleged deficiencies appearing therein.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as above.

Record source categories:

See Categories of Individuals.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3) and (4); (d); (e)(1), (2), (3), (4)(G) and (H), (5) and (8); (f); and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c) and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register.

National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime (NCAVC).

Federal Bureau of Investigation, Training Division, FBI Academy, Behavioral Science Unit, Quantico, Virgina 22135.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

A. Individuals who relate in any manner to official FBI investigations into violent crimes including, but not limited to, subjects, suspects, victims, witnesses, close relatives, medical personnel, and associates who are relevant to an investigation.

B. Individuals who are the subject of unsolicited information or who offer unsolicited information, and law enforcement personnel who request assistance and/or make inquiries concerning records.

C. Individuals who are the subject of violent crime research studies including, but not limited to, criminal personality profiles, scholarly journals, and news media references.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

The National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime will maintain in both manual and automated formats case investigation reports on all forms of solved and unsolved violent crimes. These violent crimes include, but are not limited to, acts or attempted acts of murder, kidnapping, incendiary arson or bombing, rape, physical torture, sexual trauma, or evidence of violent forms of death.

A. Violent Criminal Apprehension Program (VICAP) case reports submitted to the FBI by a duly constituted Federal, State, county, or municipal law enforcement agency in any violent criminal matter. VICAP reports include but are not limited to, crime scene descriptions, victim and offender descriptive data, laboratory reports, criminal history records, court records, news media references, crime scene photographs, and statements.

B. Violent crime case reports submitted by FBI headquarters or field offices.

C. Violent crime research studies, scholarly journal articles, textbooks, training materials, and news media references of interest to NCAVC personnel.

D. An index of all detected trends, patterns, profiles and methods of operation of known and unknown violent criminals whose records are maintained in the system.

E. An index of the names, addresses, and contact telephone numbers of professional individuals and organizations who are in a position to furnish assistance to the FBI's NCAVC operation.

F. An index of public record sources for historical, statistical and demographic data collected by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

G. An alphabetical name index pertaining to all individuals whose records are maintained in the system.

44 U.S.C., Section 3101; 41 CFR Subpart 101-11.2 and 28 U.S.C., Section 534.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

As currently envisioned, the NCAVC will be administered by the FBI through its Training Division's Behavioral Science Unit Located at the FBI Academy, Quantico, Virginia. Its primary mission is to consolidate research, training, and operational support activities for the express purposes of providing expertise to any legitimate law enforcement agency confronted with unusual, bizarre, and/or particularly vicious or repetitive violent crimes.

Records described above are maintained in this system to permit the FBI to function efficiently as an authorized, responsive component of the Department of Justice. Therefore, the information in this system is disclosed to officials and employees of the Department of Justice, and/or all components thereof, who need the information to perform their official duties.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any Federal, State, local, or foreign government agency directly engaged in the criminal justice process where access is directly related to a law enforcement function of the recipient agency in connection with the tracking identification, and apprehensive of persons believed to be engaged in repeated or exceptionally violent acts of criminal behavior.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body, e.g., the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Merit System Protection Board, before which the FBI is authorized to appear, when (a) the FBI or any employee thereof in his or her official capacity, or (b) any employee in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee, or (c) the United States, where the FBI determines it is likely to be affected by the litigation, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by the FBI to be relevant to the litigation.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to an organization or individual in both the public or private sector pursuant to an appropriate legal proceeding or, if deemed necessary, to elicit information or cooperation from the recipient for use by the FBI in the performance of an authorized activity. An example could be where the activities of an individual are disclosed to a member of the public to elicit his/her assistance in FBI apprehension or detection efforts.

Information in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to an organization or individual in the public or private sector where there is reason to believe the recipient is or could become the target of a particular criminal activity or conspiracy and to the extent the information is relevant to the protection of life or property.

Relevant information may be disclosed from this system to the news media and general public where there exists a legitimate public interest. Examples would include: To obtain public or media assistance in the tracking, identifying, and apprehending of persons believed to be engaged in repeated acts of violent criminal behavior; to notify the public and/or media of arrests; to protect the public from imminent threat to life or property where necessary; and to disseminate information to the public and/or media to obtain cooperation with violent crime research, evaluation, and statistical programs.

Information in this system may be disclosed as is necessary to appropriately respond to congressional inquiries on behalf of constituents.

A record from a system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906 to the extent that legislation governing the record permits.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information in the system is stored manually in locked file cabinets, either in its natural state or on microfilm, at the NCAVC in Quantico, Virginia. The active main files are maintained in hard copy form and some inactive records are maintained on microfilm.

In addition, some of the information is stored in computerized data storage devices at the NCAVC and FBI Computer Center in Washington, D.C. Investigative information which is maintained in computerized form may be stored in memory on disk storage on computer tape, or on computer printed listings.

Retrievability:

On-line computer access to NCAVC files is achieved by using the following search descriptors:

A. A data base which contains the names of individuals, their birth dates, physical descriptions, and other identification numbers such as FBI numbers, if such have been assigned.

B. Summary variables contained on VICAP reports submitted to the NCAVC as previously described.

C. Key words citations to violent crime research studies, scholarly journal articles, textbooks, training materials, and media references.

Safeguards:

Records are maintained in restricted areas are accessed only by FBI employees. All FBI employees receive a complete pre-employment background investigation. All employees are cautioned about divulging confidential information or any information contained in FBI files. Failure to abide by this provision violates Department of Justice regulations and may violate certain statutes providing maximum severe penalties of a ten thousand dollar fine or 10 years' imprisonment or both. Employees who resign or retire are also cautioned about divulging information acquired in the job.

Registered mail is used to transmit routine hard copy records between field offices. Highly classified records are hand carried by Special Agents or personnel of the Armed Forces Courier Service. Highly classified or sensitive privacy information, which is electronically transmitted between field offices and to and from FBI Headquarters, is transmitted in encrypted form to prevent interception and interpretation.

Information transmitted in teletype form between the NCAVC in Quantico, Virginia and the FBI Computer Center in Washington, D.C., is encrypted prior to transmission at both places to ensure confidentiality and security of the data.

FBI field offices involved in certain complicated, investigative matters may be provided with on-line access to the computerized information which is maintained for them on disc storage in the FBI Computer Center in Washington, D.C. This computerized data is also transmitted in encrypted form.

Retention and disposal:

Records are proposed for destruction after 50 years or upon termination of the program, whichever is earlier. The disposition schedule is pending with NARA as Job No. N1-65-86-13.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Notification procedure:

Address inquiries to the System Manager.

Record access procedures:

Requests for access to records in this system shall be made in writing with the envelope and the letter clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." The request must provide the full name, complete address, date of birth, place of birth, and notarized signature of the individual who is the subject of the record requested. The request should also include the general subject matter of the document or its file number—along with any other known information which may assist in making a search of the records. The request must also provide a return addressing for transmitting the information. Access requests should be addressed to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should also direct their request to the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D.C. 20535. The request should state clearly and concisely (1) the reasons for contesting the information, and (2) the proposed amendment to the information.

Record source categories:

The FBI, by the very nature of its responsibilities to investigate violations of law within its investigative jurisdiction and ensure the internal security of the United States, collects information from a wide variety of sources. Basically, information is obtained, as a result of investigative efforts, from other Government agencies, law enforcement agencies, the general public, informants, witnesses, and public source material.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G) and (H), (f) and (g) of the Privacy Act pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j)(2) and (k)(2). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c), and (e).

FOREIGN CLAIMS SETTLEMENT COMMISSION

Indexes of Claimants (Alphabetical)—FCSC.

Foreign Claims Settlement Commission, 1111 20th Street, NW., Washington, DC 20579.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Maintained on all individuals who filed claims for compensation under the statutes administered by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission.

Categories of records in the system:

3 x 5 index cards and data processing print-out indexes containing names of claimants, claim and decision numbers, date and disposition of claims, addresses and dates of birth.

5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Used by authorized Commission personnel for identification of individual claims and to obtain information concerning disposition of claims where record systems have been destroyed.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget, in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19, at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that circular.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a member of Congress or to a congressional staff member in response to an inquiry of the congressional office made at the request of the individual about whom the record is maintained.

A record, or any facts derived therefrom, may be disclosed in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the FCSC is authorized to appear or to the Department of Justice for use in such proceeding when:

i. The FCSC, or any subdivision thereof, or

ii. Any employee of the FCSC in his or her official capacity, or

iii. Any employee of the FCSC in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee, or

iv. The United States, where the FCSC determines that the litigation is likely to affect it or any of its subdivisions, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by the FCSC to be arguably relevant and necessary to the litigation and such disclosure is determined by the FCSC to be a use compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper index cards contained in metal cardex containers. Data processing index print-outs stored on shelves in cardboard binders.

Retrievability:

By name.

Safeguards:

Security guards in building. Records maintained in locked rooms accessible only to authorized Commission personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Permanent records. Disposition will be made in accordance with 44 U.S.C. 3301-3314 when such records are determined no longer useful.

System manager(s) and address:

Administrative Office, Foreign Claims Settlement Commission, 1111 20th Street NW., Washington, DC 20579. 202/653-6155 or TDD 202/653-5112.

Notification procedure:

Set forth in Part 504 of Title 45, Code of Federal Regulations.

Contesting record procedures:

Same as above.

Record source categories:

Individual on whom the record is maintained and information obtained by actions taken by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission as a result of adjudication of individual claims.

JUSTICE/FCSC—2

Bulgaria, Claims Against (1st Program)—FCSC.

Washington National Records Center, 4205 Suitland Road, Washington, DC 20409.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

U.S. Nationals who suffered certain property losses or damages in Bulgaria prior to August 9, 1955.

Categories of records in the system:

Claim application form containing name and address of claimant and representative, if any; date and place of birth or naturalization; nature and amount of claim; description, ownership, and value of property; and evidence to support claim for the purpose of receiving compensation.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title III, International Claims Settlement Act of 1949, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Records were used for the purpose of adjudicating claims of individuals; issuance of decisions concerning eligibility to receive compensation under the Act; notifications to claimants of rights to appeal; and preparation of certifications of awards, if any, to Treasury Department for payment by authorized FCSC personnel. Names and other data furnished by claimants used for verifying citizenship status with INS. Law enforcement: In the event that a system of records maintained by FCSC to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget, in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19, at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that circular.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a member of Congress or to a congressional staff member in response to an inquiry of the congressional office made at the request of the individual about whom the record is maintained.

A record, or any facts derived therefrom, may be disclosed in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the

FCSC is authorized to appear or to the Department of Justice for use in such proceeding when:

i. The FCSC, or any subdivision thereof, or

ii. Any employee of the FCSC in his or her official capacity, or

iii. Any employee of the FCSC in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee, or

iv. The United States, where the FCSC determines that the litigation is likely to affect it or any of its subdivisions, is a party to litigation or has an interest in litigation and such records are determined by the FCSC to be arguably relevant and necessary to the litigation and such disclosure is determined by the FCSC to be a use compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

This system of records is used to serve the public by providing data for responses, when authorized, to written inquiries, complaints and so forth. It is also used to administer the management, operational, and enforcement activities of the Service. The records are used by officers and employees of the Service and the Department of Justice in the administration and enforcement of the immigration and nationality laws, and related statutes, including the processing of applications for benefits under these laws, detecting violations of these laws, and for referrals for prosecution. Relevant information contained in this system of records may be disclosed as follows:

A. To clerks and judges of courts exercising naturalization jurisdiction for the purpose of filing petitions for naturalization and to enable such courts to determine eligibility for naturalization or grounds for revocation of naturalization.

B. To the Department of State in the processing of petitions or applications for benefits under the Immigration and Nationality Laws, Act, and all other immigration and nationality laws, including treaties and reciprocal agreements.

C. To other federal, state, and local government law enforcement and regulatory agencies, foreign governments, the Department of Defense, including all components thereof, the Department of State, the Department of the Treasury, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Selective Service System, the United States Coast Guard, the United Nations, INTERPOL and individuals and organizations during the course of investigation in the processing of a matter or a proceeding within the purview of the immigration and nationality laws, to elicit information required by the Service to carry out its functions and statutory mandates.

D. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law (whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature) to the appropriate agency, (whether federal state, local or foreign) charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violations or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

E. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of the immigration and nationality laws, or of a general status within Service jurisdiction, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, to a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal and to opposing counsel in the course of discovery.

F. To a federal, state, local or foreign government agency in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, loan, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

G. To a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses. If necessary to obtain information relevant to a decision of this Service concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license grant or other benefit.

H. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of the laws of another nation. (whether civil or criminal) to the appropriate foreign government agency charged with enforcement or implementing such laws: To international organizations engaged in the collection and dissemination of intelligence concerning criminal activity.

I. To the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

J. To other Federal agencies for the purpose of conducting national intelligence and security investigations.

K. To an applicant, petitioner or respondent or to his or her attorney or representative (as defined in 8 CFR 1.1(j)) in connection with any proceeding before the Service.

L. To a federal, state, local or foreign government agency on a discretionary and/or reciprocal basis in response to its request, to assist in the collection or repayment of loans and fraudulently-secured benefits or grants.

M. To the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

N. To a Member of Congress or staff acting upon the Member's behalf when the Member or staff requests the information on behalf of and at the request of the individual who is the subject of the record.

O. To General Services Administration and National Archives and Records Administration in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Generally, index records and cards are stored in manually operated index machines, file drawers, and boxes; other information is stored manually as paper records in file folders at location B, C, E, F, and H, supra. Inactive files are stored at Federal Records Centers, Exceptions are as follows:

A. Alien address report index and records: Forms I-53, Alien Address Report, are microfilmed in the order in which they are received. An index is maintained on microfiche and on computer-readable magnetic tape.

B. Alien documentation, identification, and telecommunications (ADIT) system information is stored on magnetic tape and disks. Original forms completed by the individuals are filed with other records described for the subsystem "Centralized index and records."

C. Alien enemy index: Index records are maintained on microfilm. Actual files are stored in Federal Records Centers.

D. Centralized index and records: Most records are paper documents stored in file folders. Those index records which can be accessed electronically are stored on magnetic disk and tape.

E. Enforcement indexes: Original index cards and records are stored in manually operated file drawers and machines. Some records are also maintained in the automated system published in a notice entitled "JUSTICE/DEA-INS-111, Automated Intelligence Records Systems (Pathfinder),"

F. Examinations indexes: (1) Application and petition system records are stored on magnetic media at the Department of Justice Data Management Service. Original paper forms completed by the individuals are filed with other records in the subsystem called "Centralized index and records" (2) Service lookout system records are maintained on magnetic tape and in printed looseleaf reference books at ports of entry.

Retrievability:

Generally, records are indexed and retrievable by name and/or "A" or "C" file number Exceptions are as follows:

A. Air detail office index system: Aircraft data is filed in-numerical sequence, within each calendar year.

B. Intelligence indexes: Records are retrieved by name within organization, activity, or type of violation.

C. Examiners' docket lists of petitioners for naturalization, and Master Docket lists of petitions for naturalization pending one year or more, are filed chronologically for each court exercising naturalization jurisdiction. Relating records are filed by petition number.

Access controls: Records are safeguarded in accordance with Department of Justice rules and procedures. INS officers are located in buildings under security guard, and access to premises is by official identification. All records are stored in spaces which are locked outside of normal office hours. Many records are stored in cabinets or machines which are locked outside of normal office hours. Access to automated system is controlled by restricted passward for use of remote terminals in secured areas.

Retention and disposal:

Several general rules apply to many subsystems of records:

A. Alien registration records are retained for 100 years from the closing data or date of last actions.

B. Correspondence control cards (forms G-617) are normally retained for one year following the year in which created.

C. Correspondence portions of subject files are normally retained no longer than two years. Records are then either microfilmed or destroyed by burning.

D. Records in policy portions of subject files are retained indefinitely.

E. Indexes and records not specifically mentioned are retained only so long as they serve a useful purpose.

F. Records are destroyed by shredding, burning, or as provided in disposal schedules.

Exceptions to the general practices are as follows:

A. Alien documentation, identification, and telecommunications (ADIT) system records are maintained until naturalization, death, or other material change in status of the individual, or until the registration card is relinquished.

B. Air detail office index: Forms I-92A are retained for five years.

C. Border Patrol trainee examination papers are destroyed six months after the trainee officer completes his probationary year.

D. Centralized index records stored on magnetic disk and tape are updated periodically and maintained for the life of the relating record. Original index cards are microfilmed, then destroyed.

E. Compassionate cases system records are retained for three years after completion of action.

F. Congressional Mail Unit correspondence control index records are retained for three years.

G. Emergency reassignment index records are destroyed upon the transfer, separation, retirement, or death of the employee.

H. Enforcement indexes relating to law violators and witnesses are retained for three years. Routine investigations records are destroyed when the investigation is closed. Correspondence control records are destroyed after final action on the subject matter.

I. Examinations indexes: (1) Application and petition system records are deleted from the automated data base five years after the date of the last activity. Inactive records will be stored on magnetic tape for an additional five years. (2) Service lookout system records are deleted five years after insertion, unless removed at an earlier date or reinserted by the listing agency.

J. Finance Section indexes; accounts with creditors and debtors are retained for two years, from the close of the fiscal year to which they relate and then are transferred to Federal Records Centers for storage and disposition.

K. Freedom of Information correspondence control index cards and records of requests under appeal or litigation are retained for six years after date of final action.

L. Health records are retained for six years after the date of the last entry.

M. Intelligence indexes: Records are maintained indefinitely.

N. Naturalization examiners, docket lists and master docket lists are retained for two years. Naturalization and citizenship docket cards are purged after applications are rejected, closed, granted, or denied, or petitions for naturalization are granted, denied, or nonfiled.

O. Microfilmed manifest records are retained permanently.

P. Personal data cards are retained for three years after the employee is separated (Location A. supra). In regional offices (Location B. supra), records are destroyed after the employee is separated.

Q. Personnel investigations records are destroyed at the close of the fiscal year following the year of investigation. However, Operation Clean Sweep records are being retained until the program is terminated. Records of criminal investigation are retained as long as the information serves a useful purpose.

R. Security access clearance index records are destroyed upon the separation, death, or retirement of the employee.

S. White House and Attorney General correspondence control index cards are retained for one year beyond the expiration of the term of the President.

System manager(s) and address:

The system manager, Servicewide, is the Associate Commissioner, Information Systems (Location A, supra).

B. The Associate Commissioner, Information Systems, is the sole manager of the following subsystems:

1. Agency information control record index.
2. Alien address reports index and records.
3. Alien documentation, identification and telecommunications (ADIT) system.

6. Examinations indexes; Service lookout system.

7. Intelligence indexes.

Record access procedures:

In all cases, requests for access to a record from any record subsystem shall be in writing by mail or in person. If a request for access is made in writing, the envelope and letter shall be clearly marked "Privacy Access Request." The requester shall include a description of the general subject matter and if known, the relating file number. To identify a record relating to an individual, the requester should provide the individual's full name; date and place of birth; alien, citizen, and, if appropriate, the date and place of entry into or departure from the United States. The rquester shall also provide a return address for transmitting the information.

Most of the subsystems of records contain information which the Attorney General has exempted from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and (k), and records which are classified pursuant to Executive order. Each requester will be accorded access to the records relating to himself only to the extent that such records are not within the scope of exemptions and are not classified.

Contesting record procedures:

Any individual desiring to contest or amend information maintained in the system should direct his request to the INS office that maintains his record or if not known to the FOIA/PA Officer, INS, 425 I Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20536 or to the office in which he believes a record concerning him may exist. The request should state clearly what information is being contested, the reasons for contesting it, and the proposed amendment to the information.

Record source categories:

Basic information contained in INS records is supplied by individuals on Department of State and INS applications and reports. Other information comes from inquiries and/or complaints from members of the general public and members of the Congress; referrals of inquiries and/or complaints directed to the White House or Attorney General; INS reports of investigation, sworn statements, correspondence and memorandums; official reports, memorandums, and written referrals from other government agencies, including Federal, state, and local, and from various courts and regulatory agencies; information from foreign government agencies and international organizations; and personnel and administrative applications and forms.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4); (d); (e)(1), (2), and (3); (e)(4) (G), (H); (e)(5) and (8); and (g); of the Privacy Act. These exemptions apply to the extent that information in the subsystems is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (c); and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register as additions to Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations (28 CFR 16.99).

JUSTICE/INS-001A

The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) Alien File (A File) and Central Index System (CIS).

System location:

Central, Regional, District, and other INS file control offices in the United States as detailed in JUSTICE/INS-999. Remote access terminals will also be located in other components of the Department of Justice and in the Department of State on a limited basis.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

A. Individuals covered by provisions of the Immigration and Nationality Act of the United States.

B. Individuals who are under investigation, were investigated in the past, or who are suspected of violating the criminal or civil provisions of treaties, statutes, Executive Orders, and Presidential proclamations administered by INS, and witnesses and informats having knowledge of such violations.

Categories of records in the system:

A. The computerized indexing system contains personal identification data such as A-File number, name, date and place of birth, date and port of entry, as well as the location of each official hardcopy paper file known as the "A-file." Microfilm records contain naturalization certificates and any supporting documentation prior to April 1, 1956; however, after that date, this type of information is maintained in the "A-file" which is described in B. below.

B. The hard copy A-file contains all the individual's official record material such as naturalization certificates; various forms, applications and petitions for benefits under the immigration and nationality laws; reports of investigations; statements; reports; correspondence; and memorandums on each individual for whom INS has created a record under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Sections 103 and 290 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended (8 U.S.C. 1103, and 8 U.S.C. 1360), and the regulations pursuant thereto.

Purpose(s):

The system is used primarily by INS and other Department of Justice employees to administer and enforce the immigration and nationality laws, and related statutes, including the processing of applications for benefits under these laws, detecting violations of these laws, and the referral of such violations for prosecution.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Relevant information contained in this system of records may be disclosed as follows:

A. To clerks and judges of courts exercising naturalization jurisdiction for the purpose of filing petitions for naturalization and to enable such courts to determine eligibility for naturalization or grounds for revocation of naturalization.

B. To the Department of State in the processing of petitions or applications for benefits under the Immigration and Nationality Act, and all other immigration and nationality laws, including treaties and reciprocal agreements.

C. To other Federal, State, and local government law enforcement and regulatory agencies and foreign governments, including the Department of Defense and all components thereof, the Department of State, the Department of the Treasury, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Selective Service System, the United States Coast Guard, the United Nations, and INTERPOL, and individuals and organizations during the course of investigation in the processing of a matter or during a proceeding within the purview of the immigration and nationality laws to elicit information required by INS to carry out its functions and statutory mandates.

D. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law (whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature), to the appropriate agency (whether Federal, State, local or foreign), charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violations, or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

E. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of the immigration and nationality laws, or of a general statute within INS jurisdiction, or of a regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, to a court, magistrate, or administrative tribunal in the course of presenting evidence, and to opposing counsel during discovery.

F. To a Federal, State, local or foreign government agency in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention by such agency of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of such an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, loan, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

G. To a Federal, State or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a decision of INS concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

H. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of the law of another nation (whether civil or criminal), to the appropriate foreign government agency charged with enforcing or implementing such laws and to international organizations engaged in the collection and dissemination of intelligence concerning criminal activity.

I. To the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in the Circular.

J. To other Federal agencies for the purpose of conducting national intelligence and security investigations.

K. To an applicant, petitioner or respondent or to his or her attorney or representative as defined in 8 CFR 1.1(j) in connection with any proceeding before INS.

L. To a Federal, State, local or foreign government agency in response to its request for assistance in the collection or repayment of loans and fraudulently or erroneously secured benefits or grants, or other debts owed to the United States.

M. To student volunteers whose services are accepted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3111 or to students enrolled in a college work study program pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 2751 et seq.

N. To the news media and the public pursuant to 28 CFR 50.2 unless it is determined that release of the specific information in the context of a particular case would constitute an unwarranted invasion of a personal privacy.

P. To the General Services Administration and the National Archives and Records Administration in records management inspections conducted under the authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Most A-file records are paper documents and are stored in file folders. Some microfilm and other records are stored in manually operated machines, file drawers, and filing cabinets. Those index records which can be accessed electronically are stored in a data base on magnetic disk and tape.

Retrievability:

These records are indexed and retrieved by A-file number, name, and/or date of birth.

Safeguards:

INS offices are located in buildings under security guard, and access to premises is by official identification. All records are stored in spaces which are locked during non-duty office hours. Many records are stored in cabinets or machines which are also locked during non-duty office hours. Access to automated records is controlled by passwords and name identifications.

Retention and disposal:

A-file records are retained for 75 years from the closing date or date of last action and then destroyed. Automated index records are retained only as long as they serve a useful purpose and then they are deleted from the system disk and/or tape.

System manager(s) and address:

The Servicewide system manager is the Director, Records Management Branch, Records Systems Division, Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 I Street NW., Washington, DC 20536.

Notification procedure:

Address inquiries to the system manager identified above, the nearest INS office, or the INS office maintaining desired records, if known, by using the list of principal offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service Appendix: JUSTICE/INS-999, published in the Federal Register.

Record access procedures:

Make all requests for access in writing to the Freedom of Information Act/Privacy Act (FOIA/PA) officer at one of the addresses identified above. Clearly mark the envelope and letter "Privacy Act Request." Provide the A-file number and/or the full name, date and place of birth, and notarized signature of the individual who is the subject of the record, and any other information which may assist in identifying and locating the record, and a return address. For convenience, INS Form G-639, FOIA/PA Request, may be obtained from the nearest INS office and use to submit a request for access.

Contesting record procedures:

Direct all requests to contest or amend information to the FOIA/PA Officer at one of the addresses identified above. State clearly and concisely the information being contested, the reason for contesting it, and the proposed amendment thereof. Clearly mark the envelope "Privacy Act Request." The record must be identified in the same manner as described for making a request for access.

Record source categories:

Basic information contained in INS records is supplied by individuals on Department of State and INS applications and forms. Other information comes from inquiries and/or complaints from members of the general public and members of Congress; referrals of inquiries and/or complaints directed to the White House or Attorney General, INS reports to investigations, sworn statements, correspondence and memorandums; official reports, memorandums, and written referrals from other entities, including Federal, State, and local governments, various courts and regulatory agencies, foreign government agencies and international organizations.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

The Attorney General has exempted this system from subsections (c) (3) and (4); (d); (e) (1), (2), and (3); (e)(4) (G) and (H); (e) (5) and (8); and (g) of the Privacy Act. These exemptions apply to the extent that information in the system is subject to exemption pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and (k). Rules have been promulgated in accordance with the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 (b), (c), and (e) and have been published in the Federal Register and codified as additions to Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations (28 CFR 16.99).
